For June 28 Rally

Candidates Get Power-Packed Questionnaires

VIRGINIA BEACH — The political rally planned June 28 promises to bring to light some rather definite opinions on various political situations by the five state senatorial candidates who will participate in the forum.

The Norfolk-Virginia Beach League of Women Voters, primary sponsors of the non-partisan rally, have mailed 2-part questionnaires to the candidates and their replies to the questions are expected to produce interesting evaluations on timely topics.

The questionnaires were compiled by the Virginia League of Women Voters for distribution through local groups. They were sent to William P. Kellam and L. Charles Burlage, Virginia Beach; William Spang, Jr., Portsmouth; and William Hodges and Gordon Marsh, Chesapeake. The five candidates are competing for the three senatorial seats in this district.

The first part of the questionnaire asks for biographical data on each candidate but the second portion delves into their views on eight major issues. These questions include:

1. Do you think the State of Virginia should take steps to elevate the debt load now carried by its cities and counties? Please explain.

2. Maintaining the "environment that makes Virginia a good place in which to live and work" has been stressed by the Virginia Outdoor Recreation Commission. What measures would you recommend to further encourage tourism, preserve natural resources, and provide our expanding population with additional state parks, lakes, campgrounds, etc.?

3. Economic and industrial growth in Virginia depends on planned river basin development. In order to solve the problems of pollution and to meet the sometimes conflicting demands upon our water resources, what programs would you recommend to best serve the public interest?

4. The report of the Virginia Mental Health Study Commission indicates serious shortcomings in our mental health program. If elected, will you approve the appropriation of an increase in general funds for the Department of Mental Hygiene and Hospitals? Will you further recommend and approve allocating

Phone Expansion

KEMPSVILLE — The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Virginia has appropriated $183,000 for the addition of 2,340 lines and 2,000 terminals of dial equipment in the Indian River Road central office, according to Virginia Beach Manager L. F. Patrick.

Dedicated to Departed Shipmates

Preventive Rabies Clinics Are Planned

VIRGINIA BEACH — Two of the area-wide rabies clinics planned by the State Public Health Department have been scheduled in Virginia Beach on June 12 and June 19 from 1 to 4 p.m.

Locations of the June 12 clinics will be Kempville Junior High School, Alan B. Shepard Civic Center and Ocean Park Volunteer Fire Department.

On June 19 they will be held at the Creeds Volunteer Fire Department, Aragona Elementary School and Seateck Volunteer Fire Department.

There will be a charge of $1.50 per dog. The clinics are not open to cats.

Although there have been no indications of rabies in this area, the clinics are designed as a preventive measure. Officials believe that the absence of rabies is due primarily to the clinics held in 1963.

The clinics are especially important in this area because an outbreak of rabies could seriously affect tourism in a resort such as Virginia Beach. Therefore, all dog owners are urged to take advantage of this Public Health Service.

CAROLYN RICHARDSON

LOCAL GIRL HONORED

LYNCHBURG — Carolyn P. Richardson of Virginia Beach is co-winner of the sophomore award for outstanding work in biology at Randolph-Macon Woman's College.

The presentation was made at an Awards Assembly by Dr. William F. Quillian, Jr., president of Randolph-Macon.

Miss Richardson received a check for $75 and a year's subscription to "Scientific American."

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Richardson, 208 53rd St., Virginia Beach.

Wreck Kills Driver

VIRGINIA BEACH — A single car accident on a rural road in Blackwater claimed the life of a 19 year old Norfolk youth on Saturday. Police identified the victim, Virginia Beach's sixth traffic fatality of the year, as Elwood Woodhouse, driver of the car.

The two passengers, Artis Charles Holmes of Chesapeake, and Wesley Gallop of Virginia Beach, were hospitalized with internal injuries.

Police said the victim's car went out of control and hit a ditch, skidding sideways 132 feet before slamming into a tree.

Picnic Planned

BIRCHWOOD — Birchwood Garden Club will hold its annual picnic honoring husbands on Saturday at 6:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. G. O. McCool, Karen Drive.

FORMER WINNERS TO EXHIBIT IN ANNIVERSARY SHOW

VIRGINIA BEACH — Marc Moon of Ohio, the Best-in-Show winner of the 1964 Boardwalk Art Show, was the first artist to respond to a special invitation sent to winners of the nine previous shows to participate in the show's 10th anniversary.

Moon's "Gulls Over Wingspread" was judged top winner last summer and was awarded the Virginia Beach Art Association's $500 grand prize. The watercolor was displayed on the cover of the Association's yearbook of events, as is customary with the annual best-in-show painting.

Invitations have been mailed to former winners: Leonette Adler, 1956, for "Trees"; Leon Wooten, 1957, "Parking Lot"; William Gaines, 1958, "Beach at Peregina"; William Fletcher Jones, 1959, "Cathedral"; Glen Heaton, 1960, "Bud Vase"; Walter Thrift, 1961, "Neptune's Table"; Lowell Nesbitt, 1962, "Thorns of Night"; and Lois Greiger, 1963, "Artist's Model."

Those former winners who return to celebrate the show's 10th anniversary will receive special recognition from the thousands of spectators by the Association's new turquoise and white Distinguished Honors flag which will fly above their exhibits.

Another feature of the 10th anniversary celebration will be a "busman's holiday" for the exhibiting artists. On July 16 Sherwin-Williams Paint Co. of Virginia Beach will set up a large canvas and will make available an ample supply of paints, brushes and turpentine. The first artist to register may begin the painting, other artists may record their own bits of color and design and last year's Best-in-Show winner will add the finishing touches.

This painting, a composite work of the visiting artists, will become the property of the Virginia Beach Art Association and, along with several other paintings acquired over the years, will hang in a place of honor in the Association's proposed Fine Arts Building.

As was previously announced,

DEADLINE

Poll taxes required for registration will be for 1962, 63, and 64. Deadline for the payment of poll taxes was May 1.

Any information regarding registration of voters may be obtained by calling the General Registrar, Mrs. Anna H. Cotton, at 426-6111.

Jaycees Head Blood Drive

VIRGINIA BEACH — A drive to collect more blood for the American Red Cross Blood Bank has been undertaken by the Princess Anne Junior Chamber of Commerce. The Jaycees, assisted by the Jayettes, will be at Miller's Discount Department Store on Virginia Beach Boulevard next Wednesday from 1 to 6 p.m.

Volunteer blood donors will be able to give their blood right inside Miller's store, in full view of everyone. It is hoped that many who may appear out of curiosity will see the simple procedure and will feel inspired to give their blood also.

It is a shameful fact that too little blood is collected for the Red Cross Blood Bank in a city the size of Virginia Beach, populated by so many other-wise civic minded citizens.

The goal is to collect at least 100 pints.

NAVY PLANS TO CONSTRUCT TRAILER PARK

VIRGINIA BEACH — A top-ranking Navy official has notified the local branch of the Fleet Reserve Association that the Navy is planning to take steps to relieve the trailer park problems confronting military personnel in this area.

Ray L. Dionne, president of Branch 166 of the Fleet Reserve Association, has received notification from the Office of the Chief of Naval Operations stating that government built trailer parks will get under construction later this year.

The action came in response to a complaint, filed May 10 by Dionne on behalf of many mobile home owners, outlining the "dreadful conditions" of privately owned parks.

Dionne's letter, addressed to Secretary of the Navy Paul H. Nitze, was based on a petition circulated among military personnel living in trailer parks. The petition pointed out that residents of the parks are forced to pay outrageous lot rents, the rentals have jumped three times in the past two years and another raise is proposed and requests for improvements are ignored.

The Navy's reply came from Rear Admiral F. J. Brush who said the matter had been turned over to his office.

Admiral Brush told Dionne, "It has been recognized that many military personnel own mobile homes but are unable to find satisfactory private trailer parks to park them."

"Accordingly, a program has been initiated whereby the Navy is constructing trailer parks at places where such a requirement exists. In the Norfolk-Virginia Beach-Ocean area the Navy is planning on constructing several hundred trailer spaces over the next few years. The start of the first increment containing 500 spaces will commence the latter part of this year."

The Navy's decision to construct such parks followed Dionne's suggested solution. In his letter he asked that the Navy consider military government owned trailer parks as complements to military housing.

Dionne was quite enthused over the Navy's stand in backing up the local military mobile home owners and has hopes that such programs will also be endorsed by other branches of the service.

"I hope to see the Army, Marines and Coast Guard take similar action," he said. "If the area gets enough government built lots for its personnel, the private park owners will be forced to improve conditions in their parks."

ROAD PROJECT OPENS

VIRGINIA BEACH — A Virginia Beach highway project is among 14 secondary system projects open for bids by the State Highway Department.

Bids will be opened by the State Highway Department in Richmond on July 7.

Midway At Plaza

PRINCESS ANNE PLAZA — A giant amusement park moved into the Princess Anne Plaza Shopping Center Wednesday and will operate until June 12. The various rides and entertainment features are sponsored by the Plaza Shopping Center merchants, and discount tickets for the rides will be given to customers patronizing the stores.

The rides are open from 5 to 9 p.m. nightly. The highlight each evening is the free act of the magnificent Madeline Zaccin being shot from a cannon at 8 p.m.

by Gretchen Koonz
One of the important aspects of belonging to the YWCA of your city and the YWCA of the USA is being part of the World YWCA with fellow members in 75 countries of the World. The very world-wide ties of the YWCA and the fine work that it does to create mutual cringing and understanding between nations was brought into acute focus at the recent three-day YWCA Workshop held at the Golden Triangle. "Our responsibilities as Christians in a World Setting" was the theme for the workshop and was very ably presented to participants by and International YWCA Team and by National Board and Staff members. The International Team, some of whom appeared in native dress were: Miss Annie Takenaka of Hawaii, Miss Dagmar Ingram of Ceylon, Miss Mary Hackett of Canada, Miss Gertrude Kazunga of Zambia (Africa), and Mrs. Mary Wu of Taiwan. Each spoke of the action of the YWCA in her country, of its accomplishments, and needs that have not been met.

The Reverend Daisie Kitagawa, Executive Secretary of the Division of Domestic Mission, Executive Council of the Episcopal Church gave an address which was the highlight of the workshop. He is the author of "Race Relations and Christian Mission". His talk was an extended plea for a tolerance based on understanding of the peoples, their cultures, and the changes of the twentieth century. The workshop was concerned with helping YWCA leaders and members to analyze the needs in their changing communities and to determine the task of the YWCA, locally, nationally and internationally. One came away imbued with the urgency for women to corporately involve themselves as Christians bringing people of all faiths and races together in neighborly love and understanding.

Saturday night with all clubs in full swing it was hard to decide which clubs to pick. First of all we started with the Cavalier Beach and Cabana Club, with the weather chilly and the dancing outside, the people were slow moving and we were about to freeze. Leaving the Cabana Club we went to the Cape Colony; the band under the name of Al Rinaldus had things swinging so we lingered for awhile. On entering the ballroom the first thing that caught the eye was the dancers. One of the many couples dancing were: Jay Banner and Mrs. J. S. Clare whose dancing was so well performed that they were outstanding. Having dinner were: Mr. & Mrs. R. W. Mason, Mr. & Mrs. R. Gookin, Mr. & Mrs. R. C. Mitchell, Mr. & Mrs. James C. Borror and Mr. & Mrs. Wyndham C. Brown.

Having waiters to serve drinks in the dining room we couldn't understand why the men kept leaving the room to go in the bar. Curiosity being the better part of a woman I decided to have a look and much to my amazement I found all eyes glued to the Scopitone. In case you don't know what a Scopitone is I shall try to explain. It is a record player that has pictures above in color performing to the playing of the record. Take it from this reporter you will find them both interesting and some times real wild. Seated watching these performances were: Mr. & Mrs. Leroy Pearson, Mr. & Mrs. Bud Tunstall, Mrs. Faye Hutchinson, and Dr. E. Myer.

Others seen at the club were: Mr. & Mrs. R. Soffel, Mr. & Mrs. R. T. Griggs, Mr. & Mrs. J. A. Duncan, Mr. & Mrs. V. K. Almond, Jr., Mr. & Mrs. George Darden, Mr. & Mrs. F. A. Siegfried, Mr. & Mrs. Joe Stanley, Mr. & Mrs. Garner House and Mr. & Mrs. Earl Slattum.

When we were preparing to leave the club I overheard Mrs.

Jay Banner and Mrs. J. S. Clare dancing at the Cape Colony.

Stanley, Mrs. House and Mrs. Slattum say they couldn't keep up with the whereabouts of their husbands. Did you look in the bar room for them?

Next stop was the Cape's Jack Jennings quartet had everyone really participating in the fun. The ballroom was full and it seemed as though everybody knew each other. Dr. T. Ray Jarrett was table hopping talking for a while at each table then moving on to the next table. Grayson Whitehurst, on seeing Sylvia Arwood who was helping me for the night, grabbed her and off they went to dance. I can't say that I blame him, Sylvia did look so pretty.

Seated at some of the tables were: Mr. & Mrs. Carl Nomeyko, Mr. & Mrs. A. J. Flacomo, Mr. & Mrs. Robert Hackett, Dr. & Mrs. Charles Newton of Richmond, Mr. & Mrs. Bob Thompson, Mr. & Mrs. Lloyd Potter, Mr. & Mrs. Edwin Brock, Mr. & Mrs. Stanley Hudson, Mr. & Mrs. Austin Owens, Mr. & Mrs. Ruck Tayloe, Mr. & Mrs. Martin, Mr. & Mrs. Robert Sprad, Mr. & Mrs. Wm. Calpepper, Mr. & Mrs. Ben Dillo, Mr. & Mrs. Don Leeks, Mr. Leeks is the president of the Pacemaker Yacht Club, Mr. & Mrs. Webb Brown, Mr. & Mrs. L. O. Branch, Dr. & Mrs. John L. Lille, Dr. & Mrs. E. W. Baker and Mr. & Mrs. Wm. Haycox, Jr.

Next week on Party Line I plan to run more pictures on the above clubs and not write so much.

EDITORIAL SPEAKING

Liquor By The Drink

For the three months that we have been writing the editorials, we have been waiting to write this one. We wanted to take a good look around, and we wanted to gather enough ammunition to stave off the expected criticism of this editorial. We have also waited until the tourist season opened, so that the friendly people who come here each summer and those who are new this year could see how some of us really think. We now feel that we are ready to express our feelings, and the feelings of so many others, on one of the most "taboo" subjects we have ever known.

WE FAVOR THE SALE OF LIQUOR BY THE DRINK FOR THE CITY OF VIRGINIA BEACH, AND ANYWHERE ELSE THAT WANTS IT IN THE STATE OF VIRGINIA.

For the most part those who are not in favor of liquor by the drink are not considering the problem as a whole. They are just not in favor of liquor. What they fail to comprehend is that the sale of liquor is already with us and has been for many years. They rant and rave and flail their arms about in space about the evils of "John Barleycorn", but cannot see the long lines that form outside the ABC stores for the purchase of bottle after bottle. All their ranting and raving and flailing about has not and is not going to decrease the length of these lines.

To our way of thinking, it is a crying shame that a person must buy an entire "bottle" instead of being able to purchase a single drink at a hotel, motel or restaurant. The bottle is invited as a passenger in the automobiles on our crowded roads, and an invitation to violations of the ABC laws.

We do not favor a saloon on every corner. We favor the strict control of the sale of drinks at respectable selected places where meals are served, and we favor the control by the already proven methods of the Virginia Alcoholic Beverage only way of handling the situation, at onny way of handling the situation, at least until another way can be devised.

The economy of the State of Virginia would flourish under such a system, and the economy of Virginia Beach would certainly not suffer from it. More and more tourists and conventioners would come here if they could have a sociable drink before dinner without having to gulp it down in the privacy of their own rooms. The tax revenue to the City and State would do much for the further development of our own resort area, as well as the entire City.

We again emphasize that these are our own views, and we are fully aware of opposing views. All we can ask is a progressive outlook on the subject. We are not even certain that, if a referendum were to be held tomorrow on the sale of liquor by the drink in Virginia Beach, that it would be approved. But we would like to have the right to know. We would like to see the next session of the General Assembly pass enabling legislation that would allow localities to hold a referendum on the question. All such legislation has failed in the past, for one reason or another. But they have not fought liquor by the drink. They have opposed liquor. Again they have failed to recognize that the sale of liquor is already being done and that it is quite legal.

We definitely favor the sale of liquor by the drink at Virginia Beach, and we hope that all the citizens of this City will soon have the right to vote on the matter, to settle it once and for all.

And one more point. The Managing Editor does not drink. AT ALL.

Protection Is Everybody's Job

Last week, we issued our warm welcome to the tourists and to the tourist season. The season is now in full swing, and the tourists are pouring in by the busload and carload, and if last weekend is any indication, it is going to be a good tourist season. That we are more than happy to see.

Unfortunately there are others who welcome the tourist season, as well. They are the amateur and professional thieves and con men who flock to a resort to bilk the unwary tourist out of his money and possessions while he is having a good time. Let us present the image of Virginia Beach as a "den of crime and criminals", let us explain.

The tourist is an unsuspecting target in any resort or at any tourist attraction, simply because of the concentration of humanity. There are those who live outside the law just waiting to find those tourists gullible enough to succumb. They lie in wait like the snakes they are waiting to find an automobile unlocked and with valuables inside in plain sight. They consider this an invitation to steal. They roam the beaches waiting to find a blanket or chair unattended while the tourist is swimming. Radios, watches, rings, money and other possessions have a habit of disappearing at this time. Thieves find their way into hotels and motels to find an unlocked door to a room full of material wealth. They find a way to "crash" a party, in order to file away for future reference some valuables are kept. In short, they flourish only because the tourists are not careful enough.

Let us just good common sense to lock an automobile anywhere, and not to leave valuables in it. It is just good common sense to leave valuables or keys to a room or motel room on the beach while you are swimming, of course; this is common sense, but at such times, a wary eye should be kept upon one's own place in the sun. It is just good common sense to lock hotel and motel rooms, either while one is inside or outside. An unlocked door is an open invitation to almost anything. Inviting new, "just met" acquaintances to a party or not knowing all the guests there can be dangerous moves. A short time later, the tourist may find his key stolen or even worse; that his possessions have been removed.

Another dangerous practice is talking to strangers on the beach. That pleasant man or woman may find occasion to see a room number on a key or even "borrow" that key. A confederate could easily find a way into the tourist's room while nice conversation with a stranger continues on the beach.

The cases that we have cited are not "pulled from our imagination". They are just a few examples of cases already on record in the past. It is a pity that there are those in our society who make their dishonest living this way, but it is true.

The Police Department of Virginia Beach does its dead level best to keep these incidents from happening. It hires additional policemen during the tourist season. It "beefs up" its entire scope of activities. And the Police Department does an excellent job of preventing crime, as well as tracking down criminals. The record is, in fact, exceptional, but this is not always enough. The additional job of protecting one's own valuable possessions is entirely up to the good common sense of the tourist.

We like to have the tourists with us year after year in ever-increasing numbers, and we do not wish them to leave us with the wrong impression, after a crime has been committed against them. We all do our best to prevent these crimes, but we can't do it all. We must have your help if you are to enjoy your stay.

THEIR MAGIC CARPET

Summer Employment

There are in the City of Virginia Beach literally hundreds of high school and college students who have nothing to do for the summer months. There are many who have managed to obtain jobs for the summer, but the majority have not been able to find a job. There are at least two reasons for this. One is that they have not looked for a job, and are content to sponge on their parents during the summer just as they do in the winter. But, by far, the other reason is more predominant. They cannot find a job. Even in such a large and growing city as Virginia Beach, there is a general lack of summer part-time employment. We are not criticizing the majority of merchants and businessmen for not hiring students during the summer, but some we do criticize.

In this city there are few large-scale industries which hire part-time workers on a seasonal basis. This is indeed unfortunate, and is a problem that will be rectified in the future as the area grows industrially. But it is a shame that so many young workers are hired from outside Virginia Beach and from outside the State of Virginia during the summer, particularly to work at some establishments in the resort area. We feel that it is important to the economy of the city to hire our own, and not look elsewhere. And we feel that it is just good business to hire persons from Virginia Beach instead of those who are just looking for a reason to be at a resort for the summer and be paid for it. Again we emphasize that most merchants in the resort area are not guilty of this, but there are some who definitely are.

On the other hand, we offer a little advice to those students who complain that a job is unavailable. Stop griping about the situation, and do something about it. There is plenty to be done right at home, like mowing the lawn, washing the car, learning to cook or sew, helping some charitable institution, or catching up on some good reading. And there is also the possibility of creating a job. There are always such things needed as a neighborhood nursery school, baby-sitting, and the like.

It is evident that many of the students who say they cannot find a job for the summer are the ones that have not looked very far; those who expect to be paid executive wages; those who do not like hard work; those who would not work even if they were employed; or those who are just downright lazy.

So it works both ways. There are always two sides to every story. Perhaps this one is just a shade more weighted on the lack of opportunities. However we feel certain that more opportunities will be available as Virginia Beach continues to grow and the business community realizes the importance of hiring Virginia Beach students. After all, they are the business community of tomorrow.

As You Leave These Ivy Covered Walls . . .

"As you leave these ivy covered walls, and enter into the grim reality of life . . ." We wonder how many commencement speeches have opened with those words. And, "Commencement is not an ending, but a beginning . . ." That pretty phrase has managed to find its way into many a commencement speech. Although both phrases have been overused, truer words have never been spoken.

Many colleges have already held commencement exercises this year. Others and high schools will hold theirs within a few days. Suddenly we have in our midst thousands of new graduates entering into the grim reality of life. What kind of life it will be is not entirely up to them. Much of their future life has already been planned in advance by the state of affairs in the world today. It is not entirely a bleak picture. There are many bright spots. Although trouble spots seem to develop with alarming regularity, fantastic scientific feats almost counterbalance them. The only grim reality is that these eager young graduates must live in what we have at ready created. They must leave the comfort and shelter of the ivy covered walls and make a better place in which to live. They can do it. Their education far exceeds what we received. Changes come about so fast today that the older generation cannot keep up with the educational process, although we can offer the benefit of our experience. So we need these newly arrived refugees from the ivy covered walls.

Commencement is an ending to formal education, but it is the beginning of a learning process that can only be served best when actual schooling is over.

Therefore we challenge you, our graduates, to leave the ivy covered walls and enter into the grim reality of life . . . to look upon your commencement as a real beginning. However grim it may appear at times to have much responsibility; however difficult it may be to cut all ties with carefree days; and however difficult it will be for you in the years to come, we welcome you into our midst, and we offer you our help and best wishes for success.

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, the President of the United States has called upon all Federal and State and local Governmental agencies and departments and all private employers throughout the nation to cooperate in providing summer employment opportunities for the two million young Americans leaving school this month; and

WHEREAS, in the City of Virginia Beach more than 1,500 to 2,000 young men and women, ages 16 through 21, will be seeking work experience in the summer months; and

WHEREAS, the youth of this nation and of the City of Virginia Beach constitute our future promises, hopes and aspirations and represent our greatest resource; and

WHEREAS, these young people vitally need assurance that the future of the country, in which they have such an important stake, is bright with promise and opportunity; and

WHEREAS, the early work experience and training that young people acquire during their formative years at summer jobs help to shape all their future habits;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Frank A. Dusch, Mayor of the City of Virginia Beach do hereby declare and proclaim the Month of June, 1965, YOUTH OPPORTUNITY MONTH, and encourage all private citizens to join with me in developing every possible additional work and training opportunity this summer for these young Americans who represent our city's future citizens and leaders.

PLAYGROUNDS CLOSE

VIRGINIA BEACH, Friday

—The City's After-school Playground program will terminate for another school year. The program supported 16 different playground sites this year, and averaged more than 900 participants daily. This figure, in itself, is interesting since the program is conducted only out of doors and on inclement weather days the playground doesn't open.

A variety of activities were enjoyed by all participants, ranging from team sports (with intramural leagues) to individual activities and fitness promotion.

Bill Garrison, director of the playgrounds, termed the program a sort of laboratory, in which activities learned and enjoyed during the daily Physical Education program, were pursued further in the afternoon under the direction of a paid supervisor.

'WE WILL BURY YOU'

BY L. T. EARLE T. HALE

UTILITY SQUADRON FOUR

SEVENTH IN A SERIES ON COMMUNISM

The most brutal and vicious totalitarianism the world has ever known was destroyed as a result of the allied victory in the Second World War. But despite the tragic loss of life and the great suffering, this tremendous effort of the freedom seeking peoples of the world failed dismally. Totalitarianism was strengthened rather than weakened by the war and it reigns, at this very moment, all over the world under a new name—COMMUNISM.

Communism is the greatest single threat to human freedom in the modern world. Paradoxically it promises more and greater freedoms than anyone enjoys in the United States or any democracy. In both theory and practice, however, communism has been more destructive of human liberty than any other totalitarian system. The theory of communism is so riddled with philosophic tricks and the practice so completely camouflaged by this spurious philosophy that millions of peoples are wholly deceived. Communism is in reality nothing more than totalitarianism scheme for the total regimentation of the human existence.

Of primary importance to communist ideology is the denial of God, because of its concept of freedom. Bishop Fulton J. Sheen in his testimony before the House Committee on Un-American Activities states, "A man is free on the inside because he has a soul that he can call his own. Wherever you have spirit you have freedom. A pencil has no freedom, ice has no freedom to be warm, fire has no freedom to be cold. You begin to have freedom only when you have something immaterial or spiritual."

Now freedom must have some external guaranty of itself. The external guaranty of human freedom is property. A man is free on the inside because he can call his soul his own; he is free on the outside because he can call something he has his own. Therefore, private property is the economic guaranty of human freedom.

SUPPOSE now you concoct a system in which you want to possess man totally. On what conditions can you erect a totalitarian system so that man belongs to you completely? One, you have got to deny spirit; two, you have to deny property.

That is why the existence of God and private property are both denied simultaneously by communism. If a man has no soul, he cannot allege that he has any relationship with anyone outside of the state. If he has no property, he is dependent upon the state even for his physical existence. Therefore, the denial of God and the denial of freedom are both conditions of slavery, and of COMMUNISM.

Architect's sketch of the new Seaboard Bank to be located at Hilltop.

SEABOARD SCHEDULES JULY OPENING

Second Front with 3 col cut—

NORFOLK — Seaboard Citizens National Bank will activate its second Virginia Beach office by July of this year, it was announced today by James R. Land, Senior Vice President and Cashier and director of the bank's construction program.

An existing building in the Hilltop section, near the northwest corner of Laskin Road and First Colonial Rd., is being converted to temporary banking quarters. At a future date, the permanent structure will be erected on the site, which has a frontage of 320 feet on Laskin Road and a depth of 191 feet on First Colonial.

The exact date of the opening will be determined by the progress of remodeling and the availability of equipment for the building.

Seaboard Citizens received ap-

Michael A. LaGiglia, who handled the realty transaction for Goodman-Segar-Hogan, Inc., said that the property was leased by the bank from J. R. Flanagan.

'Loud Red Patrick' is Good Family Fun

"The Loud Red Patrick" by John Burt, which opened Monday night at Wedgewood Dinner Theatre, just north of Williamsburg, is billed as a family comedy. And that it is. It is a roaring comedy about a first generation Irish-American family, and the entire family can enjoy the production.

The play, which takes place in the home of Patrick Flannigan during the summer of 1912, concerns itself with Patrick, his four daughters, ranging in age from 7 to 17, an old family friend, the housekeeper, and a suitor for Patrick's oldest daughter.

The blustering Patrick, who turns red in the face at the drop of a hat, has firm convictions on almost every subject, especially where his daughters are concerned. He is a self-made man who wants to give his daughters the things he never had, including a college education. But his eldest, Maggie, is more interested in marrying the independently wealthy gas company heir, than she is in furthering her education. This causes a problem, since Patrick is at odds with the non-progressive views of the gas company toward the coming of the electric light. The democratic principles upon which this country is founded, all add up to a very funny and sentimental evening in the theatre.

Paul Iddings, one of the founders of the dinner theatre, as the Patriarch, Patrick, always has the audience with him, whether he is blustering or being a sentimental father. As the quick-tempered Irishman, or as the father resigned to accepting his fate, Iddings portrays a remarkable character to the hilt. The family friend, Mr. Finnegan, played to perfection by Frank Staroba, is a foil through most of the action, but even he rises to the situation. Finnegan, who has been known to tipple just a bit, has his own romantic problems through most of the play, but serves to bring the action to his happy conclusion through his own mercenary aims. Staroba's facial expressions, his movements and his outstanding diction and Irish accent add the final touch to this outstanding production.

The costumes of the period were executed to perfection by Carolee Silcox, and Paul Iddings set in a magnificent addition to a fine performance. "The Loud Red Patrick" will play nightly except Sunday at Wedgewood Dinner Theatre through June 26th. It takes just a little over an hour to get there from Virginia Beach, and we heartily recommend that you take the time.—HJL

COUNSELOR PAVES WAY INTO HIGH SCHOOL

VIRGINIA BEACH — This is the time of year when Mrs. Theresa Cook is busiest. While continuing her duties as eighth grade counselor at Virginia Beach High School, she also undertakes speaking engagements at various elementary schools to prepare seventh graders for their transition into high school.

Last Friday she spoke to students at Friends School and prior to that she met with seventh graders at Cooke, Linkhorn, Trantwood and Seateck Elementary Schools. Each time she appears at a school she takes with her an eighth or ninth grader at Virginia Beach High who graduated from the school at which she is speaking.

Her discussions with the students are to help prepare them for the adjustments that must be made when they move into the higher grade level. She also distributes copies of the Teen-Parent Guide compiled by a Virginia Beach High School parent-student committee. The booklet answers many questions the soon-to-be-high schoolers might have.

Mrs. Cooke usually points out that one of the main things a new high school student must face is working with a number of teachers rather than one.

"You must adjust your personality to the personalities of six teachers," she tells them. "This is a part of maturing."

Guidance counselors are a vital part of the city's public school system. Each high school has a counselor available at any time during the school day to confer with parents or students.

These sessions may run the gamut of teen-age problems.

As Mrs. Cook points out, "The inquiries a counselor gets may vary from 'do you have an envelope' or 'will you call my mother' to 'I'm having trouble with math, do you have any suggestions?'" No matter what the problem, the counselor must have a suggested solution and plenty of advice.

Mrs. Cook has worked in schools of all sizes, gathering an abundance of experience and knowledge to equip her for counseling work.

She has a B.S. degree in home economics from Huntingdon College in Montgomery, Ala., but she is continually studying and learning new techniques in the field of counseling so that she whatever needs are brought to her attention.

Teaching is the chosen profession of both Mrs. Cook and her husband, James. He has been an instructor in mechanical drawing and industrial art at Virginia Beach High School for the past 12 years and Mrs. Cook has taught English and home economics.

They have one daughter, Teny, 7, who is a student at Cooke Elementary School. One of these days she will be sitting among those seventh graders eagerly awaiting the advice of the eighth grade counselor, her mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Brown of Westbury Park, Iselin, New Jersey were recent house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Harvey, Seeman Road, Birchwood Gardens.

SUMMER MAINTENANCE IN THE FLOWER GARDEN

Now that many homeowners have seen spring flowers from bulbs, the decision has to be made as to whether the bulbs should be dug early this summer. If you plan to dig them, they should not be removed until the foliage has ripened or perhaps died back to the ground. After you dig the bulbs, they may be replanted immediately, or allow them to dry for several days and put them in an aerated bag and store during summer in a cool, dry area. Whether you dig the bulbs or not depends on how long they have been planted and how close together they were planted originally. In most instances the bulbs should be dug and removed between 3 and 5 years. It is desirable, while waiting for the foliage to die down, to remove seed pods which develop on tulip and narcissus plants. The reason for this is that a large quantity of carbohydrates or food is being used in the development of seeds, rather than going into development of the bulb for next year's plants.

Another job which needs to be done is to examine your spring flowering shrubs (forsythia, flowering quince, and lilacs) to determine whether they have become overgrown or too thick. Now is the time to prune these flowering shrubs immediately after flowering. Many homeowners prune in the fall and cut off next season's blooms. If severe pruning is necessary for forsythia or other early spring-flowering plants, perhaps they have been planted in the wrong location and these should be dug and moved to another area where they can grow more naturally.

Also, examine your abelia, crepe myrtle, vitex, and evergreen shrubs and prune out stems which have died during the winter. Light pruning may be done to evergreen shrubs any time throughout the year. However, if severe pruning is to be done it should be early in the spring so that new growth will cover unsightly stubs.

VIEW of VIRGINIA BEACH

Once upon a time there was a little girl who wanted a pet of her own. No one could seem to understand why another pet was important since there was already a dog and a mother cat belonging to the family. She loved them both, and really took much more interest and better care of them than did her big brother and older sister, to whom the pets officially belonged. But she wanted one to be hers.

Each time the mother cat had kittens, the little girl's parents let them be adopted by other families... and she never saw them again. Each time she pleaded to keep one, but each time her favorite was taken.

Last year, the spring-time batch included one in particular that she knew had to be hers. Even before it had its eyes open, it seemed to know the little girl. Its little head would bob around whenever she came near and spoke; it snuggled around her neck when she picked it up. It was the prettiest one and she was sure it would be the first one adopted. But perhaps the guardian angel who looks into a little girl's heart knew by her need, for as one by one the new kittens found new homes, no one chose "Lover".

Days and even weeks went by, and neither mother nor daddy made any plans to give her kitten away. It grew long-legged and lean. It followed her everywhere and played with her and her little friends. It bumped and purred and cuddled when no one else could comfort her. It made no difference that her big brother often called it "her stupid tomcat", nor that her older sister fussed about having it on her bed. It was more friendly than the mother cat; it was more playful than the old dog; it belonged to her.

Recently her pet took to staying out later and was gone longer. But it always came back, meowing and purring. When the mother cat had another batch of kittens, the whereabouts of her pet were momentarily forgotten. But the next day the little girl suddenly remembered she hadn't seen her pet lately. No one could find "Lover".

Big brother, who called it unfriendly names, tramped the dark marsh looking and calling. Older sister, who fussed about its sleeping habits, combed the neighborhood asking if anyone had seen it. Mother said not to worry, it would come back as soon as the excitement had died down. Daddy asked, did anyone look in the loft?

As the little girl climbed the ladder, she heard the familiar "purrpurrp" intermingled with faint meows... "Lover was there! But what this? ... her tomcat ... with kittens?!" She gazed at them with awe. Her pet looked proud, but apologetic and not a little bewildered... the pet's name was immediately changed to "Lovie".

The "tomcat" and the kittens were removed from the loft into the garage with the old mother cat and her kittens—a regular maternity ward! And the old mother, who became a grandmother too, shares the responsibility of all seven kittens with Lovie; and Lovie often babysits for her mother. If it not unusual to see one or the other overrun but contentedly feeding all seven at once, while the other mother takes a break.

The little girl is beside herself with joy, but her parents do not share her delight. "Too many cats", they keep saying. "We can't keep this up!" they remark. "Whoever heard of anyone keeping two producing female cats?" they fuss. Now the little girl worries.

She appreciates her pet's gift—but she wishes it had stayed a tomcat!

MISS SNEAD GETS SCHOLARSHIP

BAYSIDE — Miss Janice Snead, a senior at Cox High School, has been awarded the Gladys H. Marshall Scholarship by the Shelton Park PTA.

Miss Snead plans to become an elementary school teacher.

TWINS MEET IN DOMINICAN REPUBLIC

USS LA SALLE, At Sea, May 21 — Twin brothers David and William Harkness of Brooklyn, New York, seemingly have to wait for momentous moves on the part of the Navy for their reunions. Such a momentous move took place when the United States rescue and evacuation task force, rushed to the Caribbean on a mission of mercy to the Dominican Republic.

Through an unlikely series of happenstance occurrences, David and William were brought together in a meeting on board amphibious transport dock USS La Salle (LPD-3). The La Salle is flagship for Vice Admiral John S. McCain, Jr.'s 15-ship task force.

The last meeting for the two was last October in Spain where both were in attendance for the biggest amphibious show ever staged in peacetime. — The historic Steel Pike I. David, a third class hospital corpsman, was with his present outfit, the 2nd Medical Battalion of the Second Marine Division. Bill, a second class bombardier, was in La Salle.

The name "La Salle" dropped casually by a visiting officer on the amphibious assault ship USS Boxer (LPH-3) caught Dave's ear. He had come aboard the ship to identify the bodies of two of his teammates. He had been unaware that his brother's ship was nearby. In the brief moment before he had to depart he asked the officer to contact his brother on the chance they could get together. It was to be over two weeks before the meeting could be arranged in the hub-bub of the Dominican crisis.

A brief lull in the flow of sick and wounded through the medical department situated next to the Embajador Hotel allowed Dave to catch a ride on one of the regular helicopter runs to the task force flagship.

Once aboard, Dave found that finding his brother was still a problem. Finally, after spreading the word as widely as possible, Dave settled in the ship's sickbay to let Bill find him. Shortly, Bill burst into the ward, they looked at each other for a moment, then Bill extended his hand to his fatigue-clad brother and said, "Man, you sure are dirty."

Dave acknowledged that he had been cleaner, but that the resort facilities in Santo Domingo were closed for the moment and the ground forces were having to make do with economy accommodations.

After a quick shave, shower and change the likeness increased, but to limit the confusion Dave stayed in his greens—we think. Reminiscing and catching up on the past half year or so were the order of the day.

According to the twins, the son their parents expected in October of 1941 was to be named William David. "I was William David for a few minutes I guess," says Bill, "Till old 'Sport-sport' here came along." Being ten minutes older, Bill was always a trifle more mature and retiring, Dave, the baby of the pair, was more bold.

"It was all right till we decided to try dating the same girl to see if she could tell the difference," said Dave. "I just wasn't as well, brash as he was, so after a first date with him they thought they were getting the cold shoulder when they were out with me," said Bill.

"It didn't work out too well," he added.

Dave entered the Navy first, in 1958, and married first; his wife was hospital corps WAVE Ruth Brown of Somerset, Ky.

It remained for Bill, the shy one, to startle everyone when he chose his bride.

Few men marry their girl-friend's aunt, but Bill Harkness has that distinction. Treva Beane was the youngest, and, according to Bill, the prettiest of the ten Beane children of her North Carolina family. The eldest was the mother of Bill's girl, Treva came to Brooklyn to visit her sister. The rest is elementary deduction.

The twins are hoping they can get together for Christmas this year, for the first time in several years. But if their next encounter is on some remote corner of the globe, they won't be surprised.

Bill and Treva live in Ash-boro, while Dave and Ruth make their home in Lejeune, N.C. The boys' parents are Mr. and Mrs. William Harkness of 271 South 13th, Lyndhurst, Long Island.

DROPOUTS DISCUSSED

BAYSIDE — The Bayside Lions Club met Wednesday, at Shore Drive Inn. The president, Jack Tallent, presiding.

Guest speaker, Mr. Dixie Moore, director of Department of Pupil Placement City of Norfolk, talked about the school "Dropout Problem."

"This has become a source of great concern throughout the entire country. While it is true that a much larger percentage of our children stay in school until they graduate from high school (over 90 per cent) due to the population explosion and the greater need of a good education to make a decent living in today's world, the number of school dropouts that are unable to get jobs is steadily increasing. Moore stated that there are over 1,100 such "dropouts" in Norfolk alone.

He cited as some of the causes of "dropouts" — some have low scholastic ability and cannot keep up with the class, some lack interest in their studies, some feel that they need to work in order to help at home, some have been retarded one or more grades and are older than their classmates, and some have emotional problems due to unhappy home life.

Deputy District Governor Jim Fridley was present and indicated the following new Lions: J. Bolander, E. N. Jasper, J. B. Johnson, W. H. Tower and W. White.

In his talk about Lionism, he stated that there are now over 1,800 Lions Clubs in 130 different countries or geographic locations. The Lions Clubs of District 24D raised over $20,000 in the past year for charities and civic activities.

$40,000 AWARDED

VIRGINIA BEACH — Mrs. Evelyn W. Strohkorb was awarded $40,000 by a Circuit Court jury last week in a $150,000 personal injury suit in which she was represented by Norfolk attorney Israel Steingold and Melvin Belli, the controversial San Francisco attorney who defended Jack Ruby.

The suit was filed against Emrhaze Ford, Inc. and Paul Preston Perdue, an employee of the firm, in connection with an automobile accident in 1961 in which Mrs. Strohkorb's car was struck from the rear by a car driven by Perdue.

Mrs. Strohkorb, wearing a neck brace, claimed the accident caused a back injury resulting in two operations and four years of suffering.

MOVING IS WEIGHTY PROBLEM FOR SHARPSHOOTING MARINE

LITTLE CREEK — When Gunnery Sergeant Lawrence D. Fitzpatrick of Landing Force Training Unit Atlantic, Little Creek Amphibious Base, moves, he packs a lot of "iron."

Moving for the veteran Marines means a weighty problem and the need for space.

He is trying to make space in his recently purchased home at 624 Raff Road in Virginia Beach, Va.

The iron is more than 200 trophies, medals and plaques the sergeant has won in rifle and pistol marksmanship competition during his meteoric shooting career.

Marines, traditionally, pride themselves on their prowess with basic infantry weapons, GySgt. Fitzpatrick, however, looks upon his "dead-eye" accuracy matter-of-factly, a part of his regiment.

The Augusta (Ark.) native began his "team" shooting in 1955. "I didn't plan that year," he said, "But I sure tried."

Duties prevented competitive shooting again until 1961. While stationed in Butte, Mont., GySgt. Fitzpatrick shot his way to capture the Montana State Rifle Championship in the National Rifle Association-sponsored regional matches that year.

He was later reassigned to the Far East where he joined the 3rd Marine Division. Last year was "the big one" in his service rifle competition. The 36-year-old Marine placed with both the rifle and pistol in the Far Eastern and Inter-service matches. The latter was held at Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Va. Armed with M-14 rifles for the first time, Marine shooters invaded the National Matches at Camp Perry, Ohio.

When the smoke cleared from the vast rifle range, GySgt. Fitzpatrick had set a new National Match record and was declared top Marine in the National Trophy Individual Service Rifle Match. He scored a 249-250 with 26 of 50 shots in the 4-inch V-ring. The bullseye is only six inches in diameter and fired at from 200, 300 and 600 yards.

He became a Distinguished Rifle Marksman in one year. This is considered unusual by "cap busters."

After completing his overseas tour with the 3rd Marine Division, the 6-foot-2, 200-pound Marine was assigned to LFTU-Lant where he now serves as Headquarters Co. First Sergeant.

"We reported in May 14th and we're still unpacking," he said. "Gotta hang all this hardware somewhere."

LOCAL ARTIST IN SHOW

VIRGINIA BEACH — Rita Vellines is exhibiting twelve of her original paintings, including watercolors, pastels, and oils, in the Navy Y cafeteria art show. Her paintings will be on display through June 15.

Mrs. Vellines, wife of Richard J. Vellines, became interested in painting as a hobby about 12 years ago through a class of the Fine Arts department of Chesapeake Beach Woman's Club. She has studied under Virginia Smith Reid and Greta Matson, and is now studying with Elizabeth D'Auria.

She has won several ribbons for her paintings at the Federation of Woman's Clubs, and many in this show are award winners.

They have a daughter, Rose Marie, who is a junior at Old Dominion College, and a married son with two children in Winston Salem, N.C.

Be moth-safe, not hole-sorry, by knowing about your summertime "storage" enemy. A sure-fire defense against moths and their eggs comes in the form of inexpensive para crystals. Drawing courtesy of Allied Chemical Corporation.

How To Care For Your Clothes

NEW YORK (NAPS)—You may make your clothes last longer and look better — and save money at the same time — if you follow these tips from clothing experts.

Hang your garments, on suitably shaped hangers, immediately after you take them off. This gives fibers a chance to "relax" from the stress of your daily routine movements.

Prolong the life of fur garments by putting them in cold storage for the summer. Or, if you'd sooner protect the furs yourself, keep them stored with other winter garments. To be on the safe side, know about your summertime "storage" enemy — the moth.

Moth eggs can lie dormant in woollens for eighteen months or more. When hatched, moth larvae immediately do their best to make a meal of your clothes. A sure-fire defense comes in the form of inexpensive para crystals (called paradichlorobenzene by the chemical industry). Sold under many different brand names, para crystals or nuggets create vapors that kill moths and their eggs while doubling as a repellent for rodents!

Place para near the top of a tight enclosure. Vapors drifting down from the para onto the clothing will do the rest. The best temperature for the most effective use of para, according to experts at Allied Chemical Corporation, producer of the chemical, is 65-70° F. Two pounds of para per 100 cubic feet of confined space will rid you of pests. With three pounds of para per 100 cubic feet you provide mildew protection as well. Costing only pennies per pound, para can be purchased at your local drug store or supermarket.

In other specialized garment "maintenance" areas, for example, you can keep fabric gloves looking their best by washing them in mild, warm soap suds. Do not rub, wring or twist them. Brushing is helpful in removing bad spots. Rinse thoroughly, ease into shape and dry either flat on a towel or hang them over a rod.

Woolen athletic socks often seem doomed to turn yellow in the wash — but it doesn't have to happen. Instead of bleaching them with other white, wash, do the socks separately; the result will be pure white.

Whether you have two pairs of shoes or twenty, you'd do well to rotate them, using the same relaxation process you employ with your clothing. Put shoe trees in your shoes as soon as you remove them and have shoe repairs made as they become necessary. To keep patent leather shoes from cracking, rub a little vaseline over them occasionally, then polish with a soft cloth. Suede shoes are kept fresh by rubbing with a sponge after each wearing. Hold them over the spout of a steaming kettle once in a while to raise the nap.

Whether preening patent leather or placing para, clothing care takes only a few minutes a day. Once it's a habit, you'll think someone boosted your budget!

BASKIN IN THE SUN

By GORDON BASKIN

Since I am known far and wide as a man with a very large mouth, and in addition, as a man who is very hard to shut up, I feel that I have the necessary qualifications to throw a few verbal punches at the nauseating nonsense between Clay and Liston.

Was a time when what passes for fighting for money was called the "fight game". Along about the advent of television, it came to be called "the fight racket". This appears to be an apt description of the wrist-slapping that takes place between the two leading exponents of this example of American culture.

Every time I have opened my mouth too much and made loud noises that offended the ear, there has instantly appeared before me a very large character who has shut me up. Occasionally this has resulted in the shedding of blood — mine. I have a large assortment of cuts, abrasions and stitch marks to prove that large men usually win unless an amount of money changes hands ahead of time. Never having had sufficient cash to encourage a brute to take a dive, I have had to take the painful consequences.

Easy to see that Liston is gonna get very rich letting Old Loud Mouth look good. I dunno what they are trying to prove, since a man with an IQ of sixteen doesn't believe that Clay's left hook has enough power to dent Liston's jail record, much less his chin.

Taint really important, since people have been watching screamers and bums go 'round and 'round for several centuries now, and it gets hard for a man to tell which one he hates the most. It doesn't make the slightest difference, but I was hopin' that Liston could get out on bail long enough to shut Clay's mouth; preferably for good. After that, they could throw the bum back in the tank where he belongs.

Moll Flanders, one of the lustiest ladies in English history, has been brought to full-blooded life — somewhat in the manner of James Bond.

Kim Novak was in Kent's historic Stour Valley for title-role location-filming of "The Amorous Adventures of Moll Flanders," opening Wednesday at the Princess and Beach Theatres.

Directing her in this bawdy 18th Century romp was Britain's Terence Young, who brought Agent 007 to the screen in the highly successful "Dr. No" and "From Russia With Love."

Between takes—while Miss Novak was relaxing behind the scenes after loosening her pinch-waist corset—Young discussed the cinematic links between James Bond and Moll, the easily led and merry lass created by Johnson, Angela Lansbury, George Sanders, Lilli Palmer and Leo McKern to work with Miss Novak—sourced both Ireland and Britain before they settled on Chatham Castle as the perfect spot for much of the picture's

He remarked, "Directors often fall into the trap of being too respectful about a period piece, of making it on their knees, reverentially, stuffily.

Well, in "The Amorous Adventures of Moll Flanders," I'm trying to make a picture with the same sort of tempo as I gave my new Bond films. There's no reason why you should give a period tempo.

WILLIAMSBURG — You take an Irish widower, give him four young daughters, one of whom is pursued by the son of the widower's arch enemy, and you have some indication of the hilarity coming to the Wedgewood Dinner-Theatre, Williamsburg, May 31, in the form of a play called, "The Loud Red Patrick."

Paul Iddings will portray the head of this Irish family who has introduced democratic principles into his household of daughters, ranging from 7 to 17 years old, by instituting a family council in which each member has a number of votes equal to the voter's age.

Papa has most votes, being 45, but if his youngsters vote as a block they can ballot him down. He has usually been able to engineer a decision according to his preference, though the girls' ages total five more than his own, through judiciously bribing younger council members with candy.

In this way he is able to control the family ballot box when it comes to inviting his old friend Finnegan, a song and dance man, played by Frank Staroba, to come live in his house.

The big crisis arises when Maggie, the eldest daughter, played by Kathy Bush, wishes to get married instead of going to college as Papa has planned. For Papa, this is unthinkable.

on two counts. He is a devotee of college education, and he has a feud with the suitor's father, who is head of the gas company. In the end the love-lobby wins out in the parliamentary maneuvering of the family council.

NEWPORT NEWS — WGH Radio and the United States Coast Guard Auxiliary inaugurated a new service for boaters and fisherman last weekend.

During the coming months, sea condition reports will be radioed from all sections of Tidewater to WGH Radio's "Control Central" beginning at 6:45 a.m. on Saturday and continuing through Sunday afternoon.

Coast Guard flotillas will be responsible for various water areas and keep WGH listeners posted on the height of waves, visibility, wind, fishing conditions and congested areas. Earlier this month, station officials met with R. W. Whiteed, captain of division 6, of U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary and other officers of local flotillas, and worked out details on these reports.

Fisherman will be able to know sea conditions, prior to leaving shore. Between 6:45 and 8:45 a.m. Saturday and Sunday, when most fisherman are interested in water conditions. These reports will be broadcast twice hourly. From 9:45 a.m. until late afternoon, reports will be hourly at forty-five minutes past the hour. These reports will be unique since they will cover all water areas.

Boaters will be constantly reminded, during these reports, that it is important to put safety first . . . and to have their boats courtesy safety checked by the Coast Guard Auxiliary.

FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS

Does Older Boy Like Her Or Not?

THIS WEEK'S LETTER: "I friends tell me to forget him because he is too old and probably has another girl on his mind. However, I can't forget him. I care too much. What should I do?"

OUR REPLY: Accept the advice of your friends and forget him. If he is too old for you, the sooner you forget him the better.

If there is a difference in your ages, you can be sure that he never intended to be anything but friendly.

If you continue to see him at the skating rink, he friendly, but make up your mind not to have any thoughts about getting serious. Even if he asks you for a date, you will be wise to turn him down. There is no future at all for you in dating an older man. You can also be certain that your parents will object and, probably, will object strenuously.

Almost any girl finds it flattering to have the attention of an older boy, but the truth is that the average boy just refuses to date a girl who is much younger than himself. If your "friend" is a good friend, don't expect any more than friendship—and see that it remains that way.

If you have a serious problem you can discuss, or an observation to make, address your letter to FOUR STAR COMMUNITY AND SUBURBAN PRESS SERVICE, FRANKFORT, KY.

The 4-day event will be sponsored by the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce, the Innkeepers Association of Virginia Beach and Forbes Candies. Charles Forbes will serve as general chairman.

Festivities will get underway Monday at 4:30 p.m. with a concert by the Honor Band, George Wythe High School from Wytheville, Va., last year's festival winners, at the Norwegian Lady Statue on 25th Street and Ocean Front.

All 15 visiting bands will take part in a concert along Ocean Front at 5 p.m. The bands will be stationed in front of hotels and motels between 16th and 31st Streets.

Several special events have been scheduled for Tuesday and Wednesday. Concert and sight-reading competitions will be held at Princess Anne High School 10 a.m. to 3:50 p.m., both days and marching exhibitions and mass band concerts will be held both nights at Virginia Beach High School. The marching events will start at 8 p.m. followed by the mass concerts at 11 p.m.

Tickets for the Tuesday and Wednesday activities are on sale for $1 at the Chamber of Commerce or may be purchased at the door. The $1 entitles ticket holders to all activities on those two days.

Highlight of the final day of the festival will be a Grand Festival Parade along Atlantic Avenue between 16th and 33rd Street starting at 10 a.m.

Participating band students will be entertained at a dance that night at the Alan B. Shepard Civic Center with the Honor Band providing dance music. A program will be provided by the Special Show Band of the U.S. Navy School of Music.

Three well-known band music authorities have been selected to judge the concert, sight-reading and marching competitions.

Roy V. Wood, past president of the Florida Music Educators Association, and Al. G. Wright, head of Purdue University's Department of Bands, will both return for the second year. Newcomer as festival judge will be Leonard Falcone of Michigan State University staff.

For the fourth consecutive year, Logan O. Turrentine, past president of the Florida Bandmaster's Association and of the American Bandmaster's Association, will serve as executive director of the festival.

New Principal For VB High

JAMES C. MOUNIE

BAYSIDE—Virginia Beach High School's new principal for next year, James C. Mounie, looks forward to offering a comprehensive educational program in classroom instruction and student activity when he begins his new duties in September.

"From the information I've received," he said, "Virginia Beach High School has a particularly good student body and a good percentage of college-bound young people."

Mounie, a Portsmouth native, is currently assistant principal at Bayside High School where he has been for this school year. He will succeed James Helmer at Virginia Beach High.

A graduate of the College of William and Mary in Williamsburg, Mounie has the bachelor degree in English and the masters in secondary school administration. While at Bayside High School, he has been teaching night courses in English and speech in the extension division of his alma mater.

After earning the bachelor's degree, Mounie taught at Craddock High School in Portsmouth, then returned to college to be a graduate assistant. He taught public speaking, debating and English at Princess Anne High School and went on to do counseling there. Next, the administrator was the assistant principal at Kempsville Junior High School for two years.

Married to the former Janice Cannon of Grifton, N.C., they have a four-year-old daughter, Laura Jane.

While coaching debate at Princess Anne High School and at Craddock High School, Mounie had state championship teams for two years. He has also coached tennis.

His professional record is impressive and includes his service as chairman of the evaluating committee for the Southern Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges; secretary-treasurer of the District L Secondary Principals Association; parliamentarian for the Virginia Beach Education Association and the District L Education Association. Mounie has been a member of the Virginia Education Salary Committee for the past two years.

"I'm looking forward to working with the excellent professional staff at Virginia Beach High School," he said. Mounie added that there may be some small changes in policy at the school next year but any major changes would be too far in the future to discuss or predict now.

He has served as president of the Pfeiffer Playmakers and as an instructor in the college drama workshop.

While still a freshman, he was elected to membership in the Alpha Psi Omega honorary fraternity for drama majors. At the conclusion of his college work, he plans to take graduate work in drama and teach on a college level after summer stock experiences.

WRECK HURTS 4

KEMPSVILLE—Four Chesapeake residents were injured in a 1-car collision on Indian River Road about one mile west of North Landing Road Saturday about 4 p.m.

Patrolman James Wright said that a car, driven by Jacob Charles Norton, 23, went out of control on a curve when a tire blew out and ran into a tree. No charges were placed.

Norton received multiple cuts; Dean Muncher, 13, had a cut over the right eye; Lynn Muncher, 13, had scratches; and Tommie G. McKeithan Jr., 22, suffered a fractured rib.

Seashore State Park Eligible As Landmark

LYNNHAVEN—The Seashore Natural Area here has been announced eligible for inclusion in the National Registry of Natural Landmarks, according to the United States Department of the Interior.

This development was learned from a letter written to Hon. Thomas N. Downing, of the House of Representatives by the Department. The National Park Service will inform the Virginia Department of Conservation and Development of the eligibility and invite application for a certificate and bronze plaque designating the Seashore Natural Area a Registered Natural Landmark.

There are 16 areas now designated as natural landmarks in the United States.

Part of the State of Virginia's Natural Area System, the Seashore Natural Area includes about 1,500 acres of the 2,700-acre Seashore State Park within the city limits of Virginia Beach.

The Area is the direct result of the action of the ocean, which, with the aid of the winds, formed parallel rows of dunes. Over a long period of time, these dunes have become densely wooded.

The high water table in the area resulted in two distinct forest types: dogwood, pine, oak, hickory and beach of the dunes and a cypress-tupelo forest fringed with sweet gum, red maple and cedar grows in the swamps and pools between the dunes.

White/Hill Lake is the principal fresh water lake within the interior of the area and covers about 45 acres. This and smaller bodies of water provide feeding grounds for migrating water fowl.

Although live oak and Spanish moss are rarely seen north of the mouth of Chesapeake Bay—and the cottonmouth moccasin not at all—they are conspicuous in the plant and animal life of the Seashore Natural Area, which is also a sanctuary for wildlife and one of the few remaining nesting sites for the bald eagle.

TWO INJURED

LONDON BRIDGE—Two persons were injured in a 1-car collision on Virginia Beach Boulevard near Great Neck Road about 12:05 a.m. Monday.

Reported as injured were the driver, James Calvin Cooper Jr., 18, 6582 Bryant Road, and a passenger, Willis Earl Warren, 20, 146 Cayuga St. Cooper suffered contusions of the right cheek and bone and Warren suffered an injured back, the extent unknown at this time, police said.

Officer Edward G. Casey reported that Cooper was headed west on Virginia Beach Boulevard when he lost control of the car, struck a telephone pole, careened off and struck another guide wire some 125 feet from the pole.

Damages to the electrical fixtures and flowers in the yard of J. M. Potter at 2336 Virginia Beach Boulevard were estimated at $365.

The officer said that Cooper was helped out of the car and left the scene. He was charged with reckless driving and leaving the scene.

VIRGINIA BEACH—The first of two rabies clinics to be conducted in Virginia Beach by the Public Health Department is scheduled for Saturday from 1 to 4 p.m.

Thieves Get Appliances Minus Doors

KEMPSVILLE—The $2,000 worth of appliances taken this week from a Kempsville warehouse will probably cause the thieves more problems than they anticipated.

Only one of the 16 items stolen has doors on it.

The appliances were taken from the Carolanne Homes warehouse on Princess Anne Road when entry was made to the property by cutting a chain on the front gate, police said.

Sgt. D. J. Craig and Detectives Dan Creelman and Dick Basnight were called to the scene. Upon investigation they discovered that the appliances, which were still crated, were minus the doors. Only one piece, a refrigerator, was complete.

Detective Creelman said that the other missing items were dishwashers, oven-range combinations and platform ranges, all Westinghouse models.

LAND SURVEY IS UNDERWAY

VIRGINIA BEACH—The city's first land survey got underway this week and is expected to continue throughout the summer.

Personnel in the Planning Commission is conducting the survey in cooperation with the Southeastern Regional Planning Commission.

Planning Director Maune Gamage said that the purpose of the survey is to evaluate—not appraise—all of the property in the city and to catalog its use.

Although previous studies have been conducted in particular areas, this will be the first overall land survey made in the city. Once completed, the information will be compiled into an inventory directory which can be used to judge the percentage of growth in any part of the city, Gamage said.

The 'Y' of It

WHY JOIN THE YWCA?

One might wish that all those who join the YWCA initially come because they desire to belong to an organization made up of all kinds of people who are joining together to become more effective world citizens, to develop new skills, to carry leadership responsibilities, to improve conditions in their community, their state, their nation and in turn, the world—for that is what the YWCA is all about.

Why do they come? Though the reasons vary, each usually comes with a single personal purpose, guided by the image she has of the YWCA. Perhaps it is for a specific class program —art, swimming, dress making, decoupage, etc. Others, out of loneliness, seek new interests, new associations, new objectives.
Some are motivated by the desire to do for others and doing something meaningful along with others.

Through active participation a member soon becomes aware of the large picture of the YWCA, of the many facets of the YWCA program, the adaptability of it to the local scene and the needs of its community. There is a stretching and a learning and an enlargement of concern with vital problems such as integration, moral and ethical values, community progress, community leadership — a desire to join in corporate Christian action.

My personal experience as a YWCA member has been that those women who do join and do become actively "involved" in YWCA leadership experience a personal growth and change that is at once meaningful, rewarding and challenging.

Whatever your initial reason may be for joining the YWCA it is hoped that you will join and will share in this cooperative opportunity. Availability of membership is as close as your telephone—call now at the YWCA office 303 30th Street,

EDITORIAL SPEAKING

The Women Want To Know

There is an organization known as the League of Women Voters. It is an organization that has been steadily growing, and is now beginning to make its voice heard and its influence felt statewide. On the 28th of this month, the Norfolk-Virginia Beach League of Women Voters will hold a rally at Princess Anne High School. A great deal of work has gone into the planning of this political meeting, and urge the residents of Virginia Beach to fill the more than one thousand seats in the school auditorium. It should be an enlightening meeting.

Here's the way it will work. Questionnaires have been sent to the five State Senatorial candidates seeking the three seats from the Virginia Beach-Chesapeake-Portsmouth Senatorial District. The five Democratic candidates will be narrowed down to three in next month's primary. The questionnaires have been prepared by the Virginia League of Women Voters for distribution by local groups. The five candidates have been asked to answer eight very political and very specific questions. The one amusing aspect of the questionnaire is that the candidates have been asked to answer the questions in fifty words or less, wherever possible. And several of the questions themselves contain far more than fifty words. Besides that, we are aware just how difficult it is for a political candidate to answer any question in fifty words or less. But these are important questions, which show the complete interest the League has taken in our State government.

Probably one of the most important questions being asked is, "Will you endorse repeal of the poll tax as a prerequisite for voting in state and local elections in Virginia?" This is a matter that has greatly concerned the League for some time, especially since the abolishment of the poll tax as a prerequisite for voting in national elections. It has been our pleasure to hear League spokesmen speak eloquently before General Assembly committees in the past.

We'll be particularly interested in the candidates' answers to two other questions as well. One seeks views on State alleviation of the debt load now carried by the Cities and Counties. The other deals with support of legislation to provide funds for all levels of education. This question has received national and statewide interest in light of the college and secondary school crisis now faced by all of us.

Then there is the final catch-all question to which we can expect wide variety of answers. The question is, "If elected, what specific legislative program will you propose?" Now there's a tough one. We look forward to the answers to be presented by William P. Kellam and L. Charles Burlage of Virginia Beach, William Spong, Jr., of Portsmouth and William Hodges and Gordon Marsh of Chesapeake. In that group of distinguished men, there is only one political newcomer, L. Charles Burlage, so the answers can certainly be expected to be based on sound political judgement.

As any man knows, we should never underestimate the power of a woman. By the same token, we should never underestimate the power of a group of women, especially this dedicated group. The five candidates are expected to appear at Princess Anne High School on the 28th to discuss their answers to the questionnaire, and we hope that a large group of interested citizens will also be in attendance. It is distressing, to say the least to attend a political rally where more candidates than spectators attend.

We salute the Norfolk-Virginia Beach League of Women Voters in their efforts to arrive at the truth and to find the best three candidates. The topics they have chosen in their questionnaire are excellent, timely, and will certainly help all those at the meeting to evaluate for themselves just who the three best are.

Once again, we remind you that there are more than a thousand seats in the auditorium of Princess Anne High School. We would like to see all of them filled on the 28th with civic-minded citizens who appreciate the mammoth job undertaken by the League of Women Voters.

We're Proud Of The Dome

Ever since we first saw the Dome at Virginia Beach and learned of its uses, we have been proud to have such a facility. It has been a giant boost to the city, offering a place for meetings, conventions and all sorts of entertainment. One of its major uses has been for shows of interest to the teenager and younger set. Many is the time we have been happy to know that the younger group had a respectable place to go for entertainment, and a place where better-classed entertainment is offered. We are not advocates of the "rock 'n' roll" school of music, and we usually shun those gatherings where this particular type of goings on is being held, but we do understand that the teenagers like all this, and we are thankful that they have a place like the Dome at Virginia Beach to visit when their kind of entertainment is being presented. Maybe we have even become rather smug and complacent about our Dome. We simply take it for granted, and do not realize just what a great facility we have. Evidence of those less fortunate has come our way, and we pass it along to you.

Several hundred Hampton teenagers have signed a petition which contains a request that may well have considerable weight. The petition, with its cover letter, was sent to Radio Station WGH. The letter stated that with the advent of summer, the Hampton teenagers were asking for help. They said they need some place to go, not just an "open air" place, but also a place where they need a combination of things. The Dome at Virginia Beach, they added, that not all of them could avail themselves of the facilities at Virginia Beach, because of a lack of transportation and money. The teenagers said they feel that a worthwhile place of this sort would be helpful, and would solve the problem of people roaming the streets searching for something to do and some place to go. They went on to say they are not asking WGH to build the place, but that maybe the radio station could start the ball rolling.

When we read the letter, we were struck by the honesty of these teenagers and their honest plea. But we also are most proud that we already have such a place. We are glad that the City Fathers saw the need of constructing such a building in the first place, and that they made it available for teenage entertainment so often. It is a place to go for something to do. And it is a good place for the teenagers. We salute the radio stations, including WGH, which have presented the entertainment there.

We offer our home as mute testimony to a real need. We offer it as a model for other cities, not only those in the Tidewater area, but also in other areas as well.

Although it is little consolation to the Hampton teenagers, particularly this summer, we sympathize with their problem, and hope they soon have their own facility where they can go and enjoy themselves.

Until they do, we offer them the use of our Dome whenever they can get to Virginia Beach. In fact welcome them.

Now that we know that other cities are not quite as fortunate as Virginia Beach, we are prouder than ever of our facilities in our own city.

WATER TORTURE

It's A Grand Old Flag

There has been some controversy lately over the opening words to one of this country's most patriotic songs. Originally, we have learned, when George M. Cohan (Yankee Doodle Boy) wrote the song, the first words were, "You're a grand old flag, a high flying RAG." But over the years, we have become too sophisticated to refer to the colors as a "rag", and the spirited song now goes, "You're a grand old flag, a high flying FLAG." We are certain that Mr. Cohan had nothing, but respect for the American flag, and his reference to a rag was nothing more than a term of endearment or lasting affection.

Recently, in a national magazine, a well-known columnist used the original wording, and was taken to task quite severely in subsequent issues for quoting Mr. Cohan. His critical opponents, we are sure, were merely trying to make a point, but so are we. We don't care what you call it, as long as you show proper respect for it.

National Flag Week is celebrated this year from June 13 to June 19, and Flag Day is Monday, June 14. The purpose of setting aside a week designated as National Flag Week is formally defined as "The inculcation of the meaning of true Americanism into the minds and hearts of our citizens". True Americanism has nothing to do with one's politics, nothing to do with conservatism or liberalism, nothing to do with economic factors, and nothing to do with sects or factions of any kind. It lies in devotion to country, and to those eternal principles of freedom upon which it was founded and which are the source of its strength and greatness.

In some circles today, patriotism seems to be regarded with some contempt. Highly vocal groups of young and older persons alike, pay lip service to our enemies, by violently denouncing the efforts of the government. They appear to have little respect for the flag of our country, as it was seen through the eyes of such people as Francis Scott Key and yes, even George M. Cohan. In certain foreign countries, our flag has been torn down from official government buildings. We should regard this as a major crime. The reverence we should all have for our flag symbolizes our patriotism—something vitally necessary in these trying times.

It is a rare thing today to see the flag flying in front of a private home, even on national holidays.

We ask you to show your patriotism on Flag Day and during National Flag Week. Let the flag fly high and let all know the overwhelming majority of Americans, differ as they do on problems and issues, revere it, and love and respect all that it means to us.

Two Cents Tax And DST

The two per cent sales tax in Virginia Beach has now managed to survive just about half a month, and no one seems any the worse for wear. Of course this may not last, particularly for the merchants who have to fill out so many forms to be submitted to the city before the first of July.

In those first few days, we stood around cash registers all over the city listening to clerks trying to figure out the proper tax. There was always just the slightest pause while the clerk looked it up on his handy little sales tax chart. Most of the customers accepted the additional sum as a matter of course, and reached into a pocket or pocketbook already full of lots of jingling pennies. Some would say, "Oh yeah, I'd forgotten about that." Others would mumble something about "Yeah, another tax..." and one we heard shocked us completely. A most respectable-looking, well-dressed man in his late thirties, turned on the poor young thing of a clerk and grumbled loudly, "When did that go into effect? I've been living here all my life, and I didn't know we were going to have a sales tax." Now that's what we call an uninformed citizen, completely oblivious of the world around him. Somehow or other, we don't know whether to envy him or pity him.

But in our days of standing around cash registers, we heard no serious threats on people just dug a little deeper.

So now we fall into a routine, paying two cents on a dollar as a sales tax. We should be just about completely used to it, when the General Assembly meets next January and decides to up the rate to three cents on a dollar.

And if the transition from no tax to the sales tax was not bad enough, during the same week, another momentous occasion had to take place. Daylight Saving Time began, and nobody seemed to remember whether to set the clock ahead an hour or back an hour. The Virginia General Assembly, in its infinite wisdom, probably did a very good thing when it decreed that DST would begin on a Sunday. More than likely, we will all be fully used to DST and an hour more of daylight by the Sunday after Labor Day. That's the date set for the return to Standard Time.

These two traumatic experiences, DST and the sales tax are now safely behind us. Maybe we can settle down for a quiet summer of swimming, surfing, partying, fighting heavy traffic and taking nerve pills.

THE PRICE OF FREEDOM

Epitopeck was not a very large town as towns go but to Emmanuel Mavrakia it was a very important place. It was his town and Greece was his country. He was proud that he was a Greek.

Now peace had finally come. He would farm his land and raise his family. It would be simple now. After so much suffering the good things must come. But, as Emmanuel was to discover, it is a very long journey from dreams to reality.

One day as he worked in the fields men came to him. They appeared to be men keenly aware of the hunger and suffering his people had known. They told him that they believed they had a plan to help alleviate the hunger and suffering of the people of Emmanuel's town. They called their idea Communism! Emmanuel listened to all they had to say and then he simply said, "No." He told them he had fought hard for democracy and he would like to give it a chance to work. They smiled and left.

A few weeks later other men came but they lacked the polish and ease of the others. They were hard men. They told Emmanuel that he, as Mayor, of his village, must see to it that his people were properly cared for; if not they would! He was told how to run his village and who to appoint. "Those who oppose the tide of mankind's surge to freedom must pay the consequences" was their final remark.

Emmanuel Mavrakia was probably no braver than you or I, but he had lost freedom once. He had seen his parents die along with men who had become like brothers to him. His freedom was precious. Emmanuel refused the demands of these men. Two days later his three children were taken.

Again these men told Emmanuel to do their bidding or this time, his children would die. The members of the town council urged him to agree to their demands — to save his children. They had all lived under terror before — they would survive again!

Emmanuel thought of the hundreds of men and women who looked to him for leadership; he thought of the thousands of children yet unborn; but most of all he thought of his two boys and little girl.

We, as Americans, very seldom face a choice as dramatic and heart rending as Mavrakia's! We know the threat of world communism is a menace to world peace. We know American men are dying daily in small brushfire wars to halt the insidious march of communism; but it usually never quite touches our individual world. The communist is confident, however, that Americans are soft and spineless. Communist interrogators in Korea came to that conclusion concerning our fighting men.

"Based upon our observations of American soldiers and their officers captured in this war for the liberation of Korea from capitalist and imperialist aggression the following facts are evidenced. The American soldier has weak loyalties to his family, his community, his country, his religion, and to his fellow soldiers. His concept of right and wrong is hazy; opportunism is easy. By himself he feels frightened and insecure. He underestimates his own work, his own strength, and his ability to survive. He is largely ignorant of social values, social tensions and conflicts. There is little knowledge or understanding even among United States university graduates, of American political history and philosophy: the federal state, and community organizations, states rights and civil rights; freedom safeguards, and how these things supposedly operate within his own system. He is exceedingly insular and provincial, with little or no idea of the problems and the aims of what he contemptuously describes as foreigners, and their countries. He has an unrealistic concept of America's inherent, rather than earned or proven, superiority and of its absolute military invincibility. This is his greatest weakness. He fails to appreciate the meaning of and the necessity for military organization or any form of discipline. Most often he feels that his military service is a kind of hateful and unavoidable servitude to be tolerated as briefly as possible. He is what he himself calls a peacetime soldier. He looks on military service only as a soft and safe job. He resents hardship and sacrifice of any descriptions, as if these things were unfair and unreasonable to him personally."

I honestly don't believe this is true. Hundreds of thousands of families will testify to the sacrifices made in liberty's name. Sacrifices that were made willingly, to preserve this nation. But what about you? What would you do if you were Emmanuel Mavrakia? What would be the price of your freedom?

THE VIRGINIA BEACH OPEN FORUM

I just want to express my appreciation to your paper for the fine cooperation and coverage extended to the Virginia Beach Little Theatre over the past year.

Both Doris Padick and Ruby Jean Phillips have helped make my job as publicity chairman easier and pleasant.

Our community theatre is most grateful to your publication. Shirley Fentress

Dear Sirs:

We have just completed a most successful Easter Seal Campaign in the state of Virginia, and we are deeply indebted to you for your help in publicizing our efforts.

Although we do not have our figures in from all over the state, the results at this point are most gratifying. To date, we have received $250,000 from the 1965 campaign. We, of course, realize that this could not have been accomplished without your help and your support. These funds will provide medical assistance, treatment services, therapy, camping experiences, orthopedic appliances, etc. to many, many crippled children and adults.

Please accept our sincere expression of appreciation.

Sincerely yours,
The Easter Seal Society

Dignity and Dedication
Well established trades and professions have had their idea-ifying earmarks throughout history. The proud owners of these, have in turn, worn them with an air of dignity and happy dedication.

This quality of the truly skilled workman and the highly trained professional will forever be the tag identifying the worthy, of either group. "Men proud of their product."

Putting one's self wholeheartedly, into his daily duties, is a prerequisite to happiness and success. Should the butcher, the baker, the candle-stick-maker, or any other workman, happen to find himself unwilling or incapable, of completing his assignments successfully, he should look for a different environment. Should the doctor, the lawyer, the social worker, the teacher, the preacher, or any other professional, find himself unwilling, to make the necessary sacrifices fitting his chosen profession, he should immediately make room for "the dedicated."

Dignity and dedication will always sell at a premium and without them, will be mediocrity. A person who is unwilling or incapable of wearing the "true earmarks," of his chosen career should, by all means, shift to where he really belongs; "Right where his heart is." "When the heart is right, the work is light."

Athletic Coach Waverly W. Williams and Seateck Elementary School Principal Miss Mary L. Johnson display the Ronald Edward Walke Memorial Trophy.

TROPHY HONORS DROWNED BOY

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Seateck Recreation Committee, a division of the City Recreation Department, has established a sportsmanship trophy as a memorial to a teen-age athlete, who was drowned in a sand pit on South Birdneck Road about four years ago.

The Ronald Edward Walke Memorial Trophy will remain on display at Seateck Elementary School but each year will be engraved with the name of a student selected for outstanding achievement in sportsmanship, athletic participation and ability, team effort and overall respect. The recipient will receive a certificate noting his award.

It is also specified in the rules that recipients must compete in football, basketball and baseball in the same calendar year, between September and August. The award will be presented each September for the past year's participation.

The committee hopes in the near future to start an annual Ronald Edward Walke Award Banquet to raise funds for the Seateck area and for presentation of the award.

Ronald Edward Walke, better known as Sandy, was the seventh child of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence O. Walke Sr. of 1542 Old Virginia Beach Road. He was a frail child, suffering from acute asthma, which restricted normal activity during his early years.

When he was nine years of age he joined the Seateck recreational teams, for the first time taking part in the sports he so much enjoyed. It was not easy. He could only play five minutes at a time. But as his muscles gradually developed, his asthmatic condition began to ease.

By the time he was 12 it had receded and he began playing successfully in the Junior leagues, then moved on to the Senior leagues.

At the time of his tragic death, the youth was a member of the Union Kempsville High School football and baseball teams and he assisted Seateck Athletic Coordinator Waverly M. Williams in coaching all the junior high teams.

"He was a leader at all times, whether on or off the athletic field," Williams said.

"We are not trying to relive or imitate Sandy's childhood through the criteria specified for this award," he added, "but rather to bring out some of the better characteristics that may be found in everyone."

The committee has decided that the award will be limited to the recreational participants of the Seateck area only. Two reasons prompted this decision. First, Sandy's mother has been the area's chairman ever since it was organized. Second, Sandy never played with any other recreational area.

A funeral service was conducted in Lavender Memorial Pentecostal Holiness Church Wednesday by the Rev. R. Newton Hill. Burial was in Riverside Memorial Park.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad but sweet memory of our son and brother, Frank Watson Land who left us 13 years ago today, June 10, 1952.

Beside your grave we often stand With hearts both crushed and sore But in the gloom, the sweet words come "Not lost, but gone before"

So we'll be brave, dear Frank And pray to God each day And when he calls us home to you, Your smile will guide the way His Devoted Mama, Daddy, Sister and brothers

He loveth righteousness and justice — (Psalm 33:13) God's law of justice is alive in us and in our affairs. This law is dependable and we can trust it to work. When we are in tune with God's law and apply it to our lives and affairs, peace and order are established.

MARKET GETS A NEW LOOK

DIAMOND SPRINGS — Phase I of the Virginia Beach Produce Market 1965 Expansion program was completed this week, and buyers and sellers will see the "new look" when they come to the Market this weekend, according to E. R. Cockrell, Jr., City Agricultural Agent.

In making the announcement, Cockrell said, that Phase I consisted of grading an additional 80 x 600 foot area, the "finish" grading of the original area used last year, and applying oyster shell base on the new area.

Cockrell said that most noticeable change would be the relocation of the small dealer stalls from the old to the new area. However, they occupy the same relative location.

The trailer, used as an office for the Market staff, has also been moved to the rear of the new lot.

The expanded Market area will accommodate approximately 90 trucks, 90 passenger cars, and 16 small dealer stalls. An overflow area for peak seasons is also ready.

Phase II consists of construction of a 24 x 26 foot building which will house the office, storage room, and public sanitation facilities. Additionally, new and fully adequate lighting is a part of this phase. This phase will get under way next week and is expected to be completed July 15.

Phase III consists of black-topping the entire area, with proper marking for directed traffic and parking. Final plans for 1965 are to erect appropriate highway signs to the Market.

In other action the John Kessler Rebels shut-out the Dream Construction Jets 5-0 and the Fleet Reserve Ass'n. Orioles dropped a close one to the Bears 4-3 in two extra innings. The Orioles also played to a 7-7 tie with the Jets. The Peppers and Anzacs played a 6-6 draw.

Willard A. Van Engel, Senior Marine Scientist at the Virginia Institute of Marine Science showing the giant size blue crab caught by Reuben L. Jenkins to Glenn Mahnen, an Antioch College student employed in the Crustaceology Department of the Institute.

Sizable Blue Crab Landed

GLOUCESTER POINT — How big do we grow blue crabs in Virginia? Reuben L. Jenkins of Gloucester County thought he had one of the biggest when he caught a pound and a half jumbo crab in one of his pots in Mobjack Bay last Monday morning. Jenkins, who lands his catch at the York River Seafood Company at Perrin, gave the giant crab to the Virginia Institute of Marine Science at Gloucester Point for its exhibit.

W. A. Van Engel, marine scientist in charge of crab research at VIMS, measured and weighed the crab. "The crab was 8 1/2 inches wide, from spine tip to spine tip, had a 2 1/4 inch span from tip to tip of outstretched claws, and weighed 1 1/2 pounds. The leg span and body weight are the same as another male crab on exhibit. The biggest crab on exhibit is 9 1/2 inches wide, but has very small claws," said Van Engel. He estimated that these crabs were about 4 times average weight, and that about 67 of them would fill a 100 pound barrel. Normally about 300 crabs are packed in a barrel.

Female crabs are never as large as males. One landed last week at M. F. Quinn's crab house in Hampton reportedly weighed 14 1/2 ounces, but was cooked before VIMS could obtain it. Van Engel said he would like to have some large female crabs for exhibit. "We have had reports of giant male crabs from the Chickahominy River, but never a specimen in hand. We will accept all donations."

Giant crabs seem to be more abundant in Maryland than Virginia. Record sizes for Maryland are 27 1/2 inches and 24 1/2 inches, from claw-tip to claw-tip. It is estimated that about 25 per cent of Wye and Miles river crabs are of giant size.

Coast Guard Awarded Trophy For Performance

PORTSMOUTH — For an unprecedented third year in a row, the Fifth Coast Guard District Auxiliary has won the coveted National Commander's Trophy for Superior Performance. The trophy was received today at Fifth Coast Guard District Headquarters in Portsmouth by Commander E. S. Childers, Director of Auxiliary. The announcement that the district had been picked to receive the award came at the Auxiliary's National Conference held at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York.

The winners of the trophy are picked annually by a committee designated by the National Commander, Ellsworth A. Weinburg of Dallas, Texas. The various districts are judged on a point basis and the criteria for judging includes such varied items as forming flotilla, increasing membership, qualifying inspectors, examiners and instructors, training in communications, search and rescue, courtesy examinations, operational assists, lives saved and educational activities to the public.

Commander Childers, commenting on the award said, "The backbone of the auxiliary are the individual members of each flotilla in the district who work mainly on their own initiative toward improving the nation's water safety program."

The Coast Guard Auxiliary, formed in 1939, is an organization of owners of boats, aircraft, or radio stations, which helps the Coast Guard with safety, education, and rescue measures. Spearheaded by the Coast Guard and the Auxiliary Flotilla, State boating authorities, safety officials, U.S. Power Squadrons, Red Cross, and the YMCA are carrying out an extensive program of education in boating safety.

AMERICAN LEGION LEAGUES

BAYSIDE — Virginia Beach American Legion Post 113 defeated Great Bridge Post 280, 10-4 behind the pitching of Kelvin Crowley last Tuesday night at Cox High school.

The young lefthander was throwing ping pong balls as 19 Great Bridge players hit the dirt on strike outs. His curve and fast ball was hitting the corners all night long as he racked up victory number two of the young season. Ed Poulter slammed a home run in the 5th and added two singles in the win. John Whitehurst a nice fielder tripled and singled as the team batted out 12 hits. Crowley in pitching a 5 hitter kept the Great Bridge team off balance all night, post 280 mustered 5 runs on three Va. Beach errors.

After winning two games Post 113 ran into Norfolk Post 204 Friday night and went down to defeat 10-4, held to five hits Va. Beach never was in the game. 113's record now is 2-1.

SOFTBALL EVENTS

RICHMOND — Virginia Amateur Softball Association has four types of tournaments scheduled this month.

In the invitational slow pitch category, the 14-inch cushion (fumble ball) event will be held this Saturday and the 12-inch church contests on June 19, both in Richmond. St. Mary's Catholic of Morges, Ohio, has entered the church tournament.

There is a greater variety in fast pitch competition. A "double-header" is slated at Richmond on June 26—the State Class B women and the State Class B Open men.

District fast pitch tournaments for men in the Armed Forces are scheduled on June 26 at Norfolk and Fort Eustis.

Virginia ASA has already conducted two tournaments this year. University of Richmond won the college fast pitch title and Burlington Auto Fabrics of Wilson, N.C., took the invitation at 10-inch slow pitch championship.

Managers interested in tournament competition should write State Softball Commission, Hank Wolfe, 118 Seneca Road, Richmond, Va. 23226 or call AT 2-0506 for rules and entry forms.

VIEW

of VIRGINIA BEACH

"Summertime... and the living is easy," so sings a favorite song. For whom is the living so easy in the summer? Kids, of course — no more teachers, no more books... just lazy, fun-filled days in the sunshine. For teachers too — nice to be free of the many inquiring minds... time to relax for a couple of months, or to be back into the classroom as a student instead of the teacher, and to receive education instead of giving it. For mothers? — Sure!... after the adjustment in household routine due to the constant presence of the entire family underfoot. Mothers no longer must arise early to make sure a proper breakfast is consumed (except for Dad), no more frantic search for a lost book or a last-minute ironing job on a dress that just must be worn today, no lunches to be packed nor digging deep into the purse for lunch money. Now Mom has help to get the chores done more quickly, assistants to prepare a picnic lunch, company on her shopping trips, and good excuses to lie on the beach all day and to enjoy sight-seeing trips to interesting places.

Living may not be so easy for the student who tries to find summer employment. It is discouraging to want to work and have no one interested in hiring you. No one wants to be an unemployment statistic! And the student who does find work, also finds the carefree days seem to have disappeared. You discover the often-used (but not really believed) phrase "school days are your happiest days" to be startlingly true. Teachers were not as demanding nor as impatient of your short-comings as a "boss"; and the breaks in routine do not occur as often as class changes did — if you are hired for eight hours of work, you are expected to give eight hours of work. The sun may be running and the sun may be bright, but you are stuck where you are. Payday is the only ease to the burden of maturity. But isn't it strange how much more difficult it is to make your own earned money stretch further than your former allowance (with advances)?

And what does summer mean to the newly graduated college student? Full of the fires of youth, equipped with a hard fought-for degree, do you find doors magically opening to you? You are ready to give the world all your new found knowledge... but does anyone want it? Summertime is the time to find out. You may have to adjust your dreams to fit reality. Employment may be a problem, but seeing old friends again, comparing colleges, discussing life with the generation who understands you, this you can enjoy.

Summertime is working, waiting, and worrying time for the farmer and home gardener. A lot of what you grow depends on how much time and energy you are willing to put forth. And a lot also depends on the weather. To see results, good results, brings great satisfaction and thankfulness to you who are partners with the Almighty. Blooming flowers, a bountiful harvest — nothing like summer to bring that about.

To the "old folks" looking forward to visits of grown children and grandchildren, summer is harvest-time also. The old house once more rings with the sound of childish voices and the pounding of running footsteps. Most family reunions happen during the happy time of summer.

Summer means many things to many people. In Virginia Beach, it brings tourists by the thousands. They get a taste of what we feed on all the year. Virginia Beach is home... and summertime is one of the nicest times of the year. So is spring, fall, and winter... to us who belong here!

SIDEVIEW — More and more of the colorful petunias are seen filling once barren areas. The citizens of Virginia Beach who have taken the time and effort to create beauty with the hardy petunia plants are to be congratulated. But look around — there are still many spots where the petunias could bloom. It is not too late to plant more. If you see a place that needs brightening, put in a petunia. It will grow and bloom and beautify.

STRONG CHURCHES...

make STRONG COMMUNITIES

WHO BATS FIRST ??

ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest force on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a stronghold of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four great reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. (1) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Part of playing any game is to learn how to settle the inevitable arguments. In a league in which nobody has a coin to toss, this is the time-honored method for getting the game started without a squabble. But there are other games to be played, in other leagues. Life for each of us brings many occasions for conflict. And they don't all yield to simple techniques like twisting a bat around one's shoulders with just a couple of fingers.

Earnest Christians believe that our faith can point men to the right attitude and action in times of stress.

That's why, as we face the conflicts of life, we always hope the other fellow will behave like a Christian. And he's hoping as much of us.

BASKIN IN THE SUN

By GORDON BASKIN

Looks like we've safely made it through the winter. That is we have if we don't have a blizzard this week. I dunno about you, but these winters get a little harder each year. I'm for plenty of sunshine and fiesta myself. I'll even put up with those loud birds in the early morning who wake me at dawn. Think I'll buy a cat.
Of course the warm weather makes for easier and cheaper living. My children now dress in bathing suits except for state occasions, and this sure beats buying pants, sweaters and warm underwear. The oil bill should shrink a bit since the furnace isn't drinking so deeply.

Very best part of the warm sunny days has to do with what it has done to the dunes. They've swapped those bulky coats and sweaters for dresses made on some synthetic material that weighs only one-half an ounce an acre. I am here to tell you there's nothing that lifts the spirit and tones the muscles like watching a good looking woman stomp around in a filmy dress being tossed by the breeze — or whatever. I will pass on the new bathing suits.
Shakes me up just thinking about it.

Easy to see that I'm in favor of warm weather just on the basis of the improvement in the scenery. I suppose that there are a few over-stuffed females who'll wear bikinis and shouldn't, but I can't worry too much. These will be the same women who wear slacks in the winter and shouldn't. You can't win them all.

Rather not talk about one bad thing, though. I mean the Yankees.
They're nine and a half games out. Mantle can hardly walk.
Howard busted his arm. Maris has a pulled muscle, plus an optimistic manager who says everything will be OK. He better be right. I'm gettin' a little old to spend a summer rooting home a loser.

FIVE CENTURIES OF FRENCH TOAST

What we Americans call French toast was undoubtedly the result of a need to make the most of stale or lost bread. A recipe for using lost bread by whisking it through a batter of eggs and milk appeared as early as the fifteenth century in a Harlequin manuscript.

This centuries-old innovation has been popular from that day to this. The Belgians call it pain yveve, or "found bread." Germans call it Arme Ritter in honor of the knights, later the messengers or restlers, who rode horseback from village to village on missions. A weary knight knocking at a door along the way in search of food and water was greeted by the hospitable housewife with the exclamation, "O der arme ritter ist so hungry!"—the poor knight is so hungry. This situation was taken care of with dispatch by serving a platter of bread which had been dipped in an egg-milk mixture and grilled to golden perfection. The basic idea of French toast may be five centuries old, but the innovations for serving it are ever new.

The test kitchens of the American Institute of Baking almost got lost in the subject of French toast—but they managed to dig out from under seven wonderful unique recipes. Five use fruit in elegant ways. For sheer delight start this gastronomic adventure with blueberry stacks. The two remaining recipes are truly unusual and worthy of keeping company with the other five—Hope you like them.

BLUEBERRY STACKS

1/4 cup brown sugar
1/4 cup water
1 1/2 cups blueberries, stemmed and washed
1/4 teaspoon lemon juice
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1/4 cup milk
1/4 teaspoon salt
16 thin slices enriched bread
Combine brown sugar and water in a (1 pint) saucepan; boil gently for five minutes. Add blueberries, cover and simmer for about five minutes, or until berries are plump and tender, but not broken. Remove from heat and add lemon juice. Keep warm. Combine beaten eggs, milk and salt in a shallow bowl. Using a 3-inch cookie cutter, cut bread slices into rounds. Dip bread rounds into egg mixture, one at a time, turning them to coat both sides. Grill or pan fry bread on both sides in hot fat. To serve: Stack 4 French fried rounds, using about a tablespoon of warm blueberry sauce between rounds, and over the top.
Yield: 4 servings.

STRAWBERRY FRENCH TOAST

1/4 cup soft butter or margarine
1/4 cup confectioners' sugar
1 (10 ounce) package frozen sliced strawberries, thawed
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1/4 cup half and half
2 tablespoons lemon juice
8 slices enriched bread
Whip butter until light; gradually add sugar. Drain thawed strawberries; gradually add strawberries to butter-sugar mixture, beating after each addition until a smooth pink butter results. If strawberries do not blend in evenly, set bowl in hot water during beating to soften butter and warm strawberries so they will blend evenly. Combine beaten eggs and half and half in a shallow bowl. Gradually add lemon juice. Dip bread slices into egg mixture, one at a time, turning them to coat both sides. Brown bread on both sides on hot greased griddle. Serve hot with strawberry butter spread over each slice.
Yield: 4 servings—2 slices per serving.

CINNAMON-ORANGE FRENCH TOAST

1/4 cup soft butter or margarine
1/4 cup confectioners' sugar
1/4 cup finely ground orange
1/4 cup finely ground cinnamon
1/4 cup milk
16 slices enriched bread
Combine butter, sugar, orange and cinnamon in a shallow bowl. Dip bread slices into egg mixture, one at a time, turning them to coat both sides. Grill or pan fry bread on both sides in hot fat. To serve: Stack 4 French fried rounds, using about a tablespoon of warm blueberry sauce between rounds, and over the top.
Yield: 4 servings—2 slices per serving.

Combine beaten eggs, milk, orange rind and cinnamon in a shallow bowl. Dip bread slices into egg mixture, one at a time, turning them to coat both sides. Grill or pan fry bread on both sides in hot fat. Serve hot, topped with 1 to 1 1/2 tablespoons Branded Orange Butter.
Yield: 4 servings—2 slices toast per serving.

BRANDIED ORANGE BUTTER

1/4 cup soft butter or margarine
1 cup confectioners' sugar
1 teaspoon finely grated orange rind
2 tablespoons brandy
Combine butter, sugar, orange rind and brandy. Whip together until light and fluffy. Serve over Cinnamon-Orange French Toast.
Yield: 1 1/4 cups Brandied Orange Butter.
Note: May be stored in refrigerator, covered, until needed.

COCONUT-ORANGE FRENCH TOAST

4 eggs, slightly beaten
1 1/4 cups milk
1/4 teaspoon salt
12 slices enriched bread
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/4 cup brown sugar (firmly packed)
1 tablespoon orange juice

In Virginia, after golf
beer's the one...
for good taste, good fun

After a hard-played 18 holes, it's good to settle down on a soft chair in the club house and add up the score with friends. What better time for the drink that scores with almost every golfer—cool, thirst-quenching beer? Yes, beer's great to relax with, great for refreshment, great for taste. So whatever your sport—boating or baseball—swimming or tennis—relax afterwards with the zestful taste of beer.

Blackwater 4-H's Meet

BLACKWATER—The Blackwater 4-H Club had its monthly meeting on May 24, 1965. The program was a demonstration given by Donald Shirley on the parts of a steer and some pointers on judging a steer.

At the previous meeting, the Virginia Beach IFYE to Thailand, Hunter Spence, talked to the Club about his trip and made the suggestion that the Blackwater Club have a sister club in Thailand. The club took the suggestion and hopes to communicate with the sister club soon.

Another program about Thailand was given at Thalia Elementary School by Hunter Spence. This very enjoyable program included two members of the Blackwater Club, Stephanie Pecsek and Elaine Whitehurst.

We are very proud of Stephanie Pecsek, who on May 8, won first place in the District Demonstration Contest. On June 28-July 3, she will attend the VPI Short Course. We are all hoping that she will win the State contest. Stephanie's demonstration is on the parts of a steer and some pointers on buying good beef.

But here you are with your own special "looks," and no extra-special magic but your own desire to do your very best to look your very nicest. This means you will care about your physical and mental good health and what you can do to be your healthiest, happiest, prettiest and most likeable self.

Important to you are:

Good food in the proper amounts
Good food—in the proper amounts will help you to:

Feel energetic and peppy
Improve your appearance
Resist disease

The nutrients found in foods are hard-working little helpers for health. You might call them "prize packages" because they do so much for you. You know these nutrients by more familiar names—the vitamins, minerals, proteins, carbohydrates and fats. Some foods are richer in these hard-working nutrients than others. This is why you especially need milk, meat, eggs, fruits and vegetables in your meals every day.

How can you do this? Here is one guide to good eating. Each day choose foods from each of these four food groups for your meals.

1. Milk and Milk Products—4 glasses or servings.
2. Vegetables and Fruits—4 servings each day. One of these should be high in vitamin C, such as citrus fruits, strawberries, cantaloupes, green pepper, broccoli, tomatoes.
3. Meat or Other Protein—Rich foods—2 servings:
1. Eggs, fish, poultry and red meats contain animal protein.
2. Cereals, nuts, dried peas and beans are rich in plant protein.
4. Whole-Grain or Enriched Bread or Cereals—4 servings.

Of particular interest to the teen-agers will be WGH's presentation of the Dave Clark Five on June 24 at 8:30 p.m. This show has been scheduled at Princess Anne High School.

The Four Freshmen in concert will be presented by WTAR on July 9 at 8:30 p.m.

WVKV will sponsor Johnny Mathis in concert on two nights, July 17-18 at 8:30 and will also be responsible for bringing back Dave Brubeck in concert on August 7 for those dedicated jazz enthusiasts.

Jack Jones will appear in concert on July 30 at 8:30 p.m. under WAVY's sponsorship.

The Civic Center will again present Louis Armstrong in concert on July 23 at 8:30 p.m. His appearance here last summer drew acclamations as one of the best entertainers to hit Virginia Beach in a long time.

WNOR will present Brenda Lee in concert on August 21 at 8:30 p.m. WNOR will also present its weekly Beach Ball each Wednesday from 9 p.m. to midnight.

'Common Glory' Starts June 21

WILLIAMSBURG — The historic outdoor drama, "The Common Glory," will begin performances June 21 at 8:45 p.m. and continue nightly, except Sundays, throughout the summer until Aug. 28.

Director Howard Scammon has praised this year's widely ranged cast of some 75 actors, singers and dancers as some of the most talented he has ever selected.

Over 70 per cent of the company members have had previous experience in outdoor drama, and all of them are seasoned veterans of indoor theatres throughout the country, Scammon said.

Headed by Lee Smith of Portsmouth in the lead role of Thomas Jefferson, the cast includes Miss Carol Jones of West Poter as the Widow Huzzitt; Don Smith of Spotswood, N.J., as Hugh Taylor; and John Reese of Arlington as Cephus Sicklesmore.

Technical Director Al Haak is responsible for the two most spectacular aspects of the show, the on-the-set appearance of a colonial ship and the climactic battle of Yorktown. Myra Kitch is choreographer and dance director and Carl Fehr is musical director.

"The Common Glory," Paul Green's drama on the founding of the American Republic, is produced by The Jamestown Foundation, a non-profit organization, in cooperation with the Commonwealth of Virginia.

LITTLE NEED TO WEED

Cover the cracks with annuals and cut down the need to weed these spaces between stepping stones or patio squares. Here sweet alyssum borders the path and soon will cover cracks.

With the present popularity of terraces and patios, the many different kinds of paving often present weeding problems. Why give weeds a chance to grow?

Early sowing of annuals which naturally grow low and spreading will give these a head start and if you keep a space clear around them for just a little while there'll be no need to weed later in the season. The annuals will cover the cracks and, provide color and, sometimes, fragrance.

Shown in the illustration is sweet alyssum used in the cracks of a flagstone path. It also is used as a border along the edge of the path so that border and cracks will gradually merge into a carpet of one color. As you know, sweet alyssum is available with flowers of white, pink, lavender or purple so even this one annual offers a wide choice.

Creeeping simula might be used in a similar situation and its small yellow flowers would present a different color scheme.

from alyssum. Lobelias with blooms of varying shades of blue or white would be equally suitable and grow especially well in light shade.

For long-season weed avoidance, verbenas in mixed colors or in white, pink, rose, lavender or purple would be a happy choice — for these annuals continue to grow and flower until hard frost.

Portulacas are the gayest of the spreading annuals. Coming as they do with single or double flowers in bright yellows, roses, pinks and white, they are particularly suitable for a sunny situation where soil is poor for they thrive under these conditions.

Shrine Circus To Feature Space Act

NORFOLK — To the breathtaking artistry of aerialists, fascinating feats of performing animals and chuckle-provoking cavorting of clowns, George A. Hamid, Sr. has added the Me-teors in a spectacularly dramatic act from outer space, arriving with the world famous all new Hamid - Morton International Shrine Circus on June 24 for a four day engagement at Nor-view Stadium under the sponsorship of Norfolk's Khedive Temple. There will be daily performances at 2:30 and 8:30 p.m.

Sunday's performances will be at 2:00 and 6:30 p.m. A fantastic spaceship arrives in clouds of smoke amid unearthly sounds that could only originate in a world beyond our comprehension. Within are a boy and girl, glisteningly attired, who emerge from the craft with a fanfare. The atomic acrobats perform hair-raising feats of aerial artistry high above the ship's extended antenna.

This sensational presentation, as fresh as tomorrow, is unmatched in spectacle and aerial artistry, concluding with the spaceship, in shower of sparks, moving out of the arena under its own power.

Hello folks! Many of you 4-H club members and leaders are wondering what you can do to make 4-H exciting and interesting this summer. I hope all of you are planning an active program. This is the time of the year that you can do those things that have prevented you from doing these past few months. The following is a list of suggested activities for you to consider.

Driver Charged In Bay Tunnel Tragedy

VIRGINIA BEACH — Charges of reckless driving have been leveled against the driver of a tractor-trailer involved in a chain collision that killed four people on the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel on Monday morning.

Revised from the original account, State Police now say the tractor-trailer driver failed to slow for a flagman and rammed the death car from the rear. It was believed at first that there had been a head-on collision, but accounts given later said the tractor-trailer, automobile, and an ammonia truck involved in the accident were all headed north.

The victims were identified by State Police as Charles F. Musk, Jr. and his wife Mary Ann Musk of Avon, Conn., and Warren Goodrich Horton and his wife, Virginia Lotz Horton, of Canton, Conn. Horton and Musk, partners in the firm of Marsden and Wasserman in Hartford, Conn., had attended a business conference in Williamsburg and were on their way home in the car driven by Musk.

State Police said Raymond Baker Vior, driver of the ammonia truck, had slowed for a flagman as did the Musk car, but Dan Brainard driving the tractor trailer did not. It hit the rear of the car, setting it afire. The car bumped the back of the ammonia truck and then spun around into the southbound lane. Vior's truck got clear and he was uninjured. Brainard suffered only bruises. But before firemen arrived the flames had consumed both the car and tractor-trailer, and melted asphalt on the bridge.

According to Leon R. Johnson, chief engineer for the Bridge-Tunnel Authority, a warrant was secured in Northampton County on the reckless driving charge against Dan Brainard of Winter Garden, Fla. He is free under a $500 bond.

Beware Of Wig Salesmen
Police Warn

PLAZA — Police officials have warned area housewives to beware of anyone who might be selling wigs or hairpieces from door-to-door because the items could possibly be stolen property.

Over $4,390 worth of wigs, hairpieces and wiglets were stolen Friday night from The House of Wigs on Virginia Beach Boulevard near the Princess Anne Plaza Shopping Center.

Police said the thieves entered the building by removing an air conditioning unit from a rear window. The air conditioner, valued at $100, was also taken, police said.

The warning about the door-to-door sales was prompted by a similar incident in Richmond when over $40,000 worth of stolen wigs were disposed of in this manner.

Detectives Dick Basnight and Dan Creelman are investigating.

PARENTS' NIGHT
TONIGHT

BAYSIDE — The Bayside Baptist Church opened their Vacation Bible School on Monday, and it will conclude tonight with "Parents' Night." The sessions were held in the Education Department of the church each day from 9 a.m. until noon.

BEACH MAN HURT

HAMPTON — Edward H. Brehl of Virginia Beach was one of two men injured in a 2-car collision on Route 64 in Hampton Tuesday afternoon in which one person was killed.

Brehl and James Bassfield of Norfolk were in a car struck by a car driven by Willis Edward Jack of Hampton when it jumped the medium strip. Jack was killed in the collision.

Both Brehl and Bassfield were taken to Dixie Hospital in Hampton.

Candidates Ask Ladies' Help

VIRGINIA BEACH — Virginia State Senate candidate Bill Kellam asked a group of women campaign workers Thursday at the Cape Colony Club to support General Assemblyman William H. Hodges and himself in the July 13 Democratic primary so that the needs of the Virginia Beach and Tidewater area will "be heard with one voice and with authority."

In the reapportionment legislation enacted last November, three state senators are to represent Chesapeake Portsmouth and Virginia Beach for the first time.

"I think it is a very good thing that we're reapportioned. Our area has been neglected in the past and I believe we'll have more recognition in Richmond if we send a man to the Senate from each of the three cities," Kellam said.

He pleaded for the chance to send "not one voice to Richmond but three. By working together in unity, I believe our area will be served best."

Kellam discussed the critical problem of high school graduates who are unable to get into colleges of their choice because of overcrowding. "This is a situation that exists in every state but it is not the schools' fault. We must meet the increasing demands of higher education," he said.

He cited the fact that Virginia is 23 percent below the national average in money spent per capita to state institutions of higher learning.

The Virginia Beach civic leader explored the ladies to give him their support. He closed his remarks by thanking the ladies for taking the time to attend the campaign meeting.

Hodges, who has been in the General Assembly for four years, said, "I'm glad to be associated with Bill Kellam in this campaign. Our platforms are almost the same."

The Chesapeake legislator said the Tidewater area has a great heritage but "there is a lot to be done that has been neglected in the past. We have failed to do all we can in educating our children. I stand for quality education and for a system which will allow all our children to develop themselves to their maximum potential."

Ackiss Awarded Fellowship

BLACKSBURG — The Virginia Museum of Fine Arts has awarded an out-of-state fellowship to Thomas L. Ackiss of Virginia Beach for studies leading toward his master of architecture degree at the Graduate School of Design at Harvard University.

The $2,000 fellowship has the stipulation that Ackiss will return to Virginia and work for one year following completion of his studies.

Ackiss, the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Ackiss of Rt. 4, Virginia Beach, received his bachelor of architecture degree here Sunday with nearly 1,400 other Virginia Tech graduates.

Ackiss also received his commission as a second lieutenant in the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers last weekend.

TWO SHIPS COLLIDE OFF CAPE
HENRY; ONE ALMOST AGROUND

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Navy and Coast Guard were battling high seas early Wednesday morning to prevent a Navy destroyer, the USS Hartley, from going aground off 71st Street following a collision with another ship about one and a half miles off Cape Henry.

The Hartley, operating out of Newport, R.I., collided with the Norwegian merchant vessel "Blue Master", bound for New Orleans, La., about 5:30 a.m. There was no word Wednesday afternoon on how the accident occurred.

The Blue Master was only slightly damaged and continued on into port.

The Navy ship was damaged on the starboard side. Extent of the damage was not known but the ship lost its power and, buffeted by high winds and heavy seas, began drifting in toward shore.

Anchor held the ship secured, though in dangerously shallow water, several hundred yards off 71st Street.

By 9 a.m. an 85-foot Coast Guard cutter was on the scene attempting to get a line to the stricken ship. This measure was finally accomplished shortly after noon.

Standing by during the rescue operations were two Coast Guard tugs, a Coast Guard DUKW and another Navy destroyer.

The ships were hampered in their rescue attempts by an extremely angry sea, whipped up by Northeaster type winds that moved into the area on Tuesday, and the smaller vessels would sometimes nearly dip from sight in the deep swells.

A heavy downpour kept the beach clear of spectators during the morning hours but when skies cleared about noon crowds of curiosity seekers gathered along the shoreline to watch the rescue operations.

By mid-afternoon the Hartley had still not been pulled from its anchorage but Navy officials were optimistic that the rescue would soon be completed.

The Hartley's crew stayed aboard throughout the day and officials said the ship was never in any danger of breaking up. The only apparent danger was that it would go aground if the anchor cables snapped.

Sailor Causes Stir In Wild Police Chase

VIRGINIA BEACH — An 18-year-old sailor, reportedly absent without leave from the Oceana Naval Air Station caused quite a stir in Virginia Beach Tuesday morning in a wild incident that started with a hit-and-run on Shore Drive and ended with a foot race with police on 27th Street.

Police have identified the youth as Robert E. Irby. Navy officials said he was scheduled to report into Oceana at 8 a.m. Tuesday, about an hour before Irby's troubles started.

Irby reportedly stole a car in Norfolk in an attempt to reach the base on time. Police said the car belonged to William Lee Hunter of Tyson Road, Virginia Beach.

The sailor allegedly struck a car on Shore Drive and left the scene of the accident. Officer L. W. Montgomery responded to the call on the collision and alerted other patrol units to be on the look-out for the fleeing car.

Officer J. J. Waterfield spotted the car on Atlantic Avenue at 50th Street and chased it up Atlantic onto Pacific Avenue at "speeds exceeding 75 miles per hour," he said.

When Irby attempted to turn off Pacific at 32nd Street he was going too fast, Waterfield said, and wrecked the car.

The sailor then jumped from the car and started to run. Waterfield was joined by Sgt. C. H. Payne and the two officers pursued the youth to a wooded area at 27th Street and Arctic Avenue where he surrendered quietly.

Irby has been charged with leaving the scene of an accident, reckless driving, resisting arrest and reckless driving resulting in an accident.

He will also be turned over to Norfolk for additional charges of grand larceny for theft of the auto.

NORFOLK — William G. Dwyer, National Commander of the Disabled American Veterans, will be the keynote speaker at the State convention banquet to be held Saturday at the Monticello Hotel.

Green, Macon Salter, and Thomas W. Cason. Alternates are James M. Ramsey, Roy Holt, Millard W. Ackiss, and Walter Lee Ferguson.

Commander Dwyer will lay a wreath at the Tomb of former DAV member, General Douglas MacArthur, on Sunday at 11 a.m. at the conclusion of the DAV annual memorial service.

Plaza Stations
Get Approval
From Council

VIRGINIA BEACH — City Council Monday gave its long delayed approval of zoning applications that will allow construction of two service stations and two small shopping centers in Princess Anne Plaza.

The applications which already had the Planning Commission's approval, have been pending for several months because of the opposition of two nearby churches.

As in previous meetings, a large delegation of Princess Anne Plaza residents were on hand Monday to voice their disapproval of the stations and shopping centers.

Lynnhaven Councilman James Darden, upon whose motion the applications were approved, said he felt the shopping centers and stations would bring money into the community and would somewhat offset the low tax rate of the predominantly residential area.

Council also extended the surging hours in all areas except from 4th to 40th Street to allow surfing from 6 p.m. to 10 a.m. The 9 a.m. deadline will remain in the tourist district between 4th and 40th. The regular surfing area between 1st and 4th Street will continue to be open at all hours.

In other action, council:

• Transferred $13,200 from an earlier appropriation for land acquisition to the Lynnhaven project for construction of levees.

• Appropriated $3,325 for the Director of Public Works for the painting and operation of the city's miniature boardwalk trains.

• Approved the withdrawal of $3,425 from the Bayside Improvement Fund for the purchase of a new truck for the Kempsville Mosquito District, which also serves Bayside.

• Honored Norfolk's request to commence water service in Ocean Park.

• Passed on second reading three appropriations: $20,000, Sanitation Department; $29,500, School Board; and $2,700, Brookings Institute.

• Approved a request from the Tidewater Coin Club allowing sale of medals of Virginia Beach's city seal.

• Appointed Mason Gamage, Charles Kiley and Clinton Tests as viewers to consider the closure of an 18-foot wide street running north and south between 75th and 76th Street about 320 feet in an easterly direction from Atlantic Avenue.

• Endorsed the Shadowline Civic League's request that building requirements in that area be increased from 1,200 to 1,500 sq. ft.

Is Robbed

LONDON BRIDGE — About $195 was taken in the armed robbery at the 7-11 Store on Coast Neck Road last Thursday about 9:45 p.m.

Police said a man entered the store and forced the night manager, Leonard M. Brown, at gunpoint, to unload the contents of the cash register into a paper bag. After this was done Brown was forced to lie down on the floor until the man made his getaway.

The man has been described as white, about 35 years old, weighing between 160 and 170 pounds, brown curly hair and fair complexion.

He was wearing a checked shirt, khaki pants and dark glasses, police said. The gun he carried was an automatic pistol "probably a .45 caliber."

Beachfront Concerts

An informal mass concert by 18 participating bands launched the 4th Annual Virginia Beach Music Festival Monday afternoon. Although much of the marching exhibitions had to be cancelled by heavy rains, sight reading and concert competitions continued. The Festival will end today with a parade at 10 a.m. and presentation of trophies tonight.

President's Council Meets

BAYSIDE — The Presidents Council of Tidewater District Federation of Women's Clubs met recently at the Portsmouth Woman's Club with the Churchland Woman's Club as hostess for the "workshop" and luncheon.

Mrs. Cam Farmer, of the Ocean Park Woman's Club, and president of the council, presided at the meeting. The opening session was devoted to the "workshop". The club women heard district project chairmen lay ground work for the new year's work.

Mrs. A. B. Willis, district community improvement chairman, reported that with the exception of 12 clubs, all Tidewater affiliates have entered their two year "Community Improvements Projects" in the district competition. Projects should be completed by February and reported to her prior to that time.

Mrs. Cam Farmer, district press book and scrap book chairman, talked on the press books and scrap books.

Mrs. R. J. Vellines, district fine arts chairman, reported revisions and clarifications made by the past state convention governing fine arts entries in club, district and state judging.

Mrs. Leroy Isbell, district crafts chairman, talked on the rules for next year's crafts competition both at club, district and state level.

Five clubs were welcomed into the council from the Eastern Shore. Mrs. Gilmer Dutton of the Young Woman's Club of Cape Charles; Mrs. S. J. Wilkins of Eastern Shore Woman's Club and Mrs. Everett Daisey, Woman's Club of Accomac County.

The Junior Woman's Club of Accomac County and Northampton County Woman's Club have also been invited to join the council.

Following the workshop a luncheon was served and the following new officers were installed by Mrs. Leroy Isbell, president: Mrs. James W. Bold, Jr., immediate past president of the Woman's Club of Portsmouth; vice president, Mrs. H. B. Slough, immediate past president of the Bayside Junior Woman's Club; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. DeWitt S. True of the Woman's Club of Churchland.

Mrs. Lory R. Amorey, district chairman of the Valley Forge Medal of Honor Grove, displayed the flag kits that many of the club are selling. All proceeds are going to the Medal of Honor Grove in Valley Forge, Pennsylvania, where each state has one acre of land and will plant trees on this acre in memory of the Medal of Honor recipients from their states. The trees will have a metal plaque on them with the man's name and rank on it. Virginia has 60 Medal of Honor winners.

Cavalier Jrs.

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Cavalier Junior Woman's Club will give a piece of equipment costing at least $800 to the Cardio Pulmonary Laboratory planned for Tidewater.

Club members voted to donate the equipment after hearing Dr. W. F. Murphy, head of the Cardio Pulmonary Laboratory Institute Committee, outline plans for the new laboratory. Volunteers from the club will also help in the Cardio Pulmonary Clinic on a regular basis.

Cavalier is the first civic organization to donate money and service to the heart facility. Efforts are continuing to raise the money needed to open a well-equipped laboratory by mid-summer.

LYNNHAVEN GC

LYNNHAVEN — The final meeting of the year for the Lynnhaven Garden Club was held at the Presbyterian Church with a covered dish picnic.

Awards were presented to Mrs. C. W. Jernigan in the advanced class and to Mrs. W. E. Smith in the Novice class. Mrs. H. Billups received the highest award in horticulture.

Blue ribbon awards for corages were presented to Mrs. Billups, Mrs. Jernigan, Mrs. W. R. Payne, Jr., Mrs. John Potter, Mrs. Dean Potter, and Mrs. Curtis Reid.

Party Line BY OLGA EDWARDS

Saturday night at the Capes was to be the opening of the Sidewalk Cafe but the weather had another idea. The rain kept the people inside but it did not dampen the fun. Frank Brown and his band surely kept the crowd dancing.

Mr. and Mrs. Wyndham Brown and Mr. and Mrs. William Haycox were celebrating their wedding anniversaries. It was the seventeenth for the Browns and fourteenth for the Haycoxs. Mr. and Mrs. Frank East, Mrs. Blanton Starbuck of Oklahoma and William Hester were the guests at this celebration.

Working on Party Line at times becomes quite amusing. In trying to get names of the people at different tables Saturday night, one man said, "You don't want the names at this table because we all are man and wife." I am not sure whether they were feeling sorry for themselves or that Party Line should be Gossip Line.

Those seen at the Capes were: Mr. and Mrs. Henry Shook, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Leach, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Eubank, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Stroud, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Morgenson, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Mundy, Mr. and Mrs. William Kiser, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Linsley, Capt. and Mrs. W. G. Boyer and Dr. and Mrs. John Lilly.

Dinner was still being served to some of the crowd, so rather than disturb them, I waited till all were through eating before taking pictures or trying to get more names. I will say the Capes certainly has a lot of out of town people but this is easily understood. The club is quite nice and everyone is so friendly.

Others seen were: Mr. and Mrs. John Wool, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Robert Crow, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Carraway, Mr. and Mrs. Jess Pison, Mrs. Cummings Grant, Wm. H. Stout of Richmond, Mr. and Mrs. R. Gormley, Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Hopkins, Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Wirth, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Mansell, Mr. and Mrs. McLain Whitfield, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Richards, Col. and Mrs. Robert Early of Hawaii, Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Deal, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Keville and Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Myers.

Leaving the Capes, curiosity took us to Seaside Park to see the Canaries. Believe me when I say the place was really packed. The Canaries will be here all summer so sneak away some night and see them. I think you will really get a kick out of listening to their music and watching the boys and girls dancing.

Alanton Homes Visited

By Mae Tippo
Sun Correspondent

VIRGINIA BEACH — A recent visit to the Alanton homes open for the Washington Cathedral tour was a satisfying one.

The garden of Mr. and Mrs. Davis on Woodhouse Road, slopes down to the bay at the widest part of this inland waterway. The garden originally was the yard of the old Woodhouse farm, property grant to Henry Woodhouse in 1637, and then owned by the McCullough's. Alanton was named for McCullough's son Allan.

In the spring the Davis garden abounds with colorful camellias, azaleas, red bud trees, dogwood and wisteria, and a tree that is 200 years old is the topic of conversation.

At the home of Mrs. P. A. Agelstro, Jr., on McCullough Lane, we were graciously received and invited to tour her lovely place. There were climbing sweethearts, camellias, pink weigela, white spirea, bridal wreath, Rosemary, mock orange, native yellow jasmine vines, burford hollies, bayberry, black pines, flowering peach trees, flowering Quince, Abella, native Myrtle, coral honeysuckle and many other fine shrubs and trees overlooking the Linkhorn Bay.

Edgewood, on Woodhouse Road, the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Emmet Kyle, is the oldest of the four gardens, having been in the making for forty years. Mrs. Kyle is a rosarian and a member of the Tidewater Rose Society, having a large collection of tea roses, floribundas, climbers and old fashion roses in the garden. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Slingluff, on their island garden at Woodhouse Roads, overs several acres. Natural trails wind along the shore. In the woods are informal gardens and fine camellias and azaleas.

CARDINAL GC

BIRDNECK — The Cardinal Garden Club of Birdneck Point held its annual luncheon on June 8th at the Bay Harbour Club. Mrs. Donald Dotless and Mrs. Gordon Potter were hostesses.

Mrs. Robert Webb and Mrs. J. A. Myers, two new members, and Mrs. Russell Gimbart, guest, were welcomed by the Club.

Mrs. Irvin J. Upson gave a very impressive reading of the Club's activities during the past year comparing them to a massive flower arrangement.

Some of the most outstanding activities were: a candy sale; participation in the Council of Garden Clubs' projects which included the beautification of the grounds of the new General Hospital of Virginia Beach and the Spring Flower Show in which the Cardinal Garden Club received honorable mention for its formal tea table; Christmas welfare; beautification projects in Birdneck Point; and a Christmas Cocktail Party.

Preceding the luncheon, Mrs. Reeves E. Johnson entertained at a sherry party at her home on Cardinal Road.

Mrs. Walter Beaman, president, announced that the Club will resume its activities in October.

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

We Welcome Our New Hospital

The Virginia Beach Sun would like to take this opportunity to welcome officially a new member of our community. When dedication ceremonies take place this Saturday afternoon, the new General Hospital of Virginia Beach will take its place in our city, and will stand as a facility of which all of us can be rightfully proud. The dedication ceremony cannot tell the whole story. As dignitaries and private citizens stand before this magnificent edifice and a few words are spoken, almost forgotten are the long hours spent in the planning and construction stages. Only the final product offers mute testimony to the efforts of the untold hundreds of persons responsible for its completion. From the architects, the contractors and the laborers to those who contributed time and money, all are important. And we wish to offer our thanks to everyone who had a hand in the successful undertaking.

First of all, the new hospital is a beautiful building. It is well designed for future expansion, which we are certain will come in the not too distant future. It is a fine addition to the scenery along First Colonial Road. Inside is housed the most modern equipment of any hospital in the area, all set in most tasteful decor. Physically it is a dream come true for Virginia Beach. But that is only a small part of the story. The services to be offered there so far exceed the old facility that it is almost beyond comprehension. An expertly capable staff has been assembled, headed by the efficient administrator, Earl Willis. And that is the important part of the story.

The new hospital is probably as much needed for the fast-growing city of Virginia Beach as any other single facility. We are glad it is finished and ready for use. The need has been evident for some time, and the speed with which a dream has been transformed into a reality bears note and accolades. At last we have a hospital of our very own capable of taking care of a large number of persons, regardless of the malady. No longer must we rely on services provided by Norfolk hospitals after a twenty mile trip. The old hospital has done an excellent job in the past. We do not mean to disregard its efforts. Unfortunately space limitations there prevented the ultimate in hospital care as we can now expect. The old hospital, however, will not be retired. It will continue to serve the community as an annex to the new building.

We are proud of our new hospital, and when Governor Harrison, the principal speaker at the dedication ceremonies, officially dedicates it, we know we will feel even more pride. We hope as many of our citizens as possible will be on hand for the ceremonies and will take advantage of the open house tours during the weekend. We believe all should see the new hospital to appreciate it fully.

The Virginia Beach Sun also wishes to thank its advertisers who have participated in this special hospital edition. Through our newspaper, they have again shown their faith in Virginia Beach. A portion of the advertising revenue in this special edition is being contributed to the hospital.

We also wish to thank the officials of the hospital for helping us with this edition, by providing interesting stories. They have been most helpful toward the publication of this edition.

Virginia Beach now has a new member of the community . . . its brand new general hospital. We welcome it and pay tribute to all who have made it possible.

How To Enjoy Paying Taxes

The title may be somewhat deceiving, but we feel that the residents of Virginia Beach should, at least, have the benefit of some interesting tax facts that have come our way. No one is ever expected to enjoy paying taxes, but perhaps the following information can ease the pain.

The city of Virginia Beach, when compared with nineteen other major cities in Virginia, has the lowest real estate tax. The tax rate on a twenty thousand dollar market value home in Virginia Beach is $164.16. The assessed value is $7,200, or 36% of actual value. The assessed tax figure stated above is computed at an average $2.28 per hundred dollar valuation. This figure has been arrived at by averaging the different tax rates in the several boroughs, ranging from $2.10 to $3.00.

Now, let's look at the other end of the scale. On the same house, the tax in Richmond is $357.20 or 95% of actual value, taxed at a rate of $1.88 per hundred dollar valuation. In Portsmouth the figure is $300.00 on the same twenty thousand dollar home. And in our neighboring city of Norfolk, the figure is $252.00.

We are glad to be able to say that Virginia Beach has the lowest average tax rate of twenty major cities in the state. Eventually we feel certain that the varying tax rates in the boroughs, necessitated by special borough debt prior to merger, will be abolished, and one rate will apply throughout the city. And when it does, we believe that Virginia Beach will still be on the bottom of the scale as far as the assessed tax is concerned.

So, for those who would complain about taxes, take a look at the cold hard facts. The real estate tax is cheaper in Virginia Beach . . . just one more reason why it's a good place to live.

Another Word Of Commendation

In this issue we have told the story of one particular Volunteer Fire Department and the many squad of Virginia Beach. We commend the Plaza Volunteers on their efforts and particularly on their growth in such a short period of time. Although we single out only one at this time, we commend all the Volunteer Fire Departments and Rescue Squads of Virginia Beach as a group. In the past four months we have been in the City, we have seen the excellent work these volunteers do. They respond to the scene of any tragedy and go to work as professionals. Their ambulance services are superior. It must be said that these men are volunteers. They do not have to do it; they do it because they want to help and they take civic pride in a job well done. Even volunteer we have met has been efficient, courteous and well-trained. They have been responsible for saving many a life in Virginia Beach.

Most of the Departments operate under a considerable handicap. First of all, it is difficult to get and keep well-trained respectable men who are willing to work odd hours after completing their regular day's work. Equipment is hard to come by. It is expensive. These men raise funds in any way they can, and are to be commended for the fine equipment they have been able to purchase. During the recent Armed Forces Day parade, anyone who saw the shiny new or old equipment of the many groups could only have two thoughts . . . security and pride.

This week we have singled out the Plaza volunteers, but we commend all of them. We hope all of you will continue to support them.

KING FOR A DAY!

King For His Day

Just a few weeks ago, we devoted space on this page to Mother on her day, so common courtesy demands that we give equal time to Dad this week to pay tribute to his day. It's probably a good thing that Dad gets his own day this time of the year. If it came any earlier or any later, he couldn't afford to give the kids enough money to buy his Father's Day gift. He'd still be paying on Christmas bills if it came earlier, or be preparing for Christmas bills if it came any later.

From personal observation in our own home, we feel that fathers are, for the most part, a lucky breed anyway. After we have spent a trying day over a hot typewriter in the office all day and arrive at home wilted and problem-ridden, it is a wonderful thing to have our two-year old scream with delight, emit a cheerful, "Hi, Daddy", and plant a wet, candy-sticky kiss on our cheek. So if we may, we'd like to say we're thankful that there is a special day on the Gregorian calendar for us fathers. We appreciate the recognition, even if we sometimes have to pay for the gifts. We appreciate the presents too, even if they happen to be bubble gum, ice cream, candy, or a loud tie we will only wear once to please the family.

Father's day is that day of the year when Mom and the kids take Dad out to eat, (and he pays the bill). And it is the day that he is awakened just a little earlier by over exuberant children who just can't wait to wish him a Happy Father's Day.

We fathers, as a group, should be happy to get up a little earlier and to pay the bill for that meal in a restaurant. Because on Father's Day, Dad is King for the day. And maybe, if the kids continue to honor us that one day, it will last all year. But even if it doesn't, it's nice to be remembered for one short day.

Here Comes Summer

Just for the record, summer arrives before we go to press again. Officially, it will make its appearance at 9:56 a.m., Eastern Standard Time, (That's 10:56 a.m., DST) June 21. Summer, of course, is traditionally the season of vacations and fun. Furthermore, it is a season that we sun-worshippers look forward to at Virginia Beach. Almost everyone eagerly awaits the summer season and welcomes it. With the advent of air conditioning just about everywhere, in the home, in the car, and in the office, as well as stores and places of entertainment, the heat is much easier to bear when one doesn't care to enjoy the summer fun in the outdoors. In short, summer is probably the happiest time of the year.

Unfortunately, that happy fun is brutally, bloodily and instantly ended for large numbers of people, simply because of careless, thoughtless and overenthusiastic practices. The dangers are varied, but many can be averted. The danger on our highways goes without saying. Congestion is common, and fun-loving drivers often do things that they should not. Drinking drivers, reckless speeders, and careless motorists abound. Adjust and adapt your driving habits accordingly and drive defensively.

Sunbathing is a happy and somnolent pleasure. But too much exposure can make vacation time a time of pain, and can cause serious injury. The hospitals do a good business with overanxious sunbathers. Take the sun in moderate doses, particularly at the beginning.

Swimming is summer's classic sport and exercise. Tragically, drownings run well into the thousands each season. Swimming alone, overestimation of ability and endurance in the water, diving into unfamiliar waters are just a few of the potentially lethal practices responsible.

The boating boom, especially here at Virginia Beach, has reached enormous proportions. Improper boat handling, overloading, failure to have the proper safety equipment aboard, a lack of knowledge of the rules of the water road, all needless hostages to fortune, take a heavy toll of health and even life.

Summer is a happy time, and it should be enjoyed to the fullest. So, have fun this summer. But be certain you know what you are doing and do it the right way . . . the safe way. We, at Virginia Beach, like to have all of our friends alive and well at the end of the summer . . .

I am sincerely grateful to the Sun for the fine publicity you have given us, and our Regent and I will continue to subscribe, and will encourage other members to take the Sun.

Clippings from your paper are shown in a prominent place in the State DAR Scrapbook, with your paper's name prominently shown. The Norfolk papers do not give us as good publicity, and I have been a subscriber since the first edition of your paper came out. Our chapter (Sarah Constant) was organized at Bayside, Princess Anne County, and a good percentage of our membership reside in the City of Virginia Beach. As you know, the Virginia Beach Chapter and the Norfolk Chapter of Red Cross will merge their activities effective on July 1st and on that date the combined chapters will become THE TIDEWATER CHAPTER. American Red Cross with offices in Norfolk and Virginia Beach. We feel sure that this combining of efforts will increase all Red Cross services to this area.

The visit of the Bloodmobile to Miller's Department Store on June 9th, was, in a way... an end and a beginning. The Bloodmobile will continue to come to this city, but will no longer be the sole responsibility of this area. In a way the reverse will also hold true as staff and volunteers from both cities will join together to make Bloodmobile visits in both cities successful.

It would be impossible to thank all the donors and the volunteers who helped on this visit. But, first on the list of THANKS must go to Richard J. Conick, Manager of Miller's who spared no effort in making space available for the Bloodmobile to set up. Conick, and all the employees who helped us with the activities necessary to the operation and the Miller's Department Store staff who gave blood all showed the kind of old-fashioned neighbor spirit that truly warms the heart.

Then we cannot forget the many efforts of Thomas Shoemaker of the Princess Anne Junior Chamber of Commerce who really went out and beat the drum for this visit and even put in a stunt on the registration desk. It would be hard for me to find the words to thank him, his fellow JC's and the Princess Anne JC's all working together to help us save lives.

I could go on and on thanking the many people in Virginia Beach who have done so much for all the Bloodmobile visits to this city since I have served as Chairman. All the many efforts of Virginia Beach doctors who have served in a volunteer capacity on Bloodmobile visits, volunteer RNs, Red Cross trained volunteers and the many donors who have taken the time to do something about the needs of others. I will have to admit there have been many ups and downs in the donor participation in this program, but one thing has remained constant... Virginia Beach people are... and always be... TOPS! Until I can find a better word for THANKS it will just have to do the job. Please extend my word of thanks to the people of Virginia Beach through the pages of the Virginia Beach Sun.

Sincerely yours,
Mrs. Lois M. Nelson,

Letter to the Open Forum

Gentlemen:

The following is in response to your Editorial of June 3, 1965:

The Editors of the Virginia Beach Sun have published their stand in favor of "LIQUOR BY THE DRINK" in LARGE PRINT. They further state that "For the most part those who are not in favor of liquor by the drink are not considering the problem as a whole. They are just not in favor of liquor." You will note that they refer to this as a "problem", and right they are. One of the greatest problems of mankind today is the liquor problem which brings moral decay, deaths on the highways, broken homes, and alcoholism—all on the increase. How could one be in favor of the evils which result from liquor? Nothing good ever comes from the consumption of this deadly enemy!

It is clearly understood that the purpose behind favoring "liquor by the drink" in Virginia Beach or anywhere is MATERIALISM. "Anything goes" that will bring more money and more people into the area who will spend it and drink the liquor provided for them anywhere they wish to stop and consume it.

What an example of Christian Leadership this would be! — To sacrifice the ideals, and possibly the lives, of our children for another dollar added to the Treasury of our State and pockets of its patrons. It makes little difference whether the Editors of this paper do or do not drink "AT ALL", as they stated. This is a decision each individual makes for himself. What does matter is that we as leaders, parents and citizens have a responsibility to God and Others for the example and influence we project. What a marvelous opportunity our Editors have to speak out for Christian ideals and principles, and for legislation that would strengthen, uphold and protect our citizens and restore confidence in our WAY OF LIFE that so many have died for and are still dying for everyday. May God give us the courage to stand up and fight for "GOOD TO OVERCOME EVIL."

Mrs. Robert F. Pittman, Jr.
ED. NOTE:
To your last statement, may we add, "Amen." But we still

Heartbreaking story of adopted daughter wins wide response

The invocation was given by the Rev. H. Wadell Waters, followed by the welcome by the class Salutatorian, Paul deWitt, Jr. whose address, "Pursuit of Real Happiness," said in part, "With twelve years of schooling behind us, we must utilize our education to the best advantage by helping the world, our country, our religion, our fellowman, our families, and ourselves. And when we have done our best to improve the world, then and only then will we find true happiness."

Valedictorian Marian Lyndb Costenbader gave the valedictory address, "The Challenge to Us as Graduates" in which she observed, "Life is played with a basketball, judged not by how many baskets we make but by how many fouls we miss. This world needs us; we must use our education, our character, and our self-discipline to obtain our goal. Only time will tell, but the class of 1965 accepts its challenge."

Accustomed and almost calloused to tragedy, suffering, and death, the American reading public has found rare tenderness and faith in Dale Evans Rogers' latest book, DEAREST DEBBIE, and responded to it in a decisive way. 100,000 copies are now in print of this story that has touched the heart of America. DEAREST DEBBIE is the account of the life and death of the greatest Korean-Pacific War orphan adopted into the Rogers family and so tragically taken from them after nine joyous years.

Sway Pole Expert At Seaside Park

VIRGINIA BEACH — There may be a lot of fakes in show business, but there is no way to fake the hazardous routine of the aerialist, the high wire performer or the acrobat who works at the peak of a 100-foot swaying pole.

The newspapers are full of accounts of tragic deaths and serious injuries that occur to these people whose work leaves them no margin for mistakes. Such a person is Jimmy Shannon, the young Irish sway pole expert, who opens the Seaside Amusement Park schedule of free circus acts at Virginia Beach this week.

Shannon works at the top of a pole the equivalent in height of a 10-story building. He balances on his hand, hangs by one toe, and flings himself into an exaggerated and terrifying orbit on an extension from the alarming swaying pole.

He does it not once, but twice a day, and the free act may be seen at 2:30 and 10 p.m. through Sunday.

For those who like their action a little closer to ground level, there is plenty of it in the Seaside Park - Ballroom, where the newest sensation to reach these shores from the Old World — The Canaries of Spain — are playing their first American engagement. These four boys, who are to their country what the Beatles are to England, provide music for dancing — and do a wild show of their own — every night and during the Saturday and Sunday jam sessions that start in the morning and continue through to closing.

Admission to Seaside Park is free.

In doubles Yates and Braithwaite (PA) over Spindle and Barron (N) 4-6, 6-2, 6-1; Kelly and Heidi (N) over Davis and Stormont 7-5, 3-6, 8-6; and Snodgrass and Jordan (PA) over Dougan and Johnston 6-1, 6-3.

BASKIN IN THE SUN

By GORDON BASKIN

Think about the strange fact that there are men in the world who do not like to work — or for — a bunch of dames. Cause that is what really happens if you're working with females. You can't really boss them. You just sort of head them in a certain direction and encourage them, and they really go.

I've heard men on the subject for the last several million years, and they say they wouldn't work with women for triple the money. You know what's wrong with these men? They're sick.

Having spent the nicest years of my life working with women, I will herewith testify that they beat men 8000 to one, and I ain't talking about their obvious charm and physical advantages over males, I'm talking about the fact that they know how to get a job done with a minimum of wasted motion.

Sure, they smell better, are softer, look better, walk prettier, talk softer, and have prettier legs, but they have something else too.

Best of all, they don't get all jammed up with a lot of silly conversation when there is a job to be done. They don't argue about committees and sub-committees and pull out Robert's Rules of Order. They just get the heck on with the job.

They don't lose sight of the main idea, and they have a great habit of keeping first things first. In spite of folk-lore to the contrary, they don't talk about people nearly as much as a bunch of hairy males.

Anyone who has ever been to a convention and watched a herd of males slap each other on the back while reading names off large name tags knows what I mean. A group of males in a situation like this is enough to cause a man who likes gals to head for the nearest monastery. Guess that's why I belong to no organization that is completely male in membership. I wouldn't be caught dead in an outfit that didn't have a few females. I even liked the Army better when they let those WACs in, and that's saying a lot, 'cause that Army really bugged me.

But I might as well be fair about it. I suspect that I have been raised by, and surrounded by, a pretty spectacular bunch of females to feel like I do. I guess there are a few women in this world who are not with it, but I've only met one who really turned me off.

When you consider that I have reached a great age, this is a pretty good average. One wrong number out of a very large number of gals who really turn me on.

Yes sir, they are the greatest. You want the world made a better place in which to live? Want a better government? Want better roads? Want anything that needs to be upgraded? Know how to get it done? Let me run it, but only if you'll let me pick my workers. Won't be a man in the group, no matter how large a force is required. Listen, friends, I can pick four dames and do most anything you want done. Don't think so? Got a job that counts? Nothing trivial, please. Trivial jobs are for males. If you've got one that you don't think can be done, try me and a few females. They're winners.

PLAZA CHURCH GROWING FAST

LYNNHAVEN — The City of Virginia Beach is now enjoying a rapid growth in population. The Princess Anne Plaza Baptist Church is probably the fastest growing church in this large resort city.

On May 23, the Plaza Baptist Church observed her second year anniversary as a church, with a special program which included dinner on the grounds. More than 400 people attended.

The church started as a mission in December of 1961. The church has a membership of 465 and a Sunday school enrollment of 950. The church, located on six acres of land on Rosemont Road, has already erected two buildings and plans are being made for a third building, to care for the rapid growth. An average of eight join Sunday School every Sunday with nearly five hundred in average attendance each week.

The Church, under the leadership of the pastor, Rev. Melvin J. Hughes, maintains a vigorous program of Christian training for both adults and youth. Activities for the youth include camping and hiking.

There is a graded choir program, which has four choirs. The church is a member of the Southern Baptist Convention.

Elks Celebrate U.S. Flag Day

VIRGINIA BEACH — "It is fitting that we should gather here together on Flag Day, so close to the site where our native land began."

These were the words of the Hon. Judge Richard B. Kellan that set the tone for the Virginia Beach Elks' Lodge Flag Day program Sunday afternoon.

"Before the ships left England for Plymouth, they decided to name this area Virginia," he said. "Virginia gave the country the first four of the five Presidents. We can't live on what is past but we can be proud of it. There is no judge of the future save the past itself."

The Elks originated Flag Day in the United States. The celebration was well attended and onlookers filled the boardwalk area in front of the Elks Lodge to watch the colorful ceremonies and hear the speakers explain the meanings of the flag.

The Star Spangled Banner opened the affair, played by the Navy Band, then came the introductory exercise, a prayer led by Chaplain Frank Butler and "Columbia, Gem of the Ocean."

The history of the American flag was given in a dramatic reading by Ted Beasley. The American Legion presented the Pine Tree Flag to the accompaniment of "Yankee Doodle," and other flags and their bearings: The Snake Flag, American Legion; the Continental Flag of St. Andrew, the Veterans of Foreign Wars; The Congress Colors (Betsy Ross Flag), the naval Amphibious Base; the Congress Flag, (Second Flag Act), the U.S. Army, Fort Story, Va.; and the Fifty Star American Flag, the U.S. Marine Corps.

The Exalted Ruler's tribute to the flag was given by John J. Shand, the pledge was sung by the Elks' Chorus and the solo, "God Bless America" was sung.

A floral bell of liberty was built by officers and members. These flowers symbolized lofty thoughts and ideals. They included roses, symbolizing charity, devotion and courage; lilies, symbolizing purity and truth, and violets, symbolizing justice and brotherly love.

Eleven bells were sounded in remembrance of all those who have been loyal to America and her fight for freedom.

The concluding number was "America, the Beautiful," by the Elks' Chorus and baritone solo by J. Aubrey. A social hour was held after the ceremonies.

PRINCESS ANNE PLAZA VOLUNTEER FIRE DEPARTMENT

The Princess Anne Plaza Volunteer Fire Department, serving one of the city's most populated areas, will soon launch its annual fund-raising drive. The proceeds collected will be used to purchase much needed equipment for the department. . . no funds will go to the well-trained firemen. They are all volunteers, giving their time and energies in serving their community.

Now three years old, the department has mushroomed with the population of Princess Anne Plaza, now boasting a membership of 50 volunteers, a firehouse, two fire trucks, a salvage and rescue truck and, the latest addition, a brand new ambulance.

Back of the fire department are the women of the community, the Ladies Auxiliary to the Fire Company, who devote untold hours on fund-raising projects. The first fire truck was purchased with money derived from their cake sales, raffles, socials and other projects. And a large portion of the purchase price for the firehouse site came from the Auxiliary.

The success of the Plaza Fire Department is the result of a community pulling together, of neighbors working with neighbors, of families sacrificing precious time together in volunteer work for the department, of many people striving toward one common goal — the protection and safety of the homes in Princess Anne Plaza.

Elected to head this thriving group of volunteers are the following officers: Bob Bottom, president; Jim Hundley Sr., vice president; Bob Kirkland, secretary-treasurer; Fred Stoll, corresponding secretary; Brice Todd, fire chief; Al LeBlanc, first assistant fire chief; Robert Yon, second assistant; and Roger Hempel, third assistant. The board is composed of LeBlanc, Yon, Bob Myers, Bill Noble, Arnold Pederson, Jack Sergeant, Bill Mayo and Loren Luky.

Since many new neighbors are moving into Princess Anne Plaza daily, the following information on the department's volunteers may better acquaint them with the dedicated men who serve their community.

Harold A. Armstrong, 3576 Boyd Road, captain and first-aid instructor for the department; and electrician with the Hampton Roads Tunnel; married and father of four children. TEXACO HOME DECORATIONS Particularly applicable to modern or contemporary decor, this graceful, all polished brass, air sight fixture features sweeping arms with gracefully designed connecting bars culminating in a smartly designed lamp holder.

Satin beige shades, pierced with tiny holes grouped in the shape of stars with amber and red inserts behind them, lend considerably to the charm of the unit. A separate lens at the bottom of each shade shields the bare lamp from the eyes of those seated beneath the chandelier.

The fixture uses six incandescent lamps that can be up to 60 watt size. It has a spread of 24 1/2 inches and its brass chain allows a drop from the ceiling to a maximum length of 41 1/2 inches.

There are 5,174 reasons for buying a PEUGEOT

Every Peugeot built undergoes 5,174 separate inspection procedures before it is cleared for shipment from the factory. Inspection tests of new materials, hardened tests of individual parts. Meticulous control of mechanical parts. Rejection of forged and cast parts because of moving parts. Operational tests of component assemblies. Peugeot doesn't construct a thing, from assembling at children as a toy to inspection, the final inspection in every Peugeot is checked before and after assembly. This attention to detail is one of the reasons Peugeot has been rated one of the world's best made cars in the world by Auto, Road, and Driver of Road & Track.

You don't have to take a Peugeot apart to judge its value. Drive it. You'll discover a remarkably responsive engine, 4-speed synchromesh transmission and 1500 worth of "torque" that don't cost a penny extra. Like a solid steel sliding sunroof, stainless steel wheel covers and trim, reclining seats, safety-proof Michelin X tires and many others.

If your present car measures up to Peugeot, don't change. If you have doubts, resolve them in a Peugeot 401, 404 or 404 Station Wagon. Even the price will surprise you.

Civic Chorus Officers Set

VIRGINIA BEACH — New officers for the Virginia Beach Civic Chorus were installed Friday evening at the Elks Lodge by Bill Kellam, candidate for the State Senate.

About 50 people attended the ceremonies and buffet dinner which featured entertainment.

New officers are: John Steel, president; William Utley, vice-president; Elizabeth Lockwood, treasurer; Ann Bragg, secretary; Karla Beasley, librarian.

New directors, who serve on the executive board along with the officers, are: Lee Chambers, Esther Hutcherson, Frank Ferrigno and Mildred Demkowicz. Charles Oliver is the permanent musical director of the chorus.

Kellam began the installation service by saying, "People in most communities are surprised at fresh revelations of talent lying next door to them until somebody develops it."

He praised the significant contributions the Virginia Beach Civic Chorus is making to the cultural and artistic life of the community. The new officers were charged to work hard during the coming year and keep up the excellent work which has been evident in recent years.

Humorous remarks were directed to the new officers by the senatorial candidate in an informal ceremony.

He reminded the chorus that their leadership could be only what the members want it to be.

Following the installation, the outgoing president, Lee Chambers, was presented with an en-

"The Loud Red Patrick," the hilarious story of an Irish widower caught between the wishes of four young daughters, has entered its final two weeks of production at the Wedgewood Dinner-Theatre, located eight miles west of Williamsburg on Highway 60.

Rehearsals for the forthcoming show, "Two For The Seesaw," according to director Paul Iddings, are progressing on schedule.

A two-character play, starring Timothy L. Jones and Claudine Iddings, "Two For The Seesaw" tells the gripping and funny story of a love affair between a divorced mid-western lawyer and a divorced Greenwich Village beatnik dancer.

The play starred Henry Fonda and Anne Bancroft on Broadway, and Miss Bancroft was the New York Drama Critics Award as best actress of the year for her performance.

"Two For The Seesaw" is written by the author of "The Miracle Worker," which the Wedgewood Dinner-Theatre produced during its first season of operation, in which Claudine Iddings also performed the lead role.

Mrs. Iddings last appeared as a female fatale in "Mary, Mary," which broke all previous box office records at Wedgewood.

"Two For The Seesaw" is scheduled to open for a four-week run, beginning June 28.

Wedgewood is newly air-conditioned and offers Saturday afternoon matinees with buffet luncheon served at 12:30 p.m. Evening dinner is served at 7:00.

MEET SLATED FOR GAME COMMISSION

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Virginia Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries is slated to meet June 19 at the American Inn beginning at 9:30 a.m.

Individuals and groups having matters for Commission consideration will be given an opportunity to speak.

The main business will be approval of the budget for the 1966-68 biennium. The Commission will also take final action on a proposal to prohibit the hunting of deer with dogs in Fairfax County and a proposal to close the recently stocked J. W. Flanagan Reservoir in Dickenson County to fishing.

In the 1890's the Custom House was the pride of Norfolk.

Then H. D. Oliver had been serving the community for more than 30 years.

This beautiful building, built in 1859, housed the federal government offices in the city. Norfolk was proud of the building's classic beauty. In those years H. D. Oliver served the community by providing respected and dignified funeral and burial services. Just as the old Custom House has remained a part of Norfolk, so has H. D. Oliver, providing generations of Virginians with detailed handling of all their needs. Modern facilities, including a new home at Virginia Beach and an experienced staff assure you of the finest care.

BIKINI AND BATHING SUITS race down the beach to where the boys are, in "The Girls On The Beach," a Paramount release opening Wednesday at the Princess theatre. It's a swinging, dancing, surfing, musical go-go when the girls get the boys to help straighten out a security house mother's mistake in "The Girls On The Beach," starring Norreen Corcoran, Martin West, Linda Marshall, Steven Rogers, Anne Cori and Anna Kincaid. Featured are Nancy Gray (Miss Teen USA), "The Crickets" and The Beach Boys with Lesley Gore, Harvey Jacobson produced and William R. Whitney directed.

'GIRLS ON THE BEACH' AT PRINCESS WED.

"It's My Party" girl, Lesley Gore joins the jet-set, surfing action troupe of "The Girls On The Beach," a Paramount release in sun-loving color, which opens Wednesday at the Princess Theatre.

The story of Lesley Gore's swift rise to fame might well have been taken out of a fairy-princess fable, set to a modern setting of sprawling oak trees and spacious lawns in the suburb of Tenafly, New Jersey. In April of 1963, the strawberry-blond "princess of song" was a serious student at Dwight School for Girls in Englewood, New Jersey. One month later, Lesley had skyrocketed to national fame as the sensational new singing star, whose "It's My Party" introduced the budding young talent on the airwaves of the nation.

It all really began when Lesley sang several songs at her best friend's "sweet sixteen" birthday celebration in early 1963. Lesley, was sixteen, too, and sang the tunes with a talent and vitality that brought the guests to their feet with applause. Someone suggested she cut a dub of one of the tunes and send it to a recording company. Within a few days a waxing was made and Lesley's father suggested his good friend, Joe Glaser, head of Associated Booking Corporation, listen to the dub. Glaser recognized a spark of talent and the dub was mailed to Chicago, directed to the attention of Irving Green, President of the Mercury Record Corporation. After one listen, executives spotted the young warbler as a fresh, exciting talent, and the 16-year-old was immediately pacted to an exclusive recording contract. On

'King Of Road' In Two Shows

VIRGINIA BEACH — Winner of more GRAMMY awards than any other musical performer in history... voted last year the top New Star of 1964 in both the Country and Pop music fields... headlined guest on such shows as The Tonight Show, Steve Allen Show, Merv Griffin Show, Tennessee Ernie Ford Show, Andy Williams Show and Jimmy Dean Show... current owner of the top spot of the Country Chart and in the top 10 on the Pop Chart with his "Engine, Engine No. 9"! His name... Roger Miller, of course!

There are times when his fans are uncertain whether his multi-talented Roger Miller is first a comedian, first a singer, first an impressive songwriter, or an accomplished musician. As Roger puts it: "I'm a fiddle player turned writer; turned singer, turned comedian." His ability seems unlimited in all four areas.

Tall slender and boyish, with an infectious laugh and a twinkle in his eye, Roger makes shambles out of an interviewer who questions him about his past, his likes and dislikes. Ask him where he was born and he will reply with deadpan seriousness, "My parents were so poor, I was made in Japan."

On Education... "The U.S. Army was my college education... Korea Clash of '62."

Pacted to an exclusive recording contract with Smash Records, in February, 1964, Roger has been waxing his heretofore, untapped musical and comedy talents on such hit single records as "Dang Me," "Chug-A-Lug," "King of the Road," and a big-selling debut album entitled "Roger and Out," and a second entitled "The Return of Roger Miller."

The fantastic Roger Miller with his complete show and cast will invade Virginia Beach Sunday, June 20th, for two performances at the Convention Dome, 2 and 8 p.m. Advance tickets for the shows being produced by WCMS-Radio Ranch are currently in all Peoples Drug Stores and at the Convention Dome ticket office.

Norfolk Boy Wins First Weekly 'Hoet'

VIRGINIA BEACH — William Hugh Tenme, 18, of Norfolk has won the first weekly contest in the Virginia Beach Hootenanny Festival, sponsored by The Shadows of Virginia Beach.

Bill, son of Captain and Mrs. Robert L. Tenme, USN, 525 Duck Pond Road, was adjudged top artist in the competition by the Phoenix Singers from among ten folk acts participating. He received a season's pass to The Shadows and the chance to compete in the monthly and grand final contests for the top prize of a two-week engagement at Washington's folk-centre, The Cellar Door and a recording audition with Roulette Records in New York City.

A 1965 graduate of Maury High School, Bill is no stranger to the folk scene, having won several local competitions on the high-school level. "I was inspired by folk-great, Pete Seeger," says Bill, "and I learned to play the guitar from a friend." Bill plans to attend Richmond Professional Institute in the fall, majoring in drama.

Locals Jim Stanley of Norfolk and Ken White of Virginia Beach, capture first and second runners-up honors, respectively. They, as well as the other participants, are eligible to re-enter future weekly competitions until they win.

The Festival continues every Monday evening at The Shadows. Amateur folk entertainers are invited to enter and should contact The Shadows at 16th and Atlantic, or call 428-5695.

Canaries Sing Here Tomorrow

VIRGINIA BEACH — Spain's most popular nightclub attraction, the Canaries, will perform at the Seaside Amusement Park Ballroom beginning Friday night at 8:30 for nightly dancing and jam sessions each Saturday and Sunday at 11 a.m.

Their extended engagement will follow their arrival today at 1:48 p.m. at Norfolk Airport. Hundreds of fans are expected to meet the singing group and Seaside Amusement Park will distribute 1,500 free ride tickets to all fans who turn out for the Canaries' arrival.

Dudley Cooper, the amusement park owner, discovered the singing group last winter while scouting for new talent and amusements in Europe.

Cooper, who first saw the Canaries in one of Seville, Spain's leading night clubs, was impressed with the fact that the four-man group played both Spanish and American tunes to the modern beat of today's popular music.

He noticed that the very proper and staid Spanish audience gave the group a roar of applause at the end of each number. Cooper conceived the idea of bringing the group to the United States because of the sensational response the Canaries received throughout Europe and South America.

Their compositions have received international attention and Cooper has been contacted by Ed Sullivan's representatives to arrange for an audition. Several record companies are bidding for the rights to their music and arrangements are being made for their appearance on national television.

The Canaries derive their name from the fact that their home is the Canary Islands, Spain. Each member of the group is a composer as well as a musician; and they have a repertoire of 20 original numbers they will soon record in America.

The Canaries were special guests of the original Shadows, popular London entertainers. The Shadows, who preceded the Beatles, were the top group of their kind and created the original "Liverpool" or Beatle sound. They predicted that the Canaries would soon be Spain's Canaries were taking the Liver-

Summer Jobs

NORFOLK — There will be plenty of jobs this summer for girls just out of high school or home from college on vacation, according to Joe Norton, manager of the Norfolk office of Manpower, Inc., international temporary help service.

"Business firms need replacements for vacationing personnel. Many of the women ordinarily available for temporary work must stay home with their children during the summer," Joe Norton said. "This means that they're out of the labor market just when they're most needed."

Joe Norton said that Manpower currently is conducting a recruiting program to line up qualified girls for summer assignments. The minimum age is 18.

Girls seeking work as typists or stenographers are given tests to determine what type of assignments they're capable of handling, he said. Jobs for those without office skills include survey work.

"Many firms will accept inexperienced people if they are seriously interested in working. Temporary help services like Manpower fit the girl to the job so that she has every opportunity to work at her highest level of capability," he said.

HOW TO FURNISH A BRAND NEW KITCHEN

"What's cooking?" is a question that need never face a bride — if she has the basic kitchen equipment to turn out delicious meals.

However, lots of women — new brides, brides-to-be, and their gift-giving sisters, cousins, aunts and friends — get the listers at the thought of furnishing a bare new kitchen. And no wonder!

It's great fun and a great opportunity to be able to start from scratch — but it's also a bit scary. Some kitchen items can be skipped entirely for now — others, the bride will need two or three of, in varying sizes. How do you know which are which? And even if you can get a good basic list of kitchen furnishings, most items are available in a dazzling array of different materials. Which ones will make a new cook glow — not glower?

CHOOSING COOKWARE MATERIALS

Cooks who really know what's cooking say that if all pots and pans are made of the same material, it's much easier to judge cooking times — and to avoid giving the poor groom a raw deal or a tough break on the veal cutlets or liver-and-bacon.

When choosing the basic material for a cookware "wardrobe" ask yourself these questions: Is it a good heat conductor? Is it easy to keep clean — particularly for a new homemaker who may also be a working wife? Is it good-looking enough to be brought proudly to the table when you entertain? And will it keep its gleaming good looks without breaking, chipping, denting, pitting, rusting or darkening?

Stainless steel, as many homemakers already know, requires about the least upkeep of any common kitchen metal. It is easy to clean with soda-and-water treatment, needs no polishing. Its resistance to denting and pitting makes it both durable and sanitary. Stainless utensils often have copper-clad or aluminum-clad bottoms to furnish the even heating needed for top-of-the-range cooking... or copper or carbon steel is "sandwiched" between layers of stainless.

There are many other varieties of cookware from which to choose, but they have these shortcomings:

Non-stick coatings are applied to various materials and are handy for easy clean-up in certain kinds of cookware (such as casseroles). However, some foods like cakes — actually stick to these coated utensils. Special care must be taken not to scratch the surface, and all such coatings will wear out in time.

Copper is the best heat conductor of all metals. However, copper utensils must be lined to prevent corrosion, and the outside surfaces of copperware require special care to keep them bright and shiny.

Aluminum is lightweight and second to copper in heat conductivity. A disadvantage of aluminum is that it pits and discolors during use, requiring additional work to keep it bright.

Cast iron is durable, heats evenly and holds heat well. It is heavy and porous and will rust if not cared for properly.

Glass cookware is available for both top-of-the-range and oven cooking. Glass absorbs and holds heat well, but will break if carelessly handled.

HAVE YOU GOT A LITTLE LIST?

Whatever kind of cookware material the bride favors, she'll need the same basic equipment. Here's a checklist that can be helpful when shopping. The wise bride will also show it to her friends — so she'll avoid being "showered" with too many casserole dishes — and no saucepans at all!

Saucepans and their uses — Saucepan (1-quart) — vegetables, soups, stances, hot cereals, puddings.

Saucepan (2-quart) — same as above — larger amounts. Saucepan (3-quart) — deep cooking, meats cooked in small pot roasts. Skillet (2 or 3 quart) — meats not cooked over heat, such as cake batters, soups, melted cheese dishes.

Skillet (8 inch) — eggs, bacon, sausage, hamburger (egg poacher inset optional)

Skillet (12-inch) — pancakes, pan-broiled meats, fried potatoes

Dutch oven (5-8 quarts) — pot roasts, stews, spaghetti, large quantity of any foods

Pressure cooker — pot roasts, stews, some vegetables, and homemade soups. Anything which otherwise requires long cooking time.

Roasting pan and rack — large and small roasts and poultry

Kitchen tool set — serving, stirring, turning foods. Usual set includes spoon, pierced spoon, fork, narrow spatula, pancake turner, soup and gravy ladle.

Kitchen knives "Basic Five" — utility knife, paring knife, narrow slicer, chef's knife, serrated knife: stainless steel knives, the most popular kind, don't stain or tarnish from food acids, hold their sharp edge longer.

Measuring spoons — ¼ teaspoon, ½ teaspoon, teaspoon, tablespoon

Measuring cups — ¼ cup, ½ cup, 1 cup, 2 cup (or marked glass measuring cup)

Mixing bowls — cake or cookie batter, stuffing, any mixing needs

Colander — draining spaghetti, noodles, rice, salad greens

Grater — grating cheese, onions, lemon peel, cabbage for cole slaw

Meat thermometer — roasting meat, poultry "to a turn"

Covered casserole dish — macaroni and cheese, all casserole dishes, meat loaf; doubles as vegetable serving dish

Baking or cookie sheet — cookies, biscuits, pizza, rolls — ready-to-bake and frozen as well as homemade

Tea kettle — tea, instant coffee, bouillon, and boiling water for various uses

Coffeemaker 4-cup (electric or top-of-stove) — daily use (1 or 2 coffee drinkers)

Coffeemaker 12-cup (electric) — larger amounts, company. Stainless is a good idea on two counts: its easy cleanability helps insure perfect coffee, and its gleaming good looks have "company manners"

Toaster — toasting bread, English muffins

Can opener (electric or wall model) — the housewife's friend

Electric skillet, Rotisserie (conventional or open smokeless), mixer, electric knife, sharpener, waffle iron, blender, pie pans, cake pans, muffin pans, food chopper, and tea strainer.

What kind of cooking equipment is best calculated to put a gleam in the bride's eye? Cooking is easier if all pots and pans are of the same material, experienced cooks advise; many modern brides tell their friends of their preference for durable, easy-care and handsome stainless steel.

If you furnish a brand-new kitchen with the aid of this list, you're bound to be a beautifully equipped as well as a beautiful bride — or a highly popular gift-giver! To maintain your stainless reputation for uncommon kitchen sense, however, there's one other item you should consider: Both bride and groom will bless the day she acquired a good, encyclopedia-type cookbook.

STRONG CHURCHES...

make STRONG COMMUNITIES

It is no accident that men, the world over, have built clocks into the steeples of their churches. . . .

Reckon life to its simplest components and what have you? TIME and GOD. Time marks the beginning of life. It measures the growth of our bodies. It provides opportunity for our work and play. It reveals to us our human limitations. And then, one day, Time leaves us behind. . . .

But God is the origin of life. He measures the growth of our souls. He provides our strength and forgives our weakness. He reveals to us His limitless Love. And, never desiring to leave us behind, God becomes us on — even beyond the circle of time. . . .

A parable then: the clock in the steeple! Man finds material security and temporal happiness as he learns to respect Time. Man finds spiritual security and eternal happiness as he learns to love God!

NEW INSECTICIDE IS SAFER

VIRGINIA BEACH — A new-type, safer-to-use insecticide is now available for use on shade trees and ornamental plants, according to information released by Aldridge and Chambers, Inc., Virginia Beach ex-terminators. Sevin carbaryl insecticide, a carbamate compound that is different from chlorinated hydrocarbons or phosphate materials, is registered by the U.S.D.A. for control of insects that attack shade trees, plants and flowers, fruits, and vegetables in home gardens. This pesticide is registered for use on more than 90 different crops to control over 160 pests.

"Sevin offers wider margins of safety for the user and his neighbors," reports Lee E. Chambers of the Aldridge and Chambers firm. "Tests show it is less hazardous to humans, livestock, pets and fish than many other commercial pesticides. In fact, research indicated Sevin is 200 times less toxic to goldfish than DDT."

Some insects affecting home property that are controlled by Sevin include elm leaf beetle,
Japanese beetle, boxelder bug, tent caterpillar, soft scale insects, bagworms, and birch leaf miner. Mr. Chambers pointed out that this safer-to-use material is also very effective in stopping lawn chinch bugs and other insects that attack lawns. Chinch bugs harass homeowners and groundskeepers in summer by severely damaging lawns, golf courses, parks and other grassy areas.

Recent registration by U.S.D.A. allows Sevin to be used by pest control operators in controlling cockroaches, an-tis, earwigs and millipedes in and around homes, apartments, hotels, restaurants, institutions, food processing plants and farm buildings (except dairy barns) and in municipal and recreation areas.

Sevin has been found to be highly effective as a spray or dust to control northern fowl mite, chicken mite, lice and fleas on chickens, turkeys, ducks, geese, game birds and pigeons.
It may also be used for control of ticks, lice, fleas and horn flies and suppression of stable flies on beef cattle, horses, sheep and hogs.

"This newer compound will relieve the worry of some homeowners about the safety of in-secticides applied to control harmful pests in urban areas," Mr. Chambers stated. "Some cities — such as Sacramento, California, and states — New York, for one — have used Sevin successfully in insect eradication programs without harm to humans, wildlife, pets or fish."

"However," cautions Mr.
Chambers, "before using any pesticide, STOP AND READ THE LABEL! Then be sure to follow directions carefully."

Notes from Your Agricultural Agent

By E. R. "DICK" COCKRELL, JR.

A summer vacation is as important to house plants as it is to the homeowner. But to get a really restful summer, plants need to travel only as far as your garden. The outdoor life during summer gives house plants a chance to relax in the fresh air, sunshine, and rainfall. By autumn they will be in good condition to survive the winter indoors.

Indoors or out, plants still must have a certain amount of care. Here are some vacation recommendations for house plants. The time to set house plants in the garden is mid-spring when the sun is warming air and earth, and it is fairly certain that warmth is here to stay. First of the preliminary steps is to discard plants no longer useful, including those which have overgrown the space they occupy and are beyond salvation by pruning. Surgery will help other plants to regain symmetry or to keep them compact. If the plant is rootbound an increased more growing room, it must be given a larger pot in which to expand.

Before the pots are set outside, inspect them for insects. As a precaution, lay the plants on the side and squirt water and insecticide solution on the under side of the leaves.

Select a garden area for the pots ahead of time. For convenience, group plants in a bed which provides a variety of conditions; full sun for cacti, succulents, amaryllis, and geraniums; partial shade for azaleas, Christmas cactus, and orchid cactus; and full shade for foliage plants in general. The location might be near a high-headed tree or shrub whose foliage is not too dense, or close to a building. If one location fails to provide all conditions, scatter the plants in garden borders.

The plants will not need frequent watering if pots are set in the ground or bed prepared with peat moss or sand. Set the pots just deep enough so the rim shows above the soil. Surround the base with cinders or gravel for drainage. Plants should be set so they will not root over pot rims or through drainage holes. Give the pots an occasional half turn to prevent the plants growing in one direction — toward the sun. During a long, dry period plants must be watered, but normal rainfall will keep them moist enough. A thriving plant will probably require fertilizer during the summer. Use a liquid or dry plant food, and follow manufacturer's directions.

A normal house plant needs nothing more for a healthful vacation than the great outdoors. Try these practices with your plants and see how they thrive.

Going Steady With Boy In Army

THIS WEEK'S LETTER: "I like a boy who is 18 and in the Army. He's home for two weeks and I see him a lot. He comes to our school every day during lunch time just to see me. He brought me home one afternoon and we've been riding around a lot. My parents found out and were very angry with me. I guess I should have told them, but they disapprove. This boy says he likes me and wants me to go steady and wait for him two years. I like him an awful lot but I know my parents won't allow this. What should I do? I am 15 years old."

OUR REPLY: You are, at 15 years, too young to agree to going "steady" with any boy, even if your parents did approve. Even when you are older by two or three years, you would be unwise to go "steady" with a boy who is in service and will be away. If you had been going steady, for some time, with a boy who enters the service, and you continue to go steady, this is one thing. But, meeting a boy who is just home for a few days and deciding to go steady, is something else. You can't go steady with someone hundreds of miles away. You just don't go with anyone while the boy is away.

You should have talked with your parents. You should do so now. You will be under their guidance and direction — and subject to their authority for some time yet. Life will be more pleasant for one and all if you seek their counsel and follow their wishes.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an absorbing story, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, COMMUNITY AND YOUTH CENTER, 1100 S. 1ST ST., FRANKFORT, KY.

Wardrobe Building

For about 16 hours every day you are on exhibit for others to see. One of the big joys of living is that of feeling good or at ease in your clothes. When your clothes are appropriate, adequate, and attractive, you are helped to meet each day with confidence and poise.

In planning your wardrobe you must be realistic about what you can and cannot wear. You must know what to avoid and what to choose from the season's fashions to make you look your best.

METHODS FOR BUILDING YOUR WARDROBE

- Build the wardrobe around basic garments—coats, costumes, suits, dresses, or even separates.
- Build around basic accessories that go together in design, color, and texture, and then add the needed garments.

HOW DO YOU START BUILDING A WARDROBE?

Use what you can of the clothes in your closet and add what you need of the new. Your wardrobe for any season divides into the clothes in your closet and the new ones that you buy. You buy what is needed to pull the old and new together to provide clothes that are attractive.

TO DETERMINE WHAT TO BUY, CHECK THESE ITEMS:

- PLAN — Base your plan on: What you do and where you go. Your wardrobe needs to fit your way of living. This includes the thing you do at home and in community groups, the places you go frequently and infrequently, local customs, and special social activities.
- COST — How much do you have to spend on clothing for the season? If you have little money to spend, shop for basic clothing with lasting qualities and versatile use. Whether you buy or make your clothing, resist unsuitable bargains. If the bargain fits into your plan, then and only then is it a bargain. Do you sew? If you can make some of your clothes, your money will go further. Will you have added cost for care of the garment or can you care for it at home?
- COLOR — Even with unlimited money to spend, a haphazard collection of clothes without a color plan will fill your closets and leave you with nothing to wear — nothing that will present a thoughtful and attractive appearance.
- DESIGN — A basic garment does not have to be dull or uninteresting. A design with simple lines, yet interesting for you, is the keynote of a satisfactory basic style. It expresses your type of personality and has the right lines for your figure problems. A basic design is flexible, so it may be adapted to many uses with changes of accessories. It should be functional for whatever activity arises.
- ACCESSORIES — It's the little things that count. The extras you add to your wardrobe lend variety, accent, and color. You can make a basic dress look interesting season after season if you change the way you wear it.
- CARE — The well-groomed wardrobe is one which has proper care. The secret is to have what you need fresh and ready to wear when you need it.
- RESULTS — The wardrobe that is planned, not at all once but thoughtfully and consistently, gives enjoyment in the knowledge that you have the right clothes for your activities. A ready wardrobe for an occasion allows freedom for participation in unexpected occasions.

I will restore health unto thee. — (Jer. 30:17).

If we seek it in earnest prayer God's radiant life will fill us through and through and help to heal the ills that may befall us. By acknowledging that He is the Spirit of health and perfection we can more easily put aside any ideas that disease cannot be cured.

It's Fun To Cook

By LUCILE CLARK

Virginia Beach SUN Food Editor

June is Dairy Month!

June is designated as Dairy Month — but don't forget every month should be Dairy Month. Milk provides a variety of essential nutrients in a favorable ratio to calories, thus justifying the "armored calories" story about milk and facing positively any fear of milk as a fattening food—so says the American Dairy Association.

Milk is important in the diets of adults, and this is pointed out by showing what milk does contribute.

Three to four glasses of milk daily for children and teenagers; at least two glasses daily for adults (or equivalent amounts of milk in other dairy foods such as cheese and ice cream.) Milk is a very versatile food and can be used in many ways. For those members of the family who insist they do not like the taste of plain milk, it is easy to incorporate milk into cooking, or milk's flavor may quickly be changed by adding any wide variety of flavorings. Two 8 oz. glasses of milk each day provide for the moderately active man about 25% of his daily recommended protein allowances (high quality protein, too, with the amino acid needed for repairing and building body tissue); more than 70% of his calcium (recommended for adults as well as children); about 45% of his riboflavin (which is vital to the body's metabolism); about 15% of his vitamin A (which helps prevent blindness and is involved in skin health); and 10-15% of his calories.

For an adult woman, the percentages of nutrients are slightly higher because of nutrient allowances for women tend to be slightly lower than those of men. The four glasses of milk recommended for teenagers provide substantially higher percentage of all these important nutrients. We call milk's calories "armored calories" because milk does provide so many essential nutrients at a comparatively low cost in calories.

Here are some recipes from the Home Economics Department of the American Dairy Association:

BASIC CREAM SAUCE with Dairy Sour Cream

1 stick butter
1/2 cup flour
1 tsp. salt
1 qt. milk
1 pint dairy sour cream
Melt butter, stir in flour and salt. Cook 3-5 minutes, stirring constantly. Slowly add milk, stirring to prevent lumping. Cook until sauce thickens. Remove from heat and blend in sour cream SLOWLY. Do not over stir, as it might cause sauce to become thin. Flavor develops appreciably after a few days.

Some variations are:

1/4 - 1/2 chopped chives - OR -
1 cup chopped green pepper - OR 1/2 cup chopped green onions - OR 2 cups crushed pineapple (drained). When ready to use, add any one of the above ingredients to 1 1/2 quarts of Basic Sour Cream Sauce. Serve warm on hot hors d'oeuvres.

For a Father's Day treat surprise him by preparing a wonderful breakfast of pancakes. Here are some suggestions—

BUTTERMILK PANCAKES

1 teaspoon baking soda
1 quart plus 1/2 cup buttermilk
2 eggs
1/2 stick of butter, melted
4 cups pancake mix
Dissolve soda in buttermilk, add unbeaten eggs, melted butter and pancake mix, stir lightly until well blended. Bake on hot griddle—turn only once. I like a thinner pancake so I add another 1/2 cup buttermilk.

A good filling for the pancakes is Strawberry Sour Cream Filling. If using frozen strawberries, partially defrost, leaving some ice crystals. Add sour cream, stir lightly only to blend.

If Dad prefers—butter pancakes as you cook them and serve with his favorite syrup. Have fun—and a great big happy day to all you Dads!

C. FRANCIS LAY
Assistant Agent

"Light is the task where many share the toil." — Homer
Hello Folks! There has been much discussion in the past few weeks about some of our 4-H Club members going to Virginia Polytechnic Institute (VPI) to compete in state contests and attend the 4-H Short Course. Many of you already know the relationship between VPI and 4-H, but today I would like to give you a brief summary of the actions that have made 4-H Club work possible.

Morrill Act 1862

This act, often called the Land Grant Act, Provided Federal funds to states for the establishment of colleges to provide training in the agricultural and mechanical arts. (VPI is our Land Grant College.)

Hatch Act — 1887

This act provided federal funds for the establishment of a system of research stations within the framework of the Land Grant Colleges. These research stations provide much of the knowledge that is passed to the people of the various states.

Smith-Lever Act — 1914

This act established the Cooperative Extension Service and also provided the formal beginning of 4-H Club work. The Cooperative Extension Service is a cooperative agreement among local, state, and federal governments to administer and finance programs providing education to the people on an extension, or local basis.

Thus, you can see that 4-H is backed up by a vast educational and research system. This knowledge is available to you through the Extension Staff in Virginia Beach.

4-H'ERS CLEAN UP CAMP FARRAR

Congratulations are in order for those 4-H Club members from the City who assisted in the clean-up of 4-H Camp Farrar last week. Their efforts will make the Camp a much more pleasant place for the more than 1,500 young people who will be using the Camp this summer. Special thanks go to Joe Pecsek, and Mary Ringard, who organized the work groups and prepared the food, respectively.

HAVEN HEIGHTS 4-H BLOCK PARTY

The Haven Heights 4-H Club is sponsoring a Block Party at Marquet Court, Haven Heights, on Saturday, June 19, 1965, from 3 to 8 p.m. All Club members, their friends, and parents are invited to attend this event which will consist of dancing on the street (street is blocked off) and a cook-out meal.

COMING EVENTS

June 17 — Corners 4-H Mtg. — LeKeis Church, 7:00 p.m.
June 19 — Haven Heights 4-H Club Block Party.
June 29-July 3 — State 4-H Short Course, VPI.

Many skippers are carrying excess weight around the middle, but are careful not to overload their boat. Still, some pleasure boaters think that just because their twelve foot boat has three seats in it, the boat will carry six people.

Each boat does or should have a capacity plate attached which recommends the load to be carried in that boat and this recommendation should never be exceeded.

In determining the weight capacity of your boat follow this simple procedure:

1. Add up the weight of your outboard motor (check the manufacturer's specifications) battery, fuel (gasoline weighs six pounds a gallon), and normal operating gear, such as anchors, oars, radio, fire extinguisher and the like.
2. Subtract this total from the manufacturer's recommended weight capacity.
3. Never exceed the resulting total in weight of passengers and extra gear.

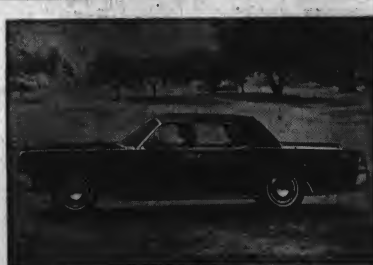

It is always wise to maintain sufficient free board to withstand moderate or rough seas conditions.
Don't say, "It can't happen to me."

BIG BOOM IN BICYCLES

An increasing number of Americans are realizing that the bicycle serves many purposes — fun, fitness, recreation and transportation.

According to the Bicycle Institute of America, the number of bike riders in this country—57,000,000—increased at the rate of 8,000,000 a year.

Recently, bike paths have been proposed in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Denver, Dayton, Clearwater, Fla., and New York City.

Cyclists of all ages, therefore, need more designated areas where they can ride safely and take advantage of the glorious wonders of nature.

During May, American Bike Month, thousands of clubs conduct community bike programs, races, rides and inspections in cooperation with local bike clubs and the bicycle industry.

Parents Warned Of Fireworks

RICHMOND — The Virginia Department of Agriculture issued a warning today to parents and retail dealers regarding a type of fireworks that can be dangerous to children who may mistake them for candy and try to eat them.

The fireworks, resembling small colored candy balls, are sometimes marketed under the names of "Cracker Balls," "Ball Type Caps," "Round Cap Balls," "Single Shot Round Cap Balls," or "Trick Traps." They are dangerous because they can explode when bitten. Children in two out-of-state localities already have been injured in this manner.

Thus far, twenty lots of these products have been observed in Virginia, and VDA has issued stop sale orders on these items. VDA inspectors are on the lookout for these products, or similar competitive explosives, which may be marketed throughout the state. Federal food and drug inspectors are also seeking to locate and remove stocks of "Cracker Balls" from the market.

The products fall under the category of "misbranding under the Virginia Hazardous Substances Law," enforced by VDA because the labels on the samples detected do not bear adequate warnings to indicate their potential danger.

The Virginia Hazardous Substances Law was enacted by the 1964 General Assembly, and became effective in June, 1964. Essentially a labeling law, it is a consumer and trade service measure which provides authority to require cautionary labeling of hazardous substances to prevent bodily injury and property damage.

Anyone locating fireworks of this type in Virginia is asked to notify A. T. Hart, supervisor in VDA's division of regulatory services, naming the source or distribution point, if possible.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lee of Camden, N.J. have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Dill of 525 High Point Avenue. Mrs. Lee is a sister of Mrs. Dill.

ART STUDENTS HOLD SHOW

VIRGINIA BEACH — Students of artist Elizabeth D'Auria presented their works for viewing and judging at the third annual art show held on the D'Auria art grounds in Sylvan Beach last weekend. The variety of techniques taught by Mrs. D'Auria were excellently produced by the promising artists and won acclaim by the judges and general public alike.

Two well-known artists, Lena McNamara and Virginia Adams, were the judges and they chose Catherine Hilligass' finely executed pen and ink as "best in show." Mrs. Hilligass' oil also took a first prize. Other first prize winners were Shirley Allen, pastels; Alta Hensley, pen and ink; and Barbara Driscoll, watercolor. Second place went to Pauline Anderson, watercolor; Betty Moss, pen and ink; Dorothy Buck, oil; and Hazel Vagness, pastels. Thirds were Minnie Kurtzer, watercolor; and Eleanor Love, oil. Four honorable mentions went to Pauline Anderson, watercolor; Barbara Driscoll, pen and ink; Betty Moss, pen and ink; and Hazel Taylor, oil.

Three oil paintings were sold during the auction and they were done by Barbara Driscoll, Frances Newbern, and Virginia Elawick.

Refreshments of home-made cookies were served during the show and door prizes were given. Miss Joan Hahay was the winner of the black and white drawing by Elizabeth D'Auria. Prizes awarded to the winning artists were announced, and Mrs. Hilligass' "best in show" makes her the recipient of an oil portrait to be done of her, or any of her six children, by Mrs. D'Auria. First place winners were awarded a picture frame from Sherman Williams at Jantel and Southern Shopping Center and acrylic paint set from the House of Paints. Second place winners will be given two charcoal portraits to be done at the Virginia Beach Art Show.

The artists who worked to make the show a success were Catherine Hilligass, Shirley Allen, Grace Baker, Pauline Anderson, Barbara Driscoll, Charlotte Bunick, Mary Greer, Margaret Henderson, Tommy Cusine, Doris Montgomery, Hazel Vagness, Alta Hensley, and Rita Vellines.

A special word of praise should go to Boice Studio, and especially to photographer Dick Dyer, for the excellent photographic record kept on the construction of the new General Hospital of Virginia Beach. In the years to come the many-day pictures of the building's growth and progress will be invaluable to the hospital and the community.

SPECIAL UNIT FOR HEART PATIENTS

In the last five years a new concept in initial hospital care of patients suspected of having a coronary thrombosis has evolved, and the merit of such has resulted in a flourish of what is known as the Coronary Care Unit in many hospitals throughout the country.

The Coronary Care Unit plan at the new General Hospital of Virginia Beach will have four beds into which any patient suspected of having a heart attack may be admitted. A comfortable attachment of wires to the chest is applied, and the heartbeat is continuously recorded and visualized on special electronic equipment for this purpose.

Any remarkable change in the patient's heartbeat creates an instant alarm at the nurse's desk which would prompt her to immediately go to the patient's bedside to determine what, if any, serious change in the patient's condition has taken place.

Following heart attacks, patients are prone to develop sud-

New Laboratory Has A New Pathologist

The laboratory in the new hospital will serve as a nerve center for disease detection not only for the hospital but for the community, since its facilities will be used by most of the local physicians for out-patient work.

This will not be a new policy; it has been the practice of the laboratory in the old hospital building on 25th Street for many years. In fact, out-patient tests account for about one-third of the laboratory schedule.

A very valuable addition to the new laboratory, however, will be a full-time pathologist, Dr. John J. Krueger, who arrived in Virginia Beach last week to take over his new duties.

By having a pathologist on hand at all times it will be possible for physicians to have immediate answers to biopsies, pap smears, cancer checks and other tests that were previously being handled at a Norfolk hospital.

Every patient admitted to the hospital must undergo routine tests, regardless of their illness, laboratory. Most of these tests are and are therefore served by the deal with blood analysis which is vital in diagnosis.

Blood used for transfusions is obtained by the laboratory from the Tidewater Regional Blood Center which is supplied by the American Red Cross Bloodmobile visits throughout the area.

Some of the laboratory's most dramatic moments often come from the immediate need for a particular type blood when a matter of minutes can mean the difference between life and death. When such incidents occur, either a police car or a rescue squad unit is dispatched to the Blood Center for the life-giving fluid.

The laboratory may not be open 24 hours a day when the hospital first opens, but a technician will be on call at all times so that its facilities will be available within a few minutes.

Dr. Krueger comes to Virginia Beach from Lee Memorial Hospital at Fort Myers, Florida, where he had been director of laboratories since 1962 and was serving as pathologist for three other Florida hospitals.

Dr. Krueger holds the B.S. in Natural Science from Newberry College. In 1955 he did research into the problems related to the mechanics of respiration at the Medical College of Virginia, where he earned the M.D. degree the following year.

Interning in straight medicine at Grady Memorial Hospital, Atlanta, Ga., he was assistant resident in pathology in 1958-59 at Jackson Memorial Hospital, Miami, Fla., resident in clinical pathology there in 1959-60, and chief of laboratory services at the United States Army Hospital at Fort Gordon, Ga.

Dr. Krueger earned his diploma in both pathologic anatomy and clinical pathology in 1962 from the American Board of Pathology.

RATHBUN NAMED

RICHMOND — Harry Rathbun of Richmond has been named Christian Science Committee on Publication for Virginia. He succeeds Col. William Little of Arlington.

The duties of the new Committee on Publication will be to represent the Christian Science Church in this state in relations with the press, radio and TV, public officials, individual inquirers, and groups.

New Hospital's History Reflects Determination

As the 1960s began, the dedicated but comparatively few physicians who served the City of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County realized their area was caught in a population squeeze without sufficient hospital facilities.

Doctors Herman F. Dormire and Waller L. Taylor had been operating a private, 32-bed hospital in the resort City of Virginia Beach since 1947.

Their hospital, with its laboratory, x-ray departments and examining rooms, was, literally, a life-saving station for those who were in need of immediate medical attention — including blood transfusions and oxygen — and who would not have survived the 20-mile trip to Norfolk hospitals.

But the total population of Princess Anne and Virginia Beach doubled between 1950 and 1960, reaching 85,218 by 1960. Recent School Board estimates for the new City of Virginia Beach — formed by the Princess Anne - Virginia Beach merger of 1963 — show a current population of 135,000.

In 1960, after several years of discussion, a group of citizens of what is now the Borough of Virginia Beach incorporated as a non-profit organization — General Hospital of Virginia Beach, Inc. — with George D. Brooke as president. The corporation underwrote expenses of Sanger and Beale, hospital consultants, to prepare a feasibility report. The consultants' study confirmed the urgent need for a hospital of at least 100 beds at Virginia Beach. The consultants' recommendations were accepted and a fund-raising campaign was started in Virginia Beach.

Coincidentally, and almost concurrently, a similar fund-raising drive was initiated in Princess Anne County to finance a hospital at Princess Anne Plaza.

After the county and city merged, both organizations applied for federal aid under the Hill-Burton hospital act. Their applications were denied, with the suggestion that the two groups consolidate.

The problem of finding a suitable central location was solved when Mrs. Levi D. Old agreed to donate 20 acres near Hilltop for a hospital site.

A group of young doctors, inspired by Mrs. Old's gift, urged the two groups to merge. Consolidation was accomplished and a federal Hill-Burton grant totalling $1,430,000 was approved in October, 1962.

The enthusiasm of the young doctors was contagious. Specialists in every field of medicine are now being attracted to the community, and the first patient admitted to the hospital on July 1 can expect to receive quality medical and surgical services of every description.

The former private hospital, which was acquired by the General Hospital corporation, is located at 25th and Arctie streets. With 50 beds, it will continue to serve as a part of the Virginia Beach General Hospital.

Plans for future additions for Virginia Beach General include a third floor addition of 70 beds and an eventual capacity of 350 beds when needed.

HOSPITAL OPEN TO PUBLIC SAT. & SUN.

The General Hospital of Virginia Beach will be open to visitors immediately following dedication ceremonies, which will end at approximately 3:30 p.m. Saturday.

The open house will continue until 7 p.m. On Sunday, the hospital will be open to the public from 3 p.m. to 7 p.m.

"Pink ladies" — members of the General Hospital Auxiliary — will be stationed at various points in the hospital to guide visitors and to explain the nature and function of the hospital equipment.

Hunter C. Phelan, president of the hospital, announcing the dedication plans, said, "After patients are admitted, such tours would not be practicable; therefore the public is cordially invited and urged to seize this opportunity to visit the cheerful bright interior of our new hospital and to observe its complete modern equipment of every description, from its kitchen to its operating room and laboratories."

A tour may be completed in 45 to 90 minutes, depending upon interests of the individual visitor.

NEARNESS OF HOSPITAL IMPORTANT

If you live in Virginia, the very farthest you should have to travel to get to a hospital is 47 miles, according to a study recently conducted by the Virginia Council on Health and Medical Care.

That is the distance you would have to travel if you lived in Chincoteague. The nearest hospitals are at Nassawadox, Virginia, and Salisbury, Maryland.

Sixty-four per cent of the communities listed with the Council as needing a general practitioner are within 10 miles of a hospital. Nineteen per cent are at distances ranging between 10 and 20 miles. That leaves 17 per cent at distances ranging from 20 to 47 miles.

The Council has 118 such communities in Virginia listed at the present time. The Council's Physician Referral Service has been engaged in trying to bring doctor-short communities together with practice-seeking doctors for almost 15 years now.

Chincoteague — the worst place to live if you want to get to a hospital in a hurry — is a study in irony, though. There is a One Million dollar hospital at the shut-down Naval Air Station there. It has never been used! An acceptable lease between the citizens of the town and the government could not be worked out.

Businessmen Vital Behind Scenes Workers

Behind the unceasing work of General Hospital are a group of businessmen who serve in an advisory capacity to the hospital administrators.

The Virginia Beach General Hospital has the following members on their Executive Committee: George D. Brooke, chairman; Hunter C. Phelan, president; F. Fletcher Garlock, first vice-president; Sidney Kellam, second vice-president; A. Gordon Stephenson, third vice-president; R. B. Taylor, secretary; and Claiborne R. Bryant, treasurer.

Other executive committee members are Willard R. Ashburn, William H. Darden, Larry Sancilio and R. Lee Page, W. Earl Willis serves as administrator.

Overseeing the hospital affairs is a tremendous and often complex task which demands the additional work of hospital directors.

They are: Paul W. Ackiss, H. A. Albers, John Aragona, A. L. Bonney, Willard R. Ashburn, James A. Beasley, Sr., M. Ward Cole, William G. Bruce, George D. Brooke, Claiborne R. Bryant, Charles L. Burlage, E. H. Church, Algy W. Cohen.

William A. Cox, Jr., William H. Darden, Frank A. Dusch, V. A. Etheridge, Osar B. Ferebee, Jr., Robert S. Gay, F. Fletcher Garlock, Robert G. Hofheimer, John Warren Hull, Leigh Hogshire, Preston F. Hix, Henry Y. Ingram.

WILLIS STARTED EARLY ON PLANS

Back in 1963, before the first spadeful of dirt was turned on the 20-acre site near Hilltop, W. Earl Willis was named administrator of a hospital that was still in the planning stages.

There was a reason for this seemingly premature appointment. By having the administrator on hand during the earliest planning stages of the General Hospital of Virginia Beach it enabled him to direct the design of the building, the hiring of personnel, the setting up of the complex schedules, the handling of the funds and the supervision of many other phases of necessary preparations prior to construction.

In other words, the early appointment of Willis by the board of directors has given him the opportunity to know the building inside and out. It has paved the way for a smoother operation once the doors are open and patients are admitting. It has given him an insight into a community and its hospital that few administrators are privileged to have.

These advantages, coupled with Willis' own extensive background in hospital work, bring to the new General Hospital of Virginia Beach a top-notch administrator.

The 38-year-old native of Chase City, Va., holds a B.S. degree from Richmond Professional Institute which was preliminary education to graduate work at the University of Virginia and the Medical College of Virginia.

While doing this graduate work he was employed as hospital auditor for the State Health Department's Bureau of Hospitals and Nursing Facilities in Richmond and administrative resident at Roanoke Memorial Hospital.

He became assistant administrator of the Roanoke facility in 1957 and three years later took over the administrator's duties at Southside Community Hospital in Farmville, a post he held until coming to Virginia Beach in 1963.

Willis has served two tours of duty with the U.S. Naval Reserve, in 1945 and 1951.

He is a member of the American College of Hospital Administrators, the American Hospital Association and the Virginia Hospital Association.

Willis lives with his wife and two children at 1012 Brandon Road in Bay Colony.

Auxiliary Aids Hospital In Many Ways

The old saying that behind every successful man there is a woman might well apply to the new hospital for certainly behind it there is not just one woman but a number of women. They are affectionately called Pink Ladies. But officially, they are members of the Hospital Auxiliary, a volunteer group of community-minded women who turn spare hours into bonus service.

The pink jumpers of the auxiliary members are a familiar sight along the hospital halls as they greet visitors and answer questions, run errands, aid patients, fill-in at various posts and perform a multitude of non-medical duties that are vital to the operation of the hospital.

Serving the old hospital on 25th Street since October of 1962, the auxiliary will soon turn its attention to the new hospital at Hilltop where the expanded facilities will undoubtedly keep its 121 active volunteers on an even busier schedule. These volunteers, who work under the direction of Miss Sue Brooke, are drawn from an overall membership of 364.

Being a Pink Lady is no socialistic. It's work. Last year alone the volunteers turned in about 6,364 hours of service to the hospital; the new hospital will require even more devoted hours. But the Pink Ladies never complain, regardless of what job is handed them, and praise instead the rewards they personally enjoy in knowing that they have benefited others.

Their enthusiasm is so infectious, that last summer 21 teenage volunteers joined their ranks and drew much praise from auxiliary members and hospital staffers for their efforts. The 19 girls and two boys gave up precious summer hours that could have been spent on the beach or on an earning job to contribute cheerful service and hard work to the hospital.

Obtaining air conditioning units for the hospital is just one of many ways the auxiliary has aided the old hospital. Its members now look forward to a future of service for the new hospital.

Operating under a capable slate of officers, the auxiliary is organized around committees that handle a variety of duties. Mrs. Gilmore Tibbrooke, for instance, heads a group responsible for maintaining lawns and planting. Mrs. D. L. Maderia and her committee boosts the hospital and the auxiliary through public relations and Mrs. P. L. Davis' group is responsible for decorating food trays on holidays.

The hospital has benefited from the auxiliary in more ways than service. Mrs. James H. Waters, chairman of the group's special gift and memorial fund recently presented the hospital with a $1,000 check to complete the air conditioning. More than $1,250 went to the hospital in 1964 through memorials and special gifts.

Of course, there is also the problem of raising funds for the auxiliary so that it can carry out its worthwhile work and contribute various needed items to the hospital. Mrs. Bernard Bateman heads the new ways and means committee which last year raised $802 by sponsoring a benefit concert by Clifford Herzer, $345 through a food test at Aldo Farms and $200 by selling donated paintings at the Boardwalk Art Show.

This year's officers include: Mrs. C. W. Walkley, president; Mrs. W. K. Romoser, vice president; Mrs. R. F. Trant, corresponding secretary; Mrs. W. B. Baldwin, recording secretary; and Mrs. H. S. Meredith, treasurer.

Other committee chairmen include: Mrs. G. R. Berkeley, hospitality; Mrs. Samuel Samouice, membership; Mrs. Howard Eager, telephone; and Mrs. Fielding Jeter, interior decorating.

"The future of the auxiliary is full of promise," Mrs. Walkley said. "We hope to add many new features to our present services. Some of these will be a book cart, gift area with inexpensive handcrafts made by members, necessity cart with toilet articles for sale, an admitting service and a complimentary toy made by auxiliary members for each child patient."

If the future looks bright for the auxiliary, it looks even brighter for the hospital... because of the outstanding work and contributions of this most deserving group of women.

AGREEMENT SIGNED

LITTLE CREEK — The U.S. Naval Amphibious Base, Little Creek, Norfolk, and the Fifth Naval District Metal Trades Council recently signed a one-year agreement governing working conditions for approximately 400 employees on the Base. Approval by the Chief of Naval Operations was received this week which places the agreement in effect immediately.

The agreement was signed by Capt. Nelson P. Watkins, USN, Commanding Officer of the Base, and Mr. George P. Knecht, President of the Council. Negotiations were concluded after 13 bargaining sessions over a period of 3 months. The agreement sets down a formal agreement on job conditions on the Base, and was negotiated under the provisions of Executive Order 10988.

The Council was granted exclusive recognition by the Base in July 1964. It represents all of the Base's non-supervisory, blue collar workers.

SEAMAN HONORED

OCEANA — Personnelman Seaman Charles Livingston Coffey recently received a Letter of Commendation for his outstanding military service and devotion to local civil affairs during his term of duty in Virginia Beach.

Coffey, who has been transferred to Key West, Fla., was attached to Attack Squadron 42 at Oceana Naval Air Station. His commendation was presented by Cmdr. W. S. Nelson, commanding officer of the squadron.

While here, Coffey donated many volunteer hours to the Boy and Girl Scouts of America and the Young Men's Christian Association. He was an active member of St. Mark's AME Church in Virginia Beach.

The American Hospital Association reports that the average patient's stay is 7.7 days, as against 14 days 25 years ago. The decline is attributed to better medicines, new equipment and improved treatment.

PHELAN PERFECT CHOICE FOR HOSPITAL PRESIDENT

VIRGINIA BEACH — When George D. Brooke stepped down as president of the General Hospital of Virginia Beach, it was necessary that a dynamic personality be found to carry on and be the force propelling ever forward the aim to complete to reality the dream of a completely modern new hospital to serve the City of Virginia Beach. The perfect answer was Hunter C. Phelan.

Mr. Phelan typifies a true southern gentleman, soft-spoken and kind with a deep concern for his fellow man. As regal as an eagle, he sees what has to be done, and he sees that it does get done. His long public service record includes work as head of a committee which laid the foundations for the Virginia State Ports Authority; chairmanship of the 1939 Community Chest drive, and work as head of the Council of Social Agencies in the 1930's.

Born in Texas in 1893, he came to Norfolk in 1934. He is a director of several corporations and was a former president of Colonial Stores, Inc., and of WAVY radio and television stations. He is chairman of the board of directors of the Virginia Beach branch of Virginia National Bank.

A former resident of Norfolk, he was honored by that city in 1953 by being named First Citizen. He and his wife now live in Virginia Beach on South Bay Shore Drive. Their two sons are married and there are four grandchildren.

DIETICIAN REALLY NOT SO 'HEARTLESS'

Patients often regard the General Hospital dietician as a "heartless woman" — and with small wonder but Mrs. L. H. Zehmer goes about doing her work just the same.

Her "poisonous" reputation comes from her duty to prescribe special diets that patients often rebel against.

"Patients too often fail to realize that a diet may be as valuable to the cure of their illness as medication," she says.

An efficient, brisk-paced lady, Mrs. Zehmer leaves the Virginia Beach Hospital to handle the dietary affairs for General Hospital.

"Everyone has different eating habits and any time there is a deviation from their routine diet, we get complaints." She estimates that about one-third of all hospital patients at Virginia Beach are on special diets and it is difficult to convince them that they are being deprived of certain foods for their own good.

"Actually," Mrs. Zehmer says, "there are many patients whose own wants are more important to them than their own health. Men accept diets better than women."

There is a good, logical reason for this, she explains: women work with food and find it a task to deprive themselves of dishes they are preparing while men will simply eat the food put before them.

Although there are many combinations of diets used in hospitals for as many varieties of ailments, the bland diet is the hardest for patients to stay on. The restricted sodium diet runs a close second, the dietician said.

A patient put on a bland diet gets no raw fruits or vegetables and most of the cooked food must be strained or mashed. The dietician helps the patient through the first stages of this diet by using seasonings and herbs as much as possible.

Seasonings, mixed with a variety of foods, does much to improve any of the special diets, Mrs. Zehmer said.

Not all problems arise from patients on restricted diets. There is just as much conversation from those who must suddenly eat large amounts of heavy foods.

Most of the hospital patients receive regular diets and though their trays may not include gourmet dishes, the food is varied, attractive and appetizing.

Most of the foods are prepared in their natural state and even some of the special diet foods are fixed in the hospital kitchens.

For Comfortable Convalescence

Cheerful and colorful surroundings go a long way in making a patient's hospital stay more pleasant and the patient rooms at the General Hospital of Virginia Beach are beautifully decorated for this reason. The modern decor was planned and executed by Mrs. Judy Fischer, interior decorator with Camp Furniture Co. (Boice Photo)

DR. OLD: LEGEND IN MEDICINE

VIRGINIA BEACH

Though the name of Dr. Levi Old, in whose honor his widow donated the 20 acres at Hillside for the establishment of the New General Hospital of Virginia Beach, is known throughout the area, his devotion to medicine itself and his sponsoring of the education of others is legend.

Dr. Old was one of the leading surgeons and best-known in the Tidewater area. He traveled extensively to major medical centers in the United States and Europe, learning new medical techniques which he pioneered. According to Mrs. Old, he introduced the method of artificial pneumothorax (deflating of the lung in treatment of tuberculosis) in Norfolk. He also performed the first bone transplant in the area in 1911 and performed one of the first caesarian births in Norfolk.

"He started an indigent clinic at St. Vincent's and he was in charge of the old men's ward there before the U.S. Public Health Service Hospital was built," his widow said. "He never got a penny for that work."

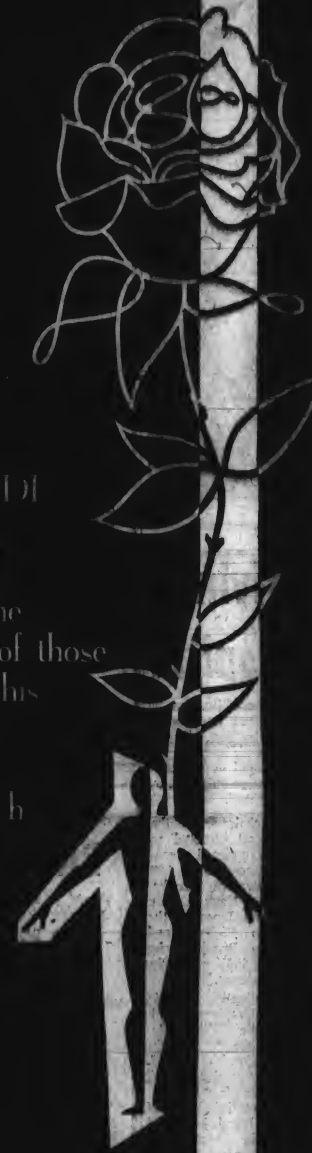

Mrs. Old said her husband also would provide funds to help young doctors who had interned at St. Vincent's to start their own practice; and sponsored the college education of seven young men, including his own son, Dr. Levi Old Jr.

"One of the boys he put through college is now vice president of the Eastman Medical College and another is president of the World Conference on Alcoholism," she said. "My husband did a lot of things quietly and he was a great believer in education."

Dr. Old was a graduate of Randolph-Macon College and the University of Virginia Medical School, class of 1898. He served his internship at St. Vincent's De Paul Hospital in Norfolk. He was a charter member of the American College of Surgeons in 1913 and was a member of the Norfolk County Medical Society. Mrs. Old met Dr. Old when she was a nurse at St. Vincent's, and they were married in 1923. He practiced medicine in Norfolk for 50 years after serving as a major in the medical corps during the Spanish-American War.

Dr. Old died at his home at Oak Hill Farm, London Bridge, on January 30, 1961, at the age of 92. But his spirit and memory will live forever with the completion of the New General Hospital of Virginia Beach.

equipped emergency in the state. Its nine cubicles can, in case of emergency, accommodate 12 patients. Stretcher-type examining and treatment tables make it possible to move the patient from area to area within the hospital for additional treatment without having to move the patient himself.

The Emergency Room will operate on a 24-hour basis. It will be staffed by professional personnel. Members of the active medical staff will provide constant medical coverage.

As a part of the emergency room area, is an emergency operating room to perform life-saving operations for accident victims immediately.

The Emergency Room will be equipped with the latest in life-saving equipment to handle any emergency, large or small.

George D. Brooke Brooke Was Driving Force Behind Hospital

In the early planning stages of this special section commemorating the dedication of the General Hospital of Virginia Beach, a Sun staff member was consulting with Hospital Administrator W. Earl Willis on suggested story ideas.

"There is one story the section must have," Willis said. "It must have a special feature on Mr. Brooke. Without him, the hospital might never have been built."

He was referring, of course, to George D. Brooke, the hospital's first president. And what Willis said was fact, not exaggeration. Brooke was the driving force behind the hospital in its formative days. It was his determined effort that guided the project through its difficult beginnings and saw it on the path toward construction.

Brooke stepped down as president in January, 1964, nearly five years after he had undertaken the responsibility. But by the time he retired, the hospital was under construction. Like the long-time railroad man he is, Brooke had stayed at the controls until there was only a clear, straight track ahead.

He is now chairman of the board of General Hospital as well as a retired railroad executive. His ancestors include two physicians: Lawrence Brooke, who served as a Navy surgeon under John Paul Jones on the Bonne Homme Richard and Thomas Vaden Brooke, who served in the Civil War with the Richmond Howitzers.

Born in Sutherland, Va., in 1878, the board chairman graduated from Virginia Military Institute just at the turn of the century in 1900 with the B.S. degree and later received a civil engineering degree from VMI.

A former board chairman of the Virginia Railroad, he retired in 1959. Brooke began laying plans for a general hospital nearly seven years ago on the urging of Willard Ashburn of Virginia Beach.

Brooke enjoys gardening and quail hunting. He was chosen First Citizen of 1961 by the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce for his outstanding service to the community through his work toward the new hospital.

IN TOP TEN

ROSWELL, N.M. — J. B. McQuiklin of Virginia Beach has been named as being one of the Cadets at the New Mexico Military Institute who finished the second half of the year in the top ten per cent of their Military Science classes.

The Department of Radiology of the General Hospital will have this cineradiographic unit and image intensifier—the only such one in any Tidewater area community hospital. It is used to study moving organs and motion. The machine allows slow motion pictures to be made which radiologists can study.

Among the equipment being installed in the new General Hospital of Virginia Beach is an image intensifier and cineradiographic unit in the Department of Radiology.

This equipment, which has been developed only in the last few years, is used in doing fluoroscopic X-ray examinations which are mainly a study of moving organs or of motion itself.

Conventional fluoroscopic machines have a screen which converts X-rays to a visible image which the radiologist can observe. Image intensification units use a special electronic tube and optical system which increases the image brightness by several thousand times. The result of this is that the examination can be done with a smaller amount of radiation.

By means of cineradiographic machine, motion pictures can be made of the image from the image intensifier. The purpose of this is to make a permanent record of the desired portion of the examination. Indeed, "slow motion" pictures can be made.

The advantage here is that the area can be studied by the radiologist however long is necessary without additional radiation to the patient. This procedure is particularly good for studying organs where there is rapid or complex motion such as in the cardiovascular system and parts of the gastrointestinal and respiratory systems.

The cineradiographic unit in the new General Hospital of Virginia Beach is the only such unit in any of the community hospitals in the Tidewater area. The benefit of this equipment will be increased diagnostic accuracy with less radiation exposure to the patient.

FLOOD LEAVES LOCAL FAMILY DESTITUTE

by Ruby Jean Phillips

BACK BAY — Forrest H. Davis is on his way home for the first time since 1957. A Navyman for 16 of his 33 years, he has just completed a tour of duty in Viet Nam and is bringing his wife and five children home to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Davis of Back Bay, before completing a transfer to California.

The plans all seemed so routine when the family left Seattle on June 15. But that was before tragedy struck, before the family was left destitute in a small Colorado town.

Wearily after three days of traveling across country in a car loaded down with five youngsters under nine years of age, and all the family's clothing, Davis and his wife checked into a motel last Thursday night in Limon, Colorado.

During the night they were awakened by a frantic knock on the door. A flash flood had surged into the town without warning.

"When I opened the door the water was eight feet deep," Davis told his mother later by telephone.

Along with other travelers, the Davises managed to get to the top of the motel where they spent the remainder of the night. They didn't know until later that 17 persons in their immediate area lost their lives in the flood.

The youngest Davis child, only six months old, was critically ill for the next two days from gas fumes inhaled while awaiting rescue from the roof-top.

When the flood waters receded the following day the family took stock of their situation. It was not a pleasant picture. Although their furniture was safely enroute to California, the flood had taken their car, all of their money and every piece of clothing they owned except what they had frantically put on in the desperate rush to escape death.

For the next two days, until the baby was out of danger, the family was housed in emergency quarters at Limon High School. The American Red Cross notified the Navy mechanic's parents of their son's plight and they wired what available cash they had.

But traveling with five children is an expensive proposition. The family got as far as Denver on Monday and again had to wire for aid. They are now headed for Virginia Beach and should arrive within the next day or so.

Several precious days of the long-awaited leave are gone. They will spend the remainder of the time with Mr. and Mrs. Davis at their farm and fish camp in Back Bay. But after the leave, then what? How does a family of seven start over from scratch—especially when they must travel some 3,000 miles to reach their furniture and new home? This is the problem that faces Forrest Davis when he arrives here this week.

It will not exactly be an unfamiliar problem. In January, just before Davis left for Viet Nam, he was stationed briefly in Japan living in a Navy barracks. The barracks caught fire. Nearly every item of clothing Davis owned went up in flames.

CAR BURNS UP

BAYSIDE — A small compact car caught fire early Wednesday morning as its driver was on the ramp to Northampton Boulevard coming off Shore Dr.

Two units from the Chesapeake Beach Volunteer Fire Department reportedly extinguished the blaze in about 15 minutes. Damage to the car was estimated at $800. Owner of the vehicle, who escaped uninjured, was a naval officer but his identity is unknown at this time.

FIVE SENATORIAL CANDIDATES ANSWER 8 VITAL QUESTIONS UNIQUE AUTOS IN EXHIBITION

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Norfolk-Virginia Beach League of Women Voters will present its non-partisan political rally Monday at 8 p.m. at Princess Anne High School with the five state senatorial candidates on hand to participate in an open forum.

Some weeks ago the state senatorial candidates from this district—L. Charles Burlage, William H. Hodges, William P. Kellam, Gordon F. Marsh and William B. Spang, Jr.—all Democrats, were sent questionnaires, compiled by the League of Women Voters of Virginia, asking for the candidate's opinions on eight timely topics.

Their answers to the questions are as follows:

1. Do you think the State of Virginia should take steps to alleviate the debt load now carried by its cities and counties? Explain.

BURLAGE (Virginia Beach): "The only reasonable answer is the levy of a 2% sales tax which would produce $100-million annual revenue. The cities, counties and towns of Virginia are over $650-million in debt. Therefore, after deducting administrative costs, all of this revenue should be returned to the localities on a per capita basis. The monies would be used by localities to (a) repay the state its literary loan; (b) retire bonded indebtedness; (c) retire several obligation bonds; (d) if no indebtedness, invested for future capital outlay for schools.

HODGES (Chesapeake): Yes. By enactment of a statewide sales tax with distribution of a portion of the revenue obtained to the tax with distribution of a portion of the revenue obtained to the counties and cities. Also the state should assume a greater role in education and highway construction.

KELLAM (Virginia Beach): It is my hope that the state will be able to absorb certain costs, such as instructional costs of schools, which will relieve the locality of this expense. They will then be in a position to reduce their local indebtedness.

MARSH (Chesapeake): Yes. A sharing of new money coming into the State Treasury from several sources should be done until the localities are in better financial condition.

SPONG (Portsmouth): Yes. There is something wrong with a tax structure that provides a large surplus of state revenues while localities are strapped for funds.

2. Maintaining the "environment that makes Virginia a good place in which to live and work" has been stressed by the Virginia Outdoor Recreation Commission. What measures would you recommend to further encourage tourism, preserve natural resources and provide our growing population with additional state parks, lakes, campgrounds, etc.?

BURLAGE: Virginia's population was 3,966,949 in 1960; it will be 9 million in 2000; 24 million by 2020. Long-term plans are programs must be evolved now to take care of generations yet unborn of the nature projected by the Virginia Outdoor Recreation Commission. Ways must be found to keep tourists longer, once he is here. Modern laws affecting tourists, such as local option, would be helpful. More state parks need to be reserved.

HODGES: Creation of a Department of Tourism and taking a positive approach to the problem.

KELLAM: I believe Virginia has more to offer to the nation in the way of outdoor recreation and historic and scenic attractions than any other state. I believe that additional appropriations should be made to expand these facilities and to encourage the tourists to visit Virginia.

MARSH: Yes. I have supported parks and natural area preserves and have been successful in having a 50,000-acre natural area preserve recommended for acquisition in the Great Dismal Swamp.

SPONG: Establishment of a state division of planning within the executive branch of our government!

3. Economic and industrial growth in Virginia depends on planned river basin development. In order to solve the problems of pollution, and to meet the sometimes conflicting demands upon our water resources, what programs would you recommend to best serve the public interest?

BURLAGE: Increase the personnel and staff of the State Water Control Board. There must be more overall planning on water resources and its conservation in Virginia. Too many communities plan unilaterally for water and use its lack of availability as a political football.

HODGES: Creation of more authorities similar to the Hampton Roads Sanitation District Commission.

KELLAM: I believe the State Water Control Board is doing a substantially good job in helping to relieve our rivers of the problems of pollution, and a stepped-up program in this direction would mean much in controlling our water resources in the State of Virginia.

MARSH: I have vigorously supported the Hampton Roads Sanitation District Commission and local sewage districts.

SPONG: (a) See answer to No. 2; (b) more rigid control by State Water Control Board; (c) encouragement through regional planning groups of area approaches to water and sewage problems!

4. The report of the Virginia Mental Health Study Commission indicates serious shortcomings in our mental health programs. If elected, will you approve the appropriation of an increase in general funds for the Dept. of Mental Hygiene and Hospitals? Will you further recommend and approve allocating sufficient matching funds to permit the Dept. to use all federal money available?

BURLAGE: The answer is that the problem of adequate mental health facilities must be solved on the state level. I will approve the allocation of sufficient state funds to match federal funds to the extent necessary to alleviate any deficiencies which exist in our mental health program in Virginia. Particular emphasis on such facilities as the Lynchburg Training School will be given so as to insure adequate mental health facilities for our children.

HODGES: I generally favor a substantial increase in the appropriations but need more information as to matching federal funds.

KELLAM & SPONG: yes, to both questions.

MARSH: Yes. I certainly will continue to support increases for these institutions. I will continue to support such approved programs. The recommendations to treat more patients locally has proved successful in Virginia Beach and Norfolk-Chesapeake clinics and should be accelerated over the state where possible. Attracting more qualified people to become psychologists and psychiatrists will help fill a vital need.

5. The Special Report by the Council of Presidents of State-Aided Institutions of Higher Learning in Virginia estimates that by the 1970 biennium we must provide $216-million for higher education. The Virginia School Boards Association estimates that the requirements for elementary and secondary education will be $448.8-million by 1970. Will you support necessary legislation to provide the funds for all levels of education?

BURLAGE: Yes. As pointed out, a 2% sales tax will produce $1-billion in 10 years at present levels of economic activity. A study commission looking to the long-term needs of higher learning in Virginia should be appointed to establish needs; then the legislators must find the money for these needs. Institutions of higher learning are also the key to desirable industrial growth.

HODGES: Yes, and it must be commenced immediately.

KELLAM & SPONG: Yes.

MARSH: Yes. I have fully supported advances in education and increased funds. My platform calls for an advanced program for primary through college, for junior colleges and a strong program for technical vocational training.

6. Does Virginia need a state-wide general retail sales tax? If so, how should it be shared with the localities? What other sources of additional revenue are available to the state or the localities?

BURLAGE: See answer to question No. 1. Adopt a dynamic program of industrial growth and the attraction of tourists. The latter 2 points are a must if we are to provide the services an expanding population requires. Ways must be found to keep the tourists once they are here. Something in addition to the viewing of historical sites must be provided the tourists.

HODGES: Yes. I favor a state-wide sales tax. In order to enact such a tax, provision is going to have to be made to assure the localities who have such a tax as much revenue as they are now receiving. Exact distribution would depend on what additional obligations the states assumes.

KELLAM: If a state-wide retail sales tax is approved, the state will certainly have to refund to the localities a large share of it or else take over a great share of the cost of schools.

MARSH: Yes. The sales tax should be divided 50-50 between the state and localities on the basis of their present need.

SPONG: (a) Yes, if anything is to be done about questions 1, 4 and 5. (b) This would depend upon the percentage of sales tax adopted by the state. (c) If state income tax exemptions were to be conformed to federal income tax exemptions this would provide $10-15-million additional revenue.

7. The League of Women Voters of Virginia is particularly interested in your position on the following two issues: (a) will you endorse repeal of the poll tax as a prerequisite for voting in state and local elections in Virginia; (b) will you oppose the Freeholder Amendment if it comes before the General Assembly during your term of office? All five candidates answered "yes" to both questions.

8. If elected, what specific legislative program will you propose?

BURLAGE: (a) establishment of a Council for the Protection of Consumers; (b) Constitutional amendment for the repeal of the poll tax; (c) establishment of a commission to study the short- and long-term needs of higher learning in Virginia; (d) establishment of a State and City Civil Service Commission.

HODGES: Expansion of mental health facilities, particularly for retarded children; adoption of "Godwin Plan" for improved education ($5,000 minimum teacher salary, etc.); retention of 100% of Federal Impact Funds for education; improved highways.

KELLAM: I will work for (a) greater cooperation among communities; (b) quality education; (c) increased tourism; (d) industrial development; (e) aid to farmers; (f) management and labor; (g) reapportionment; (h) highways and bridges; (i) no further increase in Real Estate Tax.

MARSH: I pledge my support for a school program to fulfill the needs of Virginia's young people through their primary and secondary school years; and to work for higher education facilities. I intend to continue to work for the preservation of a portion of the Great Dismal Swamp for a park, for the establishment of a battlefield park and expanded recreation facilities in our cities to accommodate the citizens of our area and attract tourists.

SPONG: None contemplated at this time, but as a member of two VAEC study groups, will probably be asked to sponsor some of their bills, should I be re-elected. Note: record will confirm past stands on most questions consistent with answers herein.

Jets Roar At Governor's Day

VIRGINIA BEACH — Gov. Albert Harrison, in his fourth year as Governor, will be honored and praised the Virginia National Guard Sunday in ceremonies at the state military reservation at Camp Pendleton.

The brief ceremony replaced the customary review of troops, and was held before several hundred invited guests on a hard-surface area.

Recent heavy rains caused the review to be cancelled and left the parade field soggy. However, the sun splashed down and radiated warmth through clear blue skies.

National Guard field howitzers blasted away their salutes to Governor Harrison. Eight jets from the Air National Guard in Richmond flew low over the field twice. They swooped overhead suddenly, giving the crowd little warning of their piercing thunder. A few small children cried in fright.

The governor, his white hair shining brightly from the sun's rays, told the crowd assembled opposite the soldiers, "Each year, I set aside this annual event on my calendar as a must-do. I want to thank the National Guard for its constant, and dependable readiness to respond to my calls since I've been governor."

He told a troop formation that the National Guard can "meet emergencies, whether they be military, civilian or ceremonial."

Nearly 1,700 guardsmen, including men in engineering battalions from Western Virginia will end two weeks of training at Pendleton this weekend.

The engineers are improving drainage, roads, and clearing woodlands at the state military reservation as part of a training program.

They are also shoring up storm protection for the camp's firing range on the oceanfront and improving the amphibious landing area.

DAVE CLARK 5 HERE

THALIA — The Dave Clark Five, one of this country's most popular English recording groups, will appear in an outdoor concert tonight at Princess Anne High School's Cox Stadium at 8:30.

Their appearance will go on schedule, a WGH official said, regardless of the weather. Since this will be their only stop in Virginia in a cross-country tour, tonight's concert is expected to draw fans from all over the state. However, a few fans were still available late Wednesday at the Alan B. Shepard Civic Center.

The Dave Clark Five made their first impact on American teen-agers with their version of "Glad All Over" and "Pieces."

Guardsmen Improving Pendleton

VIRGINIA BEACH — Engineers of the Virginia National Guard are doing a $50,000 rehabilitation job on the State Military Reservation here as part of their summer field training.

Major General Frank H. Britton, deputy commanding general of Second Army, saw part of the work in progress today during the course of his official inspection of the summer encampment of approximately 1,700 officers and men.

The 666 officers and men of the 176th Engineer Group, from the Richmond and Gate City areas, have undertaken a half dozen major projects, despite the fact they spent the first four days of their two-week training 150-miles away at Camp Pickett.

When they leave here Saturday to return home, they will have:

1. Restored protective sand mounds, or dunes, along the beach front of the target areas.

2. Rehabilitated the drainage system for the camp area, including a section of the reservation which, for drainage purposes, also serves the Navy's Dam Neck area.

3. Filled in depressions on the sites of razed warehouses.

4. Removed old concrete foundations and underpinnings of other razed structures to improve the appearance and usefulness of the reservation.

5. Built roads connecting the 40-mm gun firing line with the radar installations to the rear.

6. Cleared up a substantial section of the wooded area, a project that includes removing underbrush and cutting waste timber for firewood.

LYNNHAVEN BILL NEARS COMPLETION

WASHINGTON — The $970,000 needed to carry out the Lynnhaven Inlet and bay improvement project is included in the House Public Works Appropriations bill reported from committee Thursday.

Congress is said to virtually assure its approval for the funds. The Lynnhaven project includes improvements to the channel through the inlet and those waterways connecting Lynnhaven and Broad Bay. It also involves the dredging of a mooring and turning basin in Lynnhaven Bay. The project is scheduled for completion in May 1966.

A $75,000 reimbursement to Virginia Beach for its beach nourishment program was included in the bill and $20,000 for a beach erosion study.

New Hospital Dedication Draws Crowds

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Virginia Beach General Hospital was formally dedicated Sunday by Gov. Albertis S. Harrison, who joined officials and supporters in praising the community effort that saw the modern $2.6 million hospital through to completion.

"Literally thousands of people, when they come here as visitors or patients, will know this is their hospital. A sense of dedication generates other civic improvements," Gov. Harrison told a large crowd of about 500.

"Each time we meet community needs, we strengthen our moral fiber. The essence of our strength in this nation is that no obstacle can stand in the way of free men."

Hospital officials plan to occupy the two-story, 105-bed facility on July 15. The original opening date was July 1 but equipment is still arriving. It was designed and built to allow eventual expansion to 350 beds in four phases, but has a site large enough for a 450-bed building.

Dr. W. T. Sanger, consultant and former president of the Medical College of Virginia, commented on the design and construction of the hospital.

"This is a very unusual hospital," he said, "in that it was designed to be enlarged. Here you will have all the fundamental medical services except psychiatry and that, too, can be added. It is a unique and distinctive facility."

George D. Brooke, chairman of the Board of the General Hospital of Virginia Beach, spoke in appreciation of the hospital site, which was a gift from Mrs. Levi D. Old in memory of her late husband, Dr. William Levi Old.

The Governor, whose term expires in January, was introduced by Sidney S. Kellam, second vice-president of the board of directors of the General Hospital.

The Rev. Edmund Berkeley of the Galilee Episcopal Church delivered the invocation. The benediction was given by the Rev. Cecil Clifton, president of the Ministerial Association.

About 30 distinguished guests were introduced by Hunter C. Phelan, hospital president.

After the dedication, open house was held until 7 p.m. and on Sunday from 3 to 7 p.m. A band from the U.S. Naval School of Music at Little Creek provided music before the dedication ceremony.

An estimated 3500 persons toured the new structure.

Invited guests on the speaker's platform were: George D. Brooke; Hunter C. Phelan, Fletcher Garlock, Willard Ashburn, Sidney Kellam, Gordon Stephenson, R. B. Taylor, Claiborne Bryant, W. Earl Willis, Karl Wunder.

Bill Cox, Mrs. Ann Walkley, Miss Sue Brooke, Mrs. Levi Old, Dr. Levi Old, Judge Richard Kellam, Judge Robert Wahab, Gov. Albertis Harrison, Dr. W. T. Sanger, W. S. Beale, Frank Dusch, Russell Hatchett, Honorable Tom Downing.

Honorable William P. Kellam, Senator Adams, Admiral Taylor, Robert D. Ham, Dr. Shanholtz and J. A. Jones.

Party Line BY OLGA EDWARDS

Saturday night I started out with such wonderful intentions but again the rain came and completely drowned all intentions of taking in more than one club. My first club and the only one I got to was the Cape Colony.

On entering the ball room the very first person I saw was Ted Carr and his most attractive young lady friend, Miss Joanne Hamill. Joanne is from England and of course her English accent adds quite a bit to her personality.

Others seen at the Club were: Mr. and Mrs. George Gregory; Mr. and Mrs. Allen F. Siegfried, Mr. and Mrs. R. I. Hedspeth and Mrs. Claude B. Garrett, Jr.

I was so glad this week that Party Line was able to meet people whom we have not been seeing at all through the winter months. Those seen were: Mr. and Mrs. John F. Kull, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Holbrook, Mr. and Mrs. James Hofheimer, Mrs. Victor Werthelmer, Mr. and Mrs. Tazewell Hubard, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Dunn, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Polindexter, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Mears, Dr. and Mrs. Ben Ward, Miss Catherine Bates, Dr. and Mrs. R. C. Baish, Miss Janet Collins, Mrs. Paul Atkinson, Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Blackwell, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Weeks.

No telling where I might be next week. Maybe I'll see you there.

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

Thirty-Two Years Have Passed

Just as the depths of the Great Depression fully struck Virginia, a young and energetic principal of a school took over as superintendent of schools. He had been here for four years at that time, as principal of Oceana School, which was then a small school with all grades. Governor Pollard had just announced a reduction in school funds; there were ninety teachers in the entire area and a small administrative staff; there were only a few bus drivers and a few janitors; and there were only about 3500 pupils in the schools. Many of the schools were small one-room inadequate buildings. That was the situation thirty-two years ago when Frank W. Cox became superintendent of public schools.

Times have changed. In the massive city of Virginia Beach, there will be 34 modern, efficient school plants open this fall, with several more in construction and planning stages. There will be more than thirty-six thousand pupils. And there will be about fourteen hundred members of the instructional staff, to say nothing of the four hundred other school employees. On the last day of this month, the same Frank W. Cox celebrates his 32nd anniversary as superintendent. His tenure has been marked by rapid growth, lack of funds, great achievements and even some disappointments. But through it all, he has managed to remain the affable man, respected by all who know him.

We asked Mr. Cox for a capsule comment on his thirty-two years. He would only say that his job has been challenging every minute, but that it has been gratifying and satisfying to meet the needs of Virginia's fastest growing political subdivision. He added that he is appreciative of the support he has received over the years, not only by the government bodies of the city, but also by the fine citizens.

He says without that cooperation and support, everything that has been done could not have been accomplished. We would like to amplify those remarks.

We feel that without Frank W. Cox at the helm, the challenges could not have been met, particularly the challenges provided by extreme growing pains. As we look at the remarkable school plants of today and talk to the outstanding instructional personnel, we are thankful that we have had Mr. Cox at Virginia Beach for these thirty-two years. Under his guidance, the school system has grown and prospered, and has become one of the finest in the state.

We had the privilege of working in this school system ten years ago, just at the time that the mushrooming population was presenting new challenges. There were only three high schools then. Now those challenges have been met, and Mr. Cox is still looking far into the future to solve the next problems. It is a tough job to be always looking into the future to meet those needs, while trying to meet present needs at the same time. But Frank W. Cox has done it for thirty-two years.

It is our purpose here to pay tribute to a man who has done so much for Virginia Beach, and to thank him for being our superintendent of schools. As we told him recently, we hope he'll continue on his job for at least another thirty-years, before he considers retiring. After all, he is still a young man. He must be to do everything he does. We have never met anyone who is able to gain the respect of everyone as easily as Frank Cox. His gentle manner has won for him the admiration of thousands. And we join with the citizens of Virginia Beach in offering our sincerest congratulations on this, his 32nd anniversary as superintendent of schools.

A Rose By Another Name

For a number of years, we have been students of names of places: that is, streets, cities, rivers, and the like. It has fascinated us to find the reason for odd-sounding names of places. In many cases, we have not been successful in determining the origin, but often speculation is more fun anyway. The state of Virginia has many odd-sounding town names. Many followed the Indian name. This is most prevalent on the Eastern Shore. But before we digress too much, let us discuss some of the names of places in Virginia Beach that have struck our fancy. We have just come across some of them for the first time, and are just beginning our investigation of their background. If you can help in any way, we would appreciate it.

In looking at a map of Virginia Beach we have found such exotic sounding places as Rainey's Gut, Black Gut, Stumpy Lake, Wash Flats, False Cape and Frizzle Cove. Then there is Big Ball Island, along with Little Ball Island, Goat Hill, Flynn Folly and Ragged Island. We are enchanted by the names of Half Moon Bay, Redhead Bay and Eagle Nest Point. For many years one of the more familiar strange-sounding points of Virginia Beach, to us, has been Bird Neck Point. Another has been Witch Duck Point (along with Witch Duck Road). Several streets have not been overlooked either. To us, it sounds somewhat odd to live on North Muddy Creek Road, but it sounds absolutely marvelous to live on Bullwhip Street. One that we have ignored so far is well known to us all. Chinese Cove has been a landmark to us for many years.

The list goes on and on. Two other street names that have caught our attention are Spanish Neck Road and Gum Ridge Road.

We must, however, not forget or ignore Porpoise Point, Stingray March, Bread Island, Deep Ditch Spit, or especially Whiskey Creek. Now there's an interesting name. We wonder if it is whiskey by the drink.

We realize it is sometimes difficult for subdivision planners to find names for new streets or areas, but we feel that in years past perhaps the names outdid themselves. Or perhaps these places and streets were so named in order to capture the imagination of folks like us in later years. If that was the reason, the purpose has been accomplished.

If any of our readers do not believe the above names actually exist in Virginia Beach, we suggest you look at your map as we did. All of them are there, just waiting for us to wonder why they were so named.

Just a few more street names that we have come across include Old Shell Road, West Little Neck Road, (For the life of us, we can't find East Little Neck Road) Indian Run Road, Little Horseshoe Drive, Elbow Road, (it certainly has a sharp curve in it) Ego Drive and South Streamline Drive. There may be a North Streamline Drive too, but we couldn't locate it. No dissertation of this sort would be complete without the casual mentioning of the name of one of our favorites . . . Prosperity Road. There's the name of a road all of us wish we could reach.

Do not misunderstand us. We are not casting aspersions on the names of any of these streets or places. We simply find them amusing and wonder at their origin. Furthermore, we feel certain that our list is by no means complete. If you know of others that may qualify, let us know. Meanwhile we're off to Whiskey Creek.

IN THE GOOD OL' SUMMERTIME!

Another Plea For Auto Safety

The number of automobile accidents that occur on our roads and highways is rather frightening. A rehash of all the reasons for these accidents would be useless, and a restatement of road rules and laws would be forgotten anyway, so our purpose in this commentary takes a different direction.

First of all, let us make clear that we have no interest in any business which manufactures or sells any safety devices used as accessories on automobiles. We are selling nothing but safety.

There is a small switch, known as a hazard warnings witch. It is about the size of a cigarette lighter. It is installed in or under the dashboard of a car. It is convenient to the driver's reach. It causes all four turn signal lights to flash simultaneously. Such a switch, which is available at a nominal cost, is used to warn other motorists when your car is stopped or stalled on the highway or just off the road. It is of particular use on fast roads or expressways. Often other safety measures, such as flags or flares cannot be seen in time. And since nearly all automobiles today have turn signals already on them, this device makes possible a universally understood signal.

Our interest in this safety device is not new. We have had one on our own personal car for some time. It has come in handy on several occasions, when the car has refused to go at the wrong time.

Stopping for any emergency can be an extremely dangerous situation. It not only creates a hazard to you but also to the other drivers on the road. The stopped vehicle is a sitting duck for a rear end collision, a type of accident which is becoming more and more prevalent all the time. We feel that the flasher can eventually become known as a universal S.O.S. warning of a stopped vehicle. In New York State next year, the flasher will be mandatory on all new cars, and the following year, the flasher becomes standard equipment on all Federally-owned vehicles. Also next year, the flasher will be optional equipment on all new American cars and many imports.

The Virginia State Police has recently revised its inspection manual to allow for use of the flasher. The only stipulation is that it must not be used while the vehicle is in motion. It is possible for other drivers to confuse a private automobile with an emergency vehicle if it is used while moving. Thus it is illegal to use the flasher on a moving vehicle.

We honestly feel that this device, used for so many years on buses and trucks engaged in interstate commerce, is a fine thing. And we recommend the use of the hazard flasher to all drivers. One never knows when an emergency could arise, and a simple, inexpensive device could be a life-saver. We are always looking for anything that will make our roads and highways safer, and now that this flasher is generally accepted and available, we feel that it probably should be mandatory.

Saturday Was A Good Day

Never before have we spent quite as enjoyable a day as Saturday, June 19, 1965. We attended two important events for Virginia Beach, both of which made us extraordinarily proud to live here. We attended the Governor's Day ceremonies at Camp Pendleton of the Virginia National Guard, and we attended the outstanding dedication ceremonies of the beautiful new General Hospital of Virginia Beach. In our opinion, both were momentous occasions.

In chronological order, the Camp Pendleton ceremonies came first. Some four to five hundred persons from all over the state were there enjoying the ceremony and the hospitality of the Guard. It was an impressive ceremony. Eight jets flew over in a roar and dipped their wings in honor of the Governor and there was a nineteen gun salute to him also. The band played its spirited military music. Presentations of achievement and recognition were made. The troops stood smartly at attention. And the whole thing went off without a hitch. Governor Harrison, in his friendly manner, made note of the fact that Governor's Day here has been one of his most enjoyable duties as Governor of Virginia during the past four years.

That same afternoon, we joined some five hundred other persons at the dedication of the new General Hospital of Virginia Beach. It too was an impressive ceremony, but its significance is indeed more important. The Governor spoke there too, saying that it has always been his pleasure to dedicate any new building, but particularly a facility dedicated to the relieving of human suffering.

The dedication itself was a poignant event . . . the culmination of years of planning and dreaming. And the facility itself stands for all to see as a monument to those who made it possible. The few words spoken in the short ceremony were important but could never tell the true story of the hard work that went into the period of time leading up to the dedication ceremony.

We took a full tour of the building. Words can barely describe the interior. It has everything. We could find nothing lacking in equipment. The new hospital will serve Virginia Beach for many years to come.

So Saturday was a good day all around. We witnessed two important events, and we felt all the better for having been there.

BASKIN IN THE SUN

By GORDON BASKIN

I had a father who used to say that a man who died in the certain knowledge that he had three real friends was a fortunate man. I'm inclined to agree. We all have many acquaintances, but the number of friends is in very short supply. I suspect that one of the reasons is that many of our friendships never ripen because we never indicate to the potential friend how we really feel about them. There is a tendency to appear sophisticated at the expense of expressing our real feelings about people. This is wrong, and makes for a cold life. It is time that people had something to say about the people they know well.

I'll start.

Never know a finer man than a friend of mine. He's a Virginian whose wants are simple. Doesn't want to be rich, just wants to hang out with rich folks. Doesn't want the care of all that money, just wants to live like he's loaded. My kind of man. The kind who ponders before he says what he thinks, and doesn't care if his statements cause a large number of dropped jaws. You can go so far as to say that he's the kind of man you'd like to have at your back if you were in a tight spot. You'd never have to look over your shoulder to see if he was holding up his end.

Even disposition. Likes a few things that might not come to the attention of the multitude; but since they are not likely to get to know this man or understand him, it doesn't cause him any loss of sleep. He has a good solid view of himself and if anyone told him that his remarks made people uncomfortable because they did not conform to the popular view, all it would fetch up would be a wry grin.

Easy to be around. You do not have to guard your tongue at all times, since he has a respect for the flat-footed opinions of others no matter how much he may disagree. He takes a drink if he wants one, plays poker like he put himself through school dealing five card draw, has a mother and brothers and sisters who are very close. Has a wife and a small boy. I'd say that those two are a very lucky pair.

Does not underestimate the value of the simple things in life. Says that the world would be a better place to live if everyone, for example, would realize the value of a bowl of strawberries at the end of a long day spent dealing with bureaucrats and poor decisions. Says that strawberry time helps get him through the year.

Under the circumstances, I'll not mention his name. He wouldn't like it and doesn't need the publicity. He'll know who I'm talking about if he reads this. I hear he might not be around here forever. I'm not surprised, since he's too good a man to have to put up with inefficient working conditions. If he leaves, it'll be our loss. If he does cut out, I'd like to wish him a few things; plenty of strawberries and heavy cream, no second-best pot hands, a sufficient quantity of good whisky, a place in the sun where his considered opinion gets the attention it deserves, a few friends who play golf, a place to live that is not crowded by a herd of non-thinkers, and a long life for him, and for his.

Boys Needed To Play Ball

VIRGINIA BEACH — Boys between ages eight and twelve are needed by the Virginia Beach Little League Farm Team.

These boys, according to Farm Team Director C. M. Reed, must live in the area bounded on the East by the Atlantic Ocean, the north by Fort Story, the south by 31st St. and the west by Linlner.

Reed announced this is the first year that uniforms are available for most of the boys. There will be a few vacancies on the major league teams in the next two weeks.

All boys interested in playing Little League ball should report to Virginia Beach High School Athletic Field Saturday at 10 a.m. and bring their birth certificates with them. Any father interested in working with one of the teams should call Reed at 428-5548.

The Cubs beat the Sports 14 to 11. Winning pitcher was Danny Dombrowski and losing pitcher was Jim Gentry. Charles Griffin socked a homer for the Sports in the third inning with the bases loaded.

In the second game, the Tigers pounced over the Rotarians 2 to 0, winning pitcher being

Beach Youth Navy's Guest

LITTLE CREEK — A Virginia Beach youth is one of 135 top high school science students from 24 states and Canada selected by the Navy to take part in its Navy Science Cruisers program which got underway at Little Creek Tuesday.

The local Cruiser is Glenn T. Webb, son of Capt. and Mrs. Charles D. Webb, who was chosen for his entry in last May's Tidewater Science Conference. His science project, the study of the relative operating efficiency of various types of small antennas, won the NASA Award and the Science Cruiser Award.

The Navy Science Cruisers, as the students are called, consist of high school boys with unusually high scientific aptitudes. They were chosen by a panel of Navy judges.

During their week long stay at Little Creek Amphibious Base as guests of the Navy, they will see the practical application of science, engineering and mathematics in the Armed Forces by touring various military installations.

Highlight of the program will be a day at sea aboard the dock landing ship Lindenwald where the students will see a demonstration of Navy Frogmen tactics and take dockside tours of the submarines Sirago and Torsk and the repair ship Vulcan.

The Navy has provided this scientifically oriented cruise-tour in hopes of stimulating creative interest and abilities in science and to give special recognition to outstanding science students.

On hand to welcome the group at Little Creek Tuesday were Miss Norfolk Jean Inge, Miss Hospitality Vickie Latimer, Brig. Gen. Gordon D. Gayle, Norfolk Councilman Sam Barfield, Norfolk Hospitality Committee Chairman John R. Burton and Downtown Merchants Association Chairman K. V. Orloff.

A ROUND-UP: BANDS, DEDICATION, GOVERNOR'S DAY

Virginia Beach Sun

VIRGINIA BEACH, VIRGINIA, THURSDAY, JUNE 24, 1965

Governor Harrison chats with a "Pink Lady," a member of the Hospital Auxiliary, during a full in the open house tour of the new facility following dedication ceremonies.

A line-up of dignitaries applaud Governor Harrison as he prepared to dedicate the new General Hospital of Virginia Beach.

George D. Brooks, who spearheaded the drive for the hospital and was its first president, spoke briefly at the dedication ceremonies Saturday afternoon.

Something's gotta give — will it be the youngsters of the incoming band. Neither. The fascinated children only appeared to be sitting in the middle of Atlantic Avenue. They were so engrossed in the Music Festival parade they were unaware of the cameraman.

of

Ruby Jean Phillips is guest writer this week for vacationing Doris Padrick.

With the Tenth Annual Virginia Beach Boardwalk Art Show looming around the corner (July 15-19), this is the time of year when most of us turn to thoughts of what type paintings would look best on which wall space. Would a still life look better in the hall than a landscape or should we put an abstract over that table instead of a pen and ink? Such decisions usually fall on the shoulders of womenfolk . . . unless you happen to be placing a portrait. Then husbands become experts on art.

There is something about a portrait, whether it be of wife or child, that brings out a normally unseen trait in husbands. Where they usually are apathetic — or is it resigned — to their wives selection and placement of art, a portrait seemingly entitles them to an outburst of advice and suggestions and the inevitable criticisms.

If the wife likes the portrait she is quite likely to hear such remarks as "It's terrible. Doesn't look at all like you. Put it in a closet or a back room." But if she doesn't like it then she's more likely to hear "It's the best likeness I've ever seen. Hang it in the living room." Such conflicts of taste could lead to divorce. But they seldom do. The wife, rather knowingly, overcomes such obstacles by casually placing the portrait in a conspicuous place until the entire family becomes so accustomed to the painting that its placement causes no problems.

We have such a portrait in our house. It's an impressionistic oil on paper. The subject thinks it is a very good likeness — "A side of me that no one ever sees." The rest of the family disagrees and they have drawn the support of many close friends.

Fortunately, the subject had been prepared for this response by the artist. During the hours they had "worked" together the artist often said a portrait is one type of art that friends feel free to criticize. "We never think of people with their mouths closed. They are either talking or laughing or smiling or eating when we are with them so we never carry mental pictures of anyone with their mouth closed. That's why the first criticism of a portrait is usually 'there's something about the mouth!'"

The sittings were most rewarding for the subject and the development of the portrait was fascinating. With each stroke of the brush the artist changed an expression or brought out a characteristic. As the colors blended together to create facial features, the subject found it more and more difficult to stay within the confines of the sitting platform and when curiosity became all consuming would dash from behind the easel to see what progress the artist was making.

It took two sittings of about three hours each but it was never tedious or boring. The artist carried on an interesting and informative conversation, varying the topics from art to the world situation to the progress of Virginia Beach and on to many other timely topics. At last, the artist stepped back, eyed her work and declared it finished.

One would have thought the subject was bringing a new baby home from the hospital when she came in with the portrait. The family gathered around, excitedly urged her to "hurry up, hurry up, let us see it." She slowly turned the painting toward them. Silence. Not even a gasp or an oooh or an ahhh. Just silence. Finally the husband spoke.

"I don't know. There's something about the mouth . . ."

Ruster Phelan, who succeeded George Brooks as president of the hospital board of directors, takes his turn as speaker during the dedication, praising the people of Virginia Beach for their efforts in making the hospital a reality.

The heavy rains that plagued the Fourth Annual Music Festival cancelled all marching exhibitions except the grand parade late Thursday afternoon. Judges, pictured in the background, conducted judging in the marching category during the parade.

Governor Harrison gave his last Governor's Day address before the Virginia National Guard Saturday morning at Camp Pendleton. General Beebe and a National Guard unit listen attentively.

In a brief moment, as crowds file through a hospital hallway, Sidney Kellam (facing camera) and Hospital Administrator Earl Willis (back to camera) grab a word with Governor Harrison.

STRONG CHURCHES...

make STRONG COMMUNITIES

BEEN SHOPPING LATELY?

Sure! People go shopping for many things. Even a Church! But, that, they take Dad along!

Before you shopping for a Church, make sure you know what you're looking for. For a Church isn't a theatre to provide entertainment, nor a club to fortify one's social position, nor a foundation to channel our charities.

A Church is a SCHOOL that trains whole families in spiritual perception. It is a FACTORY that makes earnest Christians. They're in evidence all over town.

A Church is a TOWER, giving a glimpse of life's horizons, far beyond the petty problems of each day.

A Church is a WORK-SHOP where one volunteers his talents in the most challenging tasks that confront humanity.

And, of course, a Church is HOME — the place where we're appreciated, where we're one of the family!

But it doesn't hurt to admit that in one respect our churches are like our stores: There wouldn't be one in town if we didn't need what they offered.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL

ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor in the building of character and good citizenship. It is a source of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four stated reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Please go to church regularly and support your Bible study.

The Mixing Bowl

It's Fun To Cook

Keep a Handyman Dad Happy at Lunchtime

When Dad gets out the tool box on a Saturday, make quick plans to serve a lunch to replenish the "get-up-and-go" he expends in the morning chores. Canned dry soup mixes are a great starter. Now available in brightly colored single cans, homemakers can stock up on all of their favorites (there are seven kinds). Canned beef dry soup mix is a real he-man special, especially when bits of thinly sliced celery and diced carrots are added. Serve it for Saturday lunch accompanied by a hard roll, tall glass of milk, and a crunchy apple crisp dessert.

HANDYMAN'S LUNCH
¾ cup thinly sliced celery
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 can (3½ cups) beef dry soup mix
¾ cup cans (8 cups) cold water
½ cup dried cooked carrots
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
In saucepan, cook celery in butter until tender. Add soup mix. Gradually blend in water. Mix until smooth. Bring to boil, stirring often. Partially cover; simmer 10 minutes, stirring now and then. Add carrots and parsley; heat, stirring. Makes 4 servings.

Some quick and easy luncheon treats are always welcomed by Dad after a busy morning in the yard or in his workshop.

EASY CHILI

¾ cup chopped green pepper
1 lb. ground beef
¾ cup shortening
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon chili powder
½ teaspoon paprika
2 cups tomatoes
2½ cups kidney beans

Saute onions and green pepper and beef in the shortening, in a heavy skillet. Add seasonings and tomatoes; cook over low heat for 1 hour. Add kidney beans the last 15 minutes of cooking, serve hot.

CRAB BURGERS

1 cup flaked crab meat
¼ cup celery, cut fine
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
½ cup shredded or grated cheddar cheese
½ cup mayonnaise

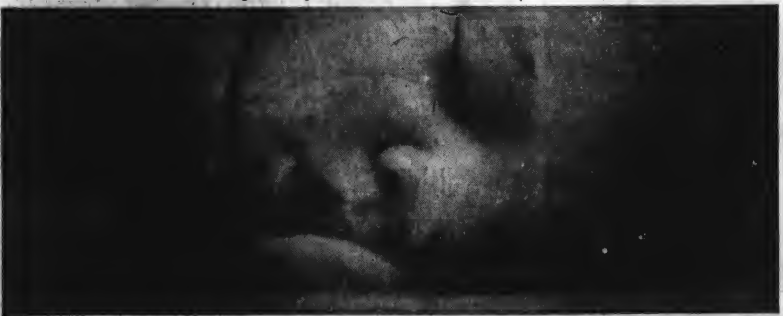

Combine all ingredients, spread on buttered halved hamburger buns. Broil until bubbly

JUMBO PIZZA SANDWICH

1 loaf Vienna bread
¾ cup chopped olives
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon oregano
1 minced garlic clove
2 tablespoons finely chopped chives
1 lb. ground beef
¾ cup Parmesan cheese
1 6 oz. can tomato paste
1 8 oz. pkg. sliced American cheese
14 thin slices of tomatoes

Cut bread in half lengthwise. Combine all ingredients except tomatoes and sliced American cheese. Saute few minutes. Spread over each half loaf of bread—cover to edges. Arrange 7 slices of tomato over each half. Place on cookie sheet and bake at 350 degrees for 15 minutes. Remove from oven and cover tomato slices with slices of cheese. Return to oven for 5 minutes. Remove and slice into servings of size desired. Serve hot.

TEEN TOPICS

Asst. Home Demonstration Agent

The well dressed girl of today often believes that variety in dress may be achieved successfully through skillful use of accessories. Accessories can add life and interest to an otherwise dull or tiresome costume. They are chosen for their beauty in design and color as well as for their usefulness.

Accessories complete a costume and express the personality and taste of the wearer. They include hats, shoes, handbags, scarves, jewelry, belts, handkerchiefs, flowers, perfume and collar and cuff sets. Accessories can prove costly if they are good for only one or two wearings. You will choose more wisely if you heed the following fashion hints.

Gloves never should be conspicuous. They should fit well and be comfortable. For most basic dresses and suits the best choice of gloves is a neutral or matching color. Bright-colored gloves to catch bright shoes and bag only call attention to the hands and give a spotted effect to the costume. When gloves match a bright colored hat, the eye is held within the boundary lines of the matching colors.

When selecting a hat you should remember that the width and height of a hat should be in balance with your face and figure proportions. Horizontal and curving lines round and broaden your face and figure. Vertical lines lengthen and slenderize your face and figure. Diagonal lines help to diminish bad features — for example, a square chin that is too prominent. The color of the hat must harmonize with the rest of the costume, but not necessarily match. Select a hat in about the same quality range as your suit or dress so that neither one cheapens the other.

The handbag for street or travel should be durable, simple in line and as large as the proportion of the individual allows. The material of the purse should harmonize with the rest of the costume or be the same as that of the shoes. Bags in lizard, calf, patent, kid and fabric are used for street or travel.

Shoes also should indicate the purpose of the costume. The street or travel shoe is tailored and of durable material. It is generally best to select a medium heel plain pump for street wear. Shoes, if they fit and are well-made, put you in the mood for happy living and serve you well if treated kindly.

Jewelry for the street or travel should be pearls, enamel porcelain, jet, plain gold or silver; not glistening stones. One choice piece of jewelry gives smart accent to a simple costume. When more than one piece of jewelry is worn, the pieces should be related in texture and type. If gold is used in earrings, it should appear in necklaces or bracelets. Gold and silver may be combined in the same design, but they clash when in separate pieces.

If you follow these simple hints when selecting your accessories you will find that you have developed more variety in your dress and you have added life and interest to costumes which might otherwise be dull or tiresome.

"Territory is but the body of a nation — the people who inhabit its hills and valleys are its soul, its spirit, its life." — Garfield

Hello folks. I have been asked by many of the Club members and leaders how we can increase enrollment in the 4-H Clubs of the City of Virginia Beach. There are many ways that it can be done, but the best way is for 4-H Club members to tell other people what they are doing and why they enjoy doing it.

Be Proud To Be a 4-H Club Member

Let people know that you are a member of the 4-H Clubs, which have more than 60,000 members in the State of Virginia, and more than 2,000,000 in the United States. Also that there are 76 countries around the World that have 4-H type organizations. Be proud to wear the 4-H emblem of the clover and its green and white colors. Never hesitate that while 4-H helps young people learn to become useful and desirable citizens, it also is a lot of fun.

Any Young Person Can Join 4-H

Let your friends know that the only requirements for 4-H Club membership are that you be between 10 and 19 years of age and that you agree to undertake at least one project. 4-H membership is not limited to those young people who live on a farm.

Projects To Suit Every Interest

Do your friends think of 4-H projects as just being the five-finger and field crops, or cooking and sewing? Tell them about the automotive project, photography, Home Grounds beautification, electricity, dog care, room and home improvement, small motors, good grooming, forestry, gardening, and many others.

4-H Is Fun

Let the young people in your neighborhood know about the recreational and social activities of your Club and City. Tell them about the cookouts, beach parties, dances, camps, and educational tours. Tell them how recreation is a part of every 4-H Club meeting. Let your friends know that as club members you plan most of your own activities and preside at your meetings.

Extension Service Helps to 4-H

You can surely tell them of the help you receive from the VPI Extension Service, in the way of helpful pamphlets and in project training. They should be informed that the Extension Service is backed up by the resources of the state colleges and the Federal Extension Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, and many other educational and research agencies of the state and federal government.

4-H Is For Everyone

Yes, even adults can get involved in the program. They can be an informal, activity or project (subject matter) leaders. They can encourage their children to accept more responsibility. Don't let not being from the country stop your interest in enjoying 4-H Club work. Help them to join today.

Silver Anniversary of 'Lost Colony'

This is the 25th production season of "The Lost Colony" outdoor drama, presented every summer — except for four World War II years — since 1937 in the Waterside Theatre at Fort Raleigh, on Roanoke Island, near Manteo, N.C. Opening night is Friday, June 25 and the play runs through September 5. Performances are scheduled nightly except Sunday at 8:15 (EST). Joe Layton (left inset in the picture of the Waterside Theatre) is the Director-choreographer. He is a famed Broadway and television theatre artisan. "The Lost Colony" was written by Paul Green of Chapel Hill, N.C. (right inset). Scenes and leading characters from the play are also pictured.

Tree Planting Largest Ever

PORTSMOUTH — The 1964-65 planting season was the biggest on record for the Portsmouth District of the Virginia Division of Forestry. Tree seedling sales soared to a high of 940,000 seedlings, most of which were loblolly pine.

The Portsmouth District handles seedling sales for reforestation purposes in the counties of Nansemond, Isle of Wight, Accomack, Northampton and the Cities of Chesapeake and Virginia Beach. 380,000 loblolly pines were planted in Nansemond; 179,500 in Isle of Wight; 265,000 in Accomack; 56,000 in Northampton; 38,500 in Chesapeake; and 12,000 in Virginia Beach. 6,500 red cedar and 1,000 yellow poplar seedlings were also planted in the District. 52,763,000 of all species were planted in Virginia during the 1964-65 season. Approximately 44,000,000 were planted last season.

Foresters with the Virginia Division of Forestry give private landowners technical assistance for the reforestation of their lands. Federal cost-share assistance is also available through the Agricultural Conservation Program as an incentive to conserve timber resources. To receive cost-share assistance, application is made at the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office. 50% to 80% of the cost of establishing a forest is shared by the ACP.

Farmers Help Conserve Water

Drastic restrictions on the use of water in New York City have again centered attention on the conservation of this natural resource.

Farmers, cooperating with their soil and water conservation districts, are doing many things to conserve water. City and urban residents can do likewise, it was stated this week by Tom F. McGourin, State Conservationist, U.S. Soil Conservation Service, headquartered at Richmond, Virginia.

"Conservation work done on farms benefits not only the farmers themselves but also city and urban people," McGourin said. "Much of the water they conserve ends up in city reservoirs."

In watering lawns and gardens, McGourin pointed out, urbanites can be careful in applying no more water than is needed.

"Water that's allowed to run from gardens and lawns into the street is wasted," Mr. McGourin said. "Likewise leaky faucets are extremely wasteful."

Gardeners can help conserve water by mulching vegetable rows, flowers and shrubs. The mulch material, such as peat moss, wood chips and salt marsh hay, conserves water by keeping the soil cool and retarding evaporation, Mr. McGourin pointed out.

Other conservation measures used on the farm can be applied to urban gardens in miniature, he said.

Of interest to urban and city people are two publications: "Soil Conservation At Home," and "Water Facts." Copies may be obtained at any local Soil Conservation Service office or by writing to the SCS State Office, 400 North Eighth Street, Richmond, Virginia.

HURRICANE SEASON NOT TO BE DREADED; TAKE PRECAUTIONS

NEW YORK — Hurricane season has rolled around again, and during the summer and early fall persons living in the Atlantic Seaboard states and on the Gulf Coast should look aloft to the weather and keep weather forecasts in mind, the American Insurance Association advised today.

Summer vacationers at seaside resorts in particular should remember that the normal course of hurricanes is up the Atlantic coast and precautions should be taken for personal safety if a hurricane threatens.

A hurricane warning system already has been set up in Miami, Florida by the United States Weather Bureau to keep constant watch for storms and to track their courses.

Last year there were six hurricanes, and four of these moved onshore causing heavy property damage, much of which was covered by insurance.

However, most insurance policies do not cover damage caused by wave wash, rising water and flooding, the Association said.

Three of the 1964 hurricanes struck Florida. They were Cleo on August 26, (insured damage $65 million); Dora on September 10, (insured damage $12 million); and Ibel on October 14, (insured damage $2 million).

Another hurricane, Hilda, struck the Louisiana coast on October 3 causing insured losses totaling $25 million.

ON DEAN'S LIST

VIRGINIA BEACH — Miss Peggy Holt Coleman recently completed her freshman year at Mount Vernon Junior College and has been named to the Dean's List.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Herbert of Atlantic Avenue.

These storms hit the United States after two years — 1962 and 1963 — in which there were no hurricanes to strike our coast.

A hurricane is a tropical storm, or tropical cyclone, carrying sustained winds of over 75 miles per hour, in velocity.

In the last 50 years, 96 hurricanes reached the continental United States, an average of almost two a year.

In each of four years — 1916, 1933, 1954 and last year — the United States mainland was hit by four hurricanes.

One of the most costly hurricanes from the standpoint of property damage in the past dozen years was Hurricane Carol, which struck New York (Long Island), New Jersey, and several New England states in 1954. After this storm, insurance companies paid $129,700,000 in losses.

Also, in 1954, Hurricane Hazel swept up the Atlantic coast causing insured losses totaling $122,050,000.

In 1961, Carla rushed into Texas and Louisiana causing insured property damage losses totaling $100,000,000.

Back in 1957, Audrey struck the Gulf Coast and caused 395 fatalities, although insured property losses were only $32,000,000.

Since then, hurricanes have taken some lives each year, but, thanks to advance warning by hurricane watchers the loss of life has been much smaller.

There were two hurricane fatalities in 1958, 24 in 1959, 65 in 1960, 46 in 1961, four in 1962, 11 in 1963, and 49 last year.

Obviously specific, precautions should be taken when a hurricane threatens, because a windstorm blowing at more than 75 miles per hour can pack a lethal punch.

HURRICANE PRECAUTIONS

What to do before a storm:

- If a storm threatens anywhere from the Caribbean to the U.S. mainland, your radio or television set will give you the latest information from the Weather Bureau. When a hurricane is born, U.S. Weather Bureau observers usually track it before the storm hits the continent. Observation planes are sent up to fly around and through the storm to gather first hand information as to the intensity of its winds. When a hurricane appears to be moving toward land, radio and television stations will break in with special bulletins telling of its position and the direction it is moving. Your newspaper will also keep you informed.

- If you have a battery-powered radio, keep it equipped with fresh batteries for use in an emergency because hurricanes frequently knock down electric transmission lines, causing power failures.

- If you live or are vacationing near a seashore, go inland if a hurricane is about to strike the area, and pick a place to stay on high ground. Hurricanes churn up the sea and when they hit, beaches and low waterfront areas may become flooded or swept by storm waves. And, high tides usually accompany them.

- Go inland early, the experts advise, if your passage to safety is over a road that is likely to be under water with high tides. Rising tides frequently occur several hours before a hurricane hits, so move to higher land well in advance of the arrival of the storm. Travel during a hurricane is dangerous.

- When you leave the lying area, take plenty of food and water in thermos bottles or jugs with you. In particular, stock food that can be eaten without cooking.

- If you are faced with riding out a hurricane in a house which is well-built and away from the water, that's possibly the best place for you to stay. Be sure you have a stock of food ample for several meals. Sterilize and fill pithers, kettles, pans, and thermos bottles with water for drinking — frequently the normal water supply is contaminated after a hurricane, and not safe for drinking. In many homes in coastal areas, residents also fill the bath tub with water for an extra supply.

- Stock food that not only can be eaten with little or no cooking, but also food that can be kept without refrigeration. Your refrigerator will not be working if the electric power goes off.

- Bring into the house or store in the garage any movable items such as porch furniture, lawn furniture, lawn swings, barbecue grills, garbage pails and other objects. A lawn chair, picked up by hurricane force winds, could easily be blown through a large picture window, possibly causing injury to a person or persons inside the house.

- Movable awnings should either be raised and tied securely or removed entirely. As a matter of course in hurricane areas, trees close to buildings should be kept pruned. Hurricane force winds can blow down dead or over-hanging branches, and when these fall, they can break windows or cause roof damage.

- If you have storm shutters which can be put in place over windows, put them up well in advance of the storm. In areas frequently ripped by hurricanes, some homeowners have a television service man take down TV aerials until after the blow. Be sure garage doors are closed.

WHAT TO DO DURING A HURRICANE

During a hurricane:

- Stay inside the building. Keep your radio tuned to a local station for bulletins as to where the storm is and in which direction it is moving.

- When hurricane winds begin blowing, one or more windows in the house on the lee side — the side opposite from which the wind is blowing — should be kept open to provide ventilation and to prevent wind damage under certain conditions. If hurricane force winds should blow a hole in the windward side of the building or drive a flying object through the side of the house, wind pressure will build up inside the structure. However, if you adjust the windows on the lee side this will allow the pressure to escape and reduce the possibility of having wind pressure lift the roof or push out the walls.

- Be careful with fire, if oil lamps or candles are used for lighting, make sure they are not in a place where they will tip over.

AFTER A HURRICANE

After a hurricane:

- Don't leave the house, except in extreme emergency, until you know roads and streets are clear, and free of rubble and fallen electric wires.

- Stay home so you will not hinder first aid or rescue work. If you are not qualified to render important emergency assistance, stay away from areas heavily hit by the storm.

- If you have to drive your automobile immediately after a storm, drive carefully and watch for fallen wires and tree branches. Near swollen streams or flooded inlets, keep watch for washouts and undermined pavements. Rescue workers as well as ordinary residents should drive with extreme care and be ready to cope with any contingency.

- Never, under any circumstance, touch fallen or dangling power lines or electric wires and keep away from all wires and steel fences. In a violent hurricane, live power lines can become entangled with metal fences, telephone and other wires, and contact could be fatal.

- If your water service is affected, boil drinking water until you have been told service has been restored and your local Health Department says that the water is safe to drink.

- Always be careful with fire during and after a storm. Your telephone service could be disrupted by the hurricane, and you might find it impossible to phone the fire department. And, if you are successful in reaching the department, the response of fire apparatus could be delayed if the streets are filled with uprooted trees, fallen limbs, or rubble left by the storm. And, if the water service has been damaged, low water pressure could make fire fighting difficult.

- Above all, keep calm.

JERRY LEWIS FOUND HIMSELF A NEW GIRL — Well, just in the make-believe world of the movies. In his new comedy, "The Family Jewels," a Paramount release in Technicolor opening Wednesday at the Beach Theatre, Jerry introduces to the screen a new leading lady, Donna Butterworth. She is a vivacious brunette, only nine years old, who was brought all the way from Hawaii to star in the film. Although she appears in almost every scene, her job seems easy when compared to Jerry's—he is the producer and director and yet, he still has energy to portray seven different roles.

Jerry Lewis Compiles Slangue Thesaurus

The slang of show business has always been colorful and the movie makers, down through the years, have managed to add considerable hue to theatrical vernacular.

Jerry Lewis, who collects basic show business colloquialisms, has come up with several pages of material gleaned from the set of his new comedy, "The Family Jewels," a Paramount release opening Wednesday at the Beach Theatre. Jerry has jotted them down in note form in preparation, he says, for a proposed thesaurus of theatrical slang.

"In what other business would the guy who handles the placing of artificial flowers around a set be known to co-workers as 'Joe Gernium'?" asked Jerry.

A 'Joe Blow', for instance, is the man who operates the giant wind machines which waft gentle breezes or manufacture a tropical hurricane at the touch of a switch. And a makeup man is known throughout the industry as a 'Sam Smog'.

'Joe' and 'Sam', as a matter of fact, are commonly-used first names for many nicknamed technical boys. When you hear an assistant director yelling for 'Joe Raincoat' he's calling for the studio plumber who is around to turn on the artificial rain. And when he calls for 'Sam Shovel' he's putting in a call for the company laborer who does most of the digging jobs.

There's also 'Sam Smog', the fog-maker, 'Joe Brush', the company painter, and 'Joe Muff', the makeup man who specializes in putting artificial beards on the chins of character actors. Comedian Lewis says that the most popular of all these appro-

UNIQUE RADIO SPOTS

Nearly all of the Tidewater radio stations are carrying the markedly unique "religious" spot announcements created by Stan Freberg for the United Presbyterian Church.

These spots will be heard throughout the day over more than 70 radio stations in Virginia and the District of Columbia during the next six weeks. They started Sunday and will continue through July 31.

Tidewater stations carrying the spots include WVEC "AM" and FM; WGH AM and FM; WCMS AM and FM; WNCR AM and FM; WAVY; WHHH; and WKVK.

The spots, which were coordinated through the joint efforts of the Virginia Council of Churches and the Council of Churches of Greater Washington, D.C., employ dialogue with a light satirical touch and music with a Broadway sound to drive home the central thought that life is distorted without God.

Notes from Your Agricultural Agent

FLOWERING ANNUALS

Annual flowering plants such as ageratum, marigold, petunia, zinnia, and zinnia provide much color for summer months.

The homeowner can either buy the seed and start the plants or buy started plants (of many animals) from a commercial producer. Started plants are often in bloom when offered for sale, and this allows the homeowner to select the colors he wants.

Before selecting annuals, however, decide where they will be grown and for what purpose. Some are best suited to use as bedding plants and should be grouped to give a mass of color in the flower border. Others are best used as border plants; others as low-edging around beds and walks. The tall annuals are best in quick-growing screens. Many are grown to be used as cut flowers, and there are those that can be dried and used indoors during winter.

When planting the flower border, factors such as height, season of bloom, foliage, and habit of growth should be considered. The amount of each kind used depends on the distance from which the border is viewed. Groups of one kind running lengthwise in the border, rather than across it, usually give a better effect from a distance.

In starting annuals from seed, cosmos, zinnias, and marigolds can be sown directly in the beds where they are grown. The smaller seeded annuals such as petunias, snapdragons, and begonias require more careful sowing and handling. They should be sown in containers indoors and transplanted when large enough to handle.

Annuals should not be planted outdoors until all danger of frost has passed. Annuals started in a 2½-inch pot will transplant more easily than those growing in flats or beds. A cloudy day is more desirable than a clear day for transplanting.

The distance and spacing in the border or garden depends on the type of annual. A small-growing species should be planted 4 inches by six inches. Larger varieties should be spaced 12 to 18 inches apart. After planting annuals, it is desirable to topdress with 5-10-5 fertilizer and then apply a light mulch of sawdust, peat moss, or other available organic material.

BEACH CLUB CITED FOR CHARITY WORK

VIRGINIA BEACH — An energetic, civic-minded group of local men, the Virginia Beach Citizens Band Club, Inc., has been commended to the Federal Communications Commission for its public service to help crippled and elderly children and adults.

The Board of Directors of United Federal Bank of Maryland, Hampton Roads at its June meeting approved sending written commendation to the F.C.C. in Washington, D.C. for the voluntary work done by the C.B. Club members during UCP fund raising campaign in May.

Led by their President, Curtis D. Hadden, the Club provided transportation and communication for UCP. Their Tag Day and for the largest event, the Presidential Dinner involving more than 10,000 volunteers, collectors, and donors.

Addressed to F.C.C. Chairman Mr. E. William Henry, the commendation from UCP President Robert V. Fischbeck reads: "We are taking this opportunity to commend to you the wonderful public service performed by the Tidewater Citizens Band Clubs in our annual campaign this year. Camp Training Given To Volunteers

DEEP CREEK — Camp TARCO in service training was held last week at a camp site near Deep Creek. The teenagers from Tidewater who met at camp last spring for volunteer work with the retarded children at camp were present on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday for the special program.

On Wednesday they met with Mrs. Ruth Caplan, director of the Volunteer Service Bureau; Ronnie Cowan, director of Camp TARCO; and Mrs. Hester Moore, director of Red Cross Youth. A film explaining retardation to the teenage volunteers was shown, after which Mrs. Lois Nelson, Volunteer Field Consultant for Red Cross Youth, spoke on Safety and First Aid. Lunch was held. Lt. Roane of the Chesapeake Police department presented "Accident Prevention", and Doctor E. Y. Ching, "Our Campers".

Thursday's session was held from 10:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. with swimming. Mrs. Irene Peters, volunteer Red Cross Water Safety instructor, gave hints and tips on safety and practice teaching.

Mr. Cowan, director of Camp TARCO, conducted the Friday session and the Senior Counselors were met. After lunch, Miss Myra Spears of the Norfolk Recreation Bureau showed games and play suitable for the campers.

BASE HIRES GIRL

LITTLE CREEK — The U.S. Naval Amphibious Base, Little Creek, has made its first placement under the President's Youth Opportunity Campaign. Miss Shirley Mae Goodman, a June graduate of Union Kempsville High School, has been employed in the Supply Department as a Summer Working Aid.

By working during the Summer months Miss Goodman hopes to further her education by attending Norfolk Division of Virginia State College in September.

This program, sponsored by the President, is to provide funds to enable many students between the ages of 16 and 21 to go or return to school and to provide needed job training to those who do not plan to return to school. Federal, State, and local agencies and private industry have been requested to participate in the program to the fullest extent within their capabilities.
